District Jail Prisoner's Death Probed

Senate Bloc Seeks to Tag McCarthy as Liar on Floor

Democrats Set Out To Show State Dept. Accuser Never Had Claimed 'Red' List

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

In a performance unparalleled in recent years, an organized group of Democratic Senators yesterday set out to demonstrate, on the Senate floor, that one of their Republican colleagues was a liar.

The target was Wisconsin's Joseph R. McCarthy.

The performance, staged to cast doubt on the credibility of his basic charges of Communist infestation of the State Department, appeared to be deliberate. It was played off with the precision of a well-trained ball team.

While McCarthy roared that they should "stop playing this silly numbers game," and while Senate Minority Leader Wherry (R., Nebr.) shouted that the dignity of the Senate was being defiled, a troupe of nine Democrats pressed on, undismayed, to contend:

1. That a speech McCarthy read into the Congressional Record on February 20, when he launched his campaign in the Senate against the State Department, and which he identified as a speech he gave 11 days before in Wheeling, W. Va., did not in fact contain the crucial accusation that he made there.

2. That, although McCarthy has been denying that he said it, or has been evading questions about it, he actually said at Wheeling that he had "in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the Secretary of State as being members of the Communist Party" and who are "still" in the department.

3. That he did not, and does not, have such a list.

4. That the only inference possible from his allegation—since it related to a situation as of July, 1946—was that not merely Dean Acheson, but also former Secretaries of State Byrnes and Marshall knowingly tolerated the existence of 205 Communists in their department.

5. That if the accusation could not be proved, public opinion should "scourge" the accuser from the Senate and from public life, and leave him "branded with the mark of Cain."

Yesterday afternoon's performance, the like of which veteran Capitol aides could not recall ever having seen before, marked the first time since McCarthy launched his charges that the Democrats took the offensive against him.

The prologue was performed by Majority Leader Lucas (Ill.), who read a statement of the day before by Depty Undersecretary of State John E. Peurifoy.

In it, Peurifoy confirmed the fact that all of McCarthy's "81

Coan's Grand Slam Wins for Nats, 4-3

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

All of a sudden, fast-thinking Gil Coan devised the perfect strategy last night in the seventh inning—a home run with the bases full—and executed it with a blast over the right field wall to deliver a 4-3 victory to the Nats, over the Browns.

And it was with an eye to the dramatic that Coan delivered. Two were out, the Browns were leading, 3-0, and the Nats were wondering if they were doomed to a four-hit shut-out by Ned Garver.

Not only that, but Coan was looking exceedingly futile at that point, hitless for the night, and with Garver shoving two quick strikes past him. Then it was that Coan went for his grand slam, and trotted happily across the plate behind the Messrs. Mickey Grasso, Clyde Vollmer and Eddie Yost.

That blow made a winning pitcher out of Sid Hudson, who was pulled for a pinch hitter earlier in the inning after giving

Liaquat Ali Feted Here By Truman

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

East and West had a friendly meeting at the National Airport yesterday when Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan and his wife arrived as guests of the American people.

President Truman, who was on hand with half of his Cabinet, called it a "historical" occasion, and gave his visitor a warm handshake that was meant to make him feel at home.

A 19-gun salute and colorful ceremonies greeted the Prime Minister, who is leader of the largest Moslem nation and the fifth most populous country in the world.

Last night, at a small state dinner at Blair House, the President proposed a toast to "the newest republic and its great Prime Minister." He also mentioned "the great hero of that republic," the late Mohammed Ali Jinnah, the founder of modern Pakistan.

The Prime Minister answered that his people drew their inspiration from the United States. "You are undoubtedly the real democracy," he said, and he expressed a fervent hope that Pakistan could contribute to world peace.

Official guests at the dinner were the Chief Justice and Mrs. Vinson, Speaker Rayburn, Secretary and Mrs. Acheson, Senator and Mrs. Tom Connally, the Ambassador-designate to Canada and Mrs. Stanley Woodward, and Mrs. Perle Mesta, Minister to Luxembourg. Miss Margaret Truman was also there with her singing teacher Helen Traubel, and Miss Traubel's husband, William Bas.

The Prime Minister and his official party dropped out of a gray sky in the President's blue and silver plane, the Independence, which had brought them from an overnight stop in Iceland.

From the moment the Prime Minister stepped out of his plane there was no doubt that this was an East-West occasion. Although he wore a Western business suit, he appeared with the black fur headdress known throughout the Moslem East as the "Jinnah cap."

The Prime Minister's wife, the university-trained Begum Liaquat Ali, was still more unmistakably Eastern. Over a pale blue silk dress with a flowing skirt, she wore a shawl of dove gray, embroidered in strips of gold and blue.

She stood with Mrs. Truman and Miss Margaret Truman while the Marine Band played the new Pakistani national anthem and the Star-Spangled Banner, and while the President and Prime Minister walked briskly past an honor guard of airmen, sailors, soldiers and Marines.

In a brief speech of welcome, President Truman expressed the hope that the Prime Minister and his party would "feel as much at home as Americans do when they visit your great country."

Liaquat Ali, a thick-set man with a suave and impassive manner, answered by bringing "the most friendly greetings of the 80 million men and women of Pakistan."

"Although we come from a distant country in the heart of Asia," he said, "and this is my

Unity Asked In Transport Command

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Camp Mackall, N. C., May 3.—Lieut. Gen. Lauris Norstad, deputy chief of Air Force staff and commander of Operation Swarmer, said today he will propose some unification of the USAF Troop Carrier Command and Military Air Transport Service.

He told The Washington Post he is convinced there must be a closer association of the two transport services if the Nation is to have airborne forces capable of rapid action in an emergency.

Norstad said he had not concluded what form his unifying proposal will take, but that something more than the temporary pooling of their forces such as in Swarmer or the Berlin Airlift is required. The maneuvers successfully tested the application of the latter to combat conditions.

"They might be combined under one transport command or simply provide a lateral link to keep policy and doctrine similar," said the General. "My recommendation may be somewhere between those two extremes."

For Joint Airborne Force

Yesterday, Norstad and other commanders of the airborne tests just winding up backed the creation of "the major elements" of a joint airborne task force. They called for establishment of an airborne corps of at least two divisions, plus a strengthened tactical air force.

Asked about the demand of Maj. Gen. James Gavin and other airborne soldiers for an increase in USAF troop carrier forces to give paratroopers additional training, Norstad said he did not see how this could be done within the 48-group Air Force. Anyhow, he added, that was a question for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

His proposal today for a closer linking of MATS and Troop Carrier appeared to be an effort to step up the training and readiness of the airborne divisions without creating more troop carrier groups and assure that all of the Air Force's transport forces are prepared to take part in a combat airlift if required.

Strategic Airlift by MATS

MATS is charged with "strategic airlift" and now largely moves military freight and passengers on regular schedule to various parts of the globe. Troop Carrier's principal function is tactical movement of military forces, but it is pressed into service for a great deal of freight hauling.

There are six Troop Carrier groups, two equipped with Fairchild Packets and one with Douglas C-54 in the United States, and one Packet and two C-54 and C-74 groups overseas. The two paratroop-dropping Packet groups in this country have a total of 85 planes. Most of MATS' planes are Douglas, C-54s, C-47s or C-74s.

Norstad praised the way both Troop Carrier and MATS units operated in Operation Swarmer but said "we shouldn't rely on ad hoc organization." Brig. Gen. Willard R. Wolfinbarger, who headed air units in the maneuvers, said one of the chief lessons of Swarmer was learning how our strategic and tactical airlift forces can be "wedded" together. MATS learned much from Troop Carrier and vice versa.

Interstate Crime Quiz Is Voted by Senate

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

The Senate yesterday voted to set up a special five-man committee with a $150,000 budget to make a sweeping investigation of interstate crime and its "corrupting" influence on politics.

The probe will be the biggest Federal move on Nation-wide crime since the Government stepped in to smash the Prohibition rackets in the 1930's.

But it took the vote of Vice President Barkley, who under the Constitution may vote only in case of a tie, to beat back a Republican move to have the probe handled by the Judiciary Committee. The vote was 36 to 35.

Senator Kefauver, the first-term Tennessee Democrat who has fought patiently for months for such a crime investigation, is certain to be named chairman. Barkley, who was empowered to name the committee from members of the Judiciary and Interstate Commerce groups, said he would delay a day or two before naming the members.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) tried to win approval of an amendment to allow the minority leader to name the two GOP members on the five-man group but he was beaten on a straight party-line vote, 39 to 31.

On the substitute tie vote, four Southern Democrats—Byrd and Robertson of Virginia, Eastland of Mississippi and McClellan of Arkansas—bolted the party to vote with the GOP. One Republican Senator who could have cast the deciding vote walked off the floor some minutes before the roll call.

The fight over the substitute involved the question of which Republicans would be named to the committee. Senator Donnell (R., Mo.) in a nearly three hour speech demanded that Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) be named. But the substitute was drafted by the Democratic Policy Committee, it has been generally reported, in order to keep Ferguson, and probably Donnell, off the committee.

Likely members, besides Kefauver, and Senators Johnson (D.,

5 Inquiries Seek Cause Of Inmate's Sudden End

Guards, Hospital Interne, Among Those Facing FBI, Other Questioning

By Ben Bradlee
Post Reporter

The Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday began an inquiry into the mysterious death Friday night of a District Jail inmate.

Four other Government agencies also were probing the death of Leroy Davis, 30, who collapsed to the tier outside cell number 215 shortly after 9 p. m.

Police officials reported that a struggle ensued when guards were summoned to quiet Davis just before he died.

The FBI was ready to question six prisoners, who reportedly witnessed the death, four guards, and a Gallinger Hospital intern.

Death Certificate

District Coroner Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald on Saturday issued a certificate of death by natural causes — a heart ailment — and Davis' body had been shipped to Fayetteville, N. C.

Davis died two days after he was admitted to await trial for housebreaking.

In addition to the FBI, separate investigations were being conducted by United States Attorney George Morris Fay, the Homicide Squad of the Metropolitan Police Department, Col. Curtis Reid, Superintendent of the District Jail, and Dr. MacDonald.

The coroner said yesterday the Davis death certificate was only temporary and that the case was still under investigation by his office.

Tests Incomplete

The cause of death was tentatively put down as "acute congestive heart failure," he said. Certain chemical tests have not been completed. He said the body bore no external marks.

Homicide Squad officials said their investigation was still continuing.

Lieut. John K. Baker, of the Homicide Squad said a guard and the interne were summoned to quiet Davis, who had been boisterous and noisy throughout the day.

When they entered the cell to remove Davis' cellmate and quiet Davis, Baker said Davis made a break for freedom.

Baker said it took several guards to subdue Davis. It was at this point, Baker said his investigators were told, that a sedative had been given Davis by hypodermic injection. The prisoner died almost immediately, Baker said.

"I feel it was a natural death," Baker said, "but we're open to all angles."

Dr. MacDonald said he had been told Davis had been boisterous and throwing water from the cell

Committee Approves Bill Giving Six Pools to District

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A bill to transfer control of six Washington swimming pools to the District Government was unanimously approved yesterday by the House District Committee.

Chairman John L. McMillan (D., S. C.) said the action was unanimous in favor of the move to take the pools away from Interior Department control.

McMillan said he expects to call up the bill for House action at the first opportunity. Best indications were the move might be made two weeks from Monday.

Committee approval was voted for the bill during a morning executive session.

While the committee was meeting, McMillan made public a report from Interior Secretary Chapman in which he said he would gladly support the bill if it were amended to provide for operation of the pools on a basis "of non-restricted access by all citizens irrespective of their race, creed, color or national origin."

The bill cleared the committee without the proviso asked by Chapman. There were some predictions this might produce sharp opposition in the House, despite the unanimous committee vote.

Other changes asked by Chapman that limited the bill to

Senate Group Hikes Old-Age Payments

By Mary Spargo

Higher pensions under the Social Security old-age retirement system without any increase in payroll tax rates for five years were voted yesterday by the Senate Finance Committee.

For the 2.9 million persons already retired, the bill would raise monthly payments more than 100 percent in the low-benefit groups and 60 percent in the higher brackets, for an average increase of 90 percent.

Under the terms of the committee's proposal, the tax would rise to 2 percent each on the employe and the employer in 1956, 2½ percent in 1960, 3 percent in 1965 and a top of 3½ percent in 1970.

Chairman Walter F. George (D., Ga.) announced the major policy decisions on benefits and financing.

The 2.9 million persons now receiving Old-Age and Survivors insurance benefits receive the 90 percent average increase. The average primary benefit of approximately $26 per month for a retired insured worker at pres-

Unit Cuts Tax On 'Economy' Cigarettes

The House Ways and Means Committee, in a 13-to-12 upset, yesterday voted a tax cut of 2.1 cents a pack on "economy brand" cigarettes.

The 7-cent Federal levy now prevailing on all brands was retailed for the higher-priced so-called standard brands.

The cut, tantamount to a graduated tax on cigarettes, permits a price differential of 5 cents in favor of the economy brands.

Cigarettes now selling at 14 cents a pack would retail at 12 cents, if the cut becomes law, while the standard brands would presumably continue to sell at 17 cents a pack.

Conflicting estimates were issued on the cost of the cut. The Treasury said a net revenue loss of 90 million dollars would result but sponsors of the slash claimed it wouldn't cost the Treasury over 10 million dollars.

The committee also cut the tax on plug and twist tobacco from 18 cents to 8 cents a pound, at an estimated loss of 4.5 million dollars, but left the tax on cigars and other tobacco products unchanged.

The day's action thus raised the grand total of excise tax reductions already voted by the committee to $1,064,500,000 if Treasury estimates are used as a base.

The total shot $409,500,000 over President Truman's limit of 655 million dollars on excise reductions and raised the odds on a presidential veto as more cuts were rumored.

Mr. Truman has asked loophole plugging and increased corporation, inheritance and gift taxes to more than make up the loss. Each increase reduced prospects that the committee could offset the cuts with new revenue.

Yesterday's cut in the Federal tax on economy brand cigarettes came on motion of one of the committee's junior members, Representative Hale Boggs (D., La.), over the strenuous objections of 86-year-old Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.).

Doughton, who since 1934 has stoutly resisted any tax differential on cigarettes based on price, contended throughout the hearings that the tobacco growers and

Lie Will Ask Stalin to Help End Cold War

Paris, May 3 (AP).—Secretary General Trygve Lie of the United Nations said today he is going to carry his "save the U. N." mission to Moscow May 10 and—he hopes—directly to Prime Minister Stalin.

He hopes to achieve a world conference—a meeting of the United Nations Security Council with heads of states and representatives of all U. N. members—to end the cold war and heal a split he said is threatening to lead "sooner or later to a third world war."

"The most critical situation since 1945 has developed this year not only for the United Nations but for the future of the world itself," the U. N. official told a news conference. "We are at the crossroads.

"A new and great effort must be made, I believe, and it must be begun this year to bring the cold war to an end."

The Secretary General said he would fly to Moscow a week hence, expecting to stay several days and hoping to see Soviet leaders.

He is taking with him Constantin Zinchenko, a Soviet citizen and assistant secretary general for Security Council affairs.

"The first step" in ending the cold war, Lie declared, "must be to restore the United Nations as a meeting place for the negotiation and conciliation of differences and conflicts among the great powers."

Russia has walked out of 22 U. N. meetings since January 10 because China was represented by Nationalists instead of Communists.

Col. Tilley Guilty of Bigamy; Gets Discharge and Two Years

Col. Ralph C. Tilley, 54, yesterday was found guilty by a courts martial of bigamy for marrying a young Italian woman and of harboring an alien—the same woman.

The six-officer court sentenced him to two years at hard labor and directed that he be discharged from the Army and forfeit all pay rights.

Tilley, who has been attached to the Adjutant General's office, was taken into custody immediately after the verdict. Defense attorneys began efforts to persuade Maj. Gen. Thomas W. Herren, commanding general of the Military District of Washington, to order Tilley's release pending final review of the verdict.

Tilley has been living with his first wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Tilley, at Falls Church, Va. Jonilde Bruno, 27, who says Tilley was married to her in Italy while he was serving in that country, is living in nearby Maryland with her 18-month-old son. She says Tilley is the father of the child.

War May Start Accidentally 'At Any Time,' Tydings Warns

Declaring that "this is a year of force—not of reason," Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) warned yesterday that a war may start "accidentally" any time.

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee told a Rotary Club luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel:

"I doubt if the Russians want war now. I know we don't. But if you start shooting down planes, if you start sending hundreds of thousands of youths from the Russian to the western zone . . . accidentally the powder keg may go off."

The Maryland Senator said it will be "remarkable" if the United States and Russia "can weather their disagreements without a conflagration."

He further warned that this Nation will physically be a "battlefield" if war comes again.

"In my opinion," he said, "nobody will win another war."

The Maryland Senator kept hammering home the point that with American-Soviet relations as serious as they are it was foolish to "have these forensic debates about incidental matters."

Although he did not say so, this was apparently a reference to the charges by Senator McCarthy of alleged Communist infiltration in the State Department. Tydings is chairman of a Senate subcommittee investigating these charges.

He painted a picture of sharp contrast between American and Russian preparedness.

The United States, he said, has eight divisions—Russia 100; we have no divisions in reserve, Russia has another hundred; we are spending 6 or 7 percent of our total national income on defense, Russia is spednig 25 percent of hers.

"I hope our people will not go for the few fleshpots here and there of economy at the expense of the country's defense," he said. "It would be the poorest economy."

Father Held in Baby's Death; Maid Faces Investigation

John C. Ferranto, 20-year-old Alexandria electrician, was held for the grand jury without bond last night on a charge of murdering his 2½-year-old stepson, Donald.

At the same time, Judge James R. Duncan—without citing a specific reason for doing so—ordered a witness held without bail for investigation.

The witness is Mrs. Emma W. Jenkins, 49, housekeeper at Ferranto's home, 110 S. Fayette st., Alexandria.

She was recalled to the stand in the afternoon after Judge Duncan held a long conference with attorneys for the defense and prosecution.

In the course of this second examination, she declared, raising a shaking right hand:

"I never laid a hand on that baby."

Judge Duncan, in holding her, said that "if Mrs. Jenkins is cleared by the investigation, she is to be put under bond as a material witness."

Maryland Lifer May Be Innocent, Warden Declares

Annapolis, Md., May 3 (AP).—The warden of Maryland Penitentiary has declared strong evidence exists that a man serving life for rape "may be entirely innocent."

A letter in which Col. Edwin T. Swenson discussed the case of James LaGuardia was released at a meeting of the Legislative Council today.

Swenson brought up the case while opposing a measure to set time limits on the execution of death sentences.

LaGuardia, 30-year-old circus roustabout of Youngstown, Ohio, and two others were convicted of raping a woman in Baltimore County three years ago. He was sentenced to death, and his sentence later commuted to life.

"Had the proposed bill been in effect two years ago," Swenson said, "we would have executed James LaGuardia in 1948. Now there is strong evidence that he may be entirely innocent of the offense he was charged with.

"In his case it required more than a year to develop evidence which was not produced in court. This case was commuted to life imprisonment and is now under study for correction of what appears to be a faulty conviction."

Florida Vote Called 'Rebuke' to Truman

Ready to Assume Seat in Congress

Otis Bland, said yesterday he expected the canvass of the district vote will require several days but hoped to assume office early next week. Unofficial returns gave him 10,944 to 7656 for William A. Wright, his nearest opponent

By The Associated Press

The emphatic margin by which New Deal Senator Claude Pepper went down to defeat in Florida surprised most politicians yesterday, and set them wondering what it meant for coming contests elsewhere.

With returns almost complete from Tuesday's Democratic primary, 36-year-old Representative George Smathers had built up a lead of well over 60,000 over Pepper. Most politicians had expected a close race.

Pepper, who has served 14 years in the Senate, was the first casualty among incumbents of either house in the young primary season.

All other incumbents apparently had come through unscathed in primary voting in Florida, Alabama, Ohio and Indiana.

Smathers differs with the Truman Administration on several vital domestic issues. Because of this—and Pepper's long pro-Administration record—Republicans claimed his victory was a rebuke to the President and part of a national "trend" away from the Fair Deal.

Democrats disputed this in advance. But the only official post-primary statement from the Democratic National Committee was a routine message of congratulation to the primary winner. Similar messages from Chairman William Boyle went to Senator Lister Hill, who won renomination, equivalent to election, in Alabama, and to Joseph T. Ferguson, State auditor, who won the Democratic Senate nomination in Ohio.

Ferguson will oppose Republican Senator Taft in November. Taft, unopposed for renomination, got a big complimentary vote.

Smathers, who flew to Washington yesterday, called his victory one for "individual liberty and individual freedom." Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, States' rights presidentail candidate in 1948 and now a candidate for a Senate nomination; hailed Pepper's defeat as a "definite victory for the cause of constitutional government and the rights of States to handle their own internal affairs without interference from Washington."

The National Democrats-States' Righters' contest that may decide whether Alabama returns to the National party fold or continues to bolt over civil rights was a tight battle, although antibolters held a slight lead.

With 72 memberships on the powerful Democratic State Executive Committee at stake, the national Democrats, who favor fighting the civil rights issue withi nthe party, were leading for 38 places, States' Righters for 33, and one uncommitted candidate had won.

The final decision is not expected to be known until May 30. Many of the leaders in the various contests lacked a majority and thus must engage in a runoff on that date.

In his message to Smathers, Boyle said the full resources of the national committee will be at his call in his campaign to defeat John P. Booth, Miami Republican, in November. But since Democrats outnumber Republicans more than 15 to 1 in Florida, Smathes probably will need very little outside financial aid.

Boyle told Smathers his going to the Senate would "assure a continuation of the fine service to your State and the Nation you have rendered in Washington."

Boyle sent this message to Pepper:

"Congratulations for your fine sportsmanship in offering your support to Congressman Smathers in his senatorial campaign against his Republican opponent. The Democratic Party will miss your services in the Senate, but we know we will continue to have your full support and help in the Democratic Party's battle against reactionary Republicanism."

The message to Ferguson also promised financial help "in your campaign to defeat an opponent who has become a symbol of Old-Guard reactionary Republicanism."

Here briefly is the way the primary races in the four States lined up last night, with most contests decided:

Florida—Smathers beat Pepper by better than 60,000. Four of the State's six Democratic House incumbents were renominated. William C. Lantaff, Miami State Representative, won Smathers' seat. Chester B. McMullen, State attorney, had a big lead for retiring Representative Peterson's seat, but will have to run it off May 23 with State Representative Jerry Collins of Sarasota.

Alabama — National Democrats held slight lead for control of the State Democratic Executive Committee. Senator Hill won a third-term renomination over Lawrence McNeil, Birmingham businessman and a State's Righter.

Gordon Persons, head of the State Public Service Commission and an antibolter, was far ahead of 14 others for the Democratic governorship, but there undoubtedly will be a run-off May 30. All incumbent House members appeared victorious, with a run-off likely for the Fourth District seat of Representative Hobbs, who did not run.

Ohio—Joseph T. Ferguson beat six opponents for the Democratic Senate nomination. Gov. Frank J. Lausche swamped two opponents for Democratic renomination without campaigning, and State Treasurer Don H. Ebright won the GOP gubernatorial nomination handily over two others. Six of the State's 23 Congressmen with opposition apparently had come through.

Indiana — All 11 incumbent House members—7 Democrats and 4 Republicans—won renomination.

Truman Asks Agreement on Rehabilitation

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday asked Congress to settle a tug-of-war for control of the Government's vocational rehabilitation program between his Secretary of Labor and his Federal Security Administrator.

The President said, through a Budget Bureau spokesman, that both Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing and Labor Secretary Maurice J. Tobin had their hearts in the right places on the issue, and both wanted to do a better job of helping the Nation's disabled.

Trouble was—and is—according to the President—that Ewing and Tobin each would like to do the job in his own way, and in his own department.

The White House and its top advisers chewed on the knotty problem for months, without finding a solution. The President himself finally decided—the Budget Bureau disclosed—that the Labor Secretary and Security Administrator should present their claims before Congress.

And so yesterday, Roger W. Jones, assistant director of the Budget Bureau, acting on behalf of the White House, presented the issue before a subcommittee of the Senate Labor and Welfare Committee, headed by Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.).

"Looks like a question for Solomon," commented Douglas in a way that indicated he didn't relish the role. "Maybe we ought to cut the 'baby' in two."

"As I see it," responded Jones, speaking in his individual capacity, and not as the Budget Bureau's spokesman, "it's not one baby, but a matter of twins."

Jones suggested that the treatment and training of disabled citizens—along with the job placement of the seriously handicapped, such as the blind—be assigned to FSA, and the job placement function of rehabilitation be given to the Department of Labor.

Senator Douglas commented that the division of duties suggested by Jones might not be as simple as it sounded.

"If this is a matter of twins, then it's Siamese twins," muttered the one-time university professor.

Hearings will continue today.

Fighters for Freedom

"We have known them as educators and as men and women engaged on missions of peace. We have known them as soldiers who fought for freedom in our plains, our hills and our jungles.

"And again since the birth of Pakistan we have known them as messengers of your good will."

Ambassadors of the other British Commonwealth countries were at the airport to greet him. Among them was the Indian Ambassador, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of Prime Minister Nehru, who had received an identical welcome at the same place a few months ago.

After the welcoming ceremonies, the President and Prime Minister drove off to Blair House together in a car with the unfamiliar green and white flag of Pakistan fluttering from it. Today the Prime Minister plans to address both houses of Congress at noon.

Draper Offer To Entertain Was Rejected

Hartford, Conn., May 3 (AP).—An offer by dancer Paul Draper to perform at a recent benefit show was turned down because the sponsors feared his appearance would cause criticism, it was testified today.

Alan Corelli, national executive secretary of the Theater Authority, Inc., made the statement at the trial of a $200,000 libel suit by Draper and harmonica player Larry Adler against Mrs. Hester McCullough.

The entertainers contend the Greenwich, Conn., housewife, who accused them of being pro-Communist, has damaged their professional careers, and prevented them from obtaining bookings.

Corelli, a witness for the plaintiffs, said that Draper offered to dance recently at the United Jewish Appeal "Night of the Stars" show at Madison Square Garden in New York City.

"But they wouldn't take him," Corelli said.

Asked why, a UJA official said the Jewish aid organization was afraid to accept Draper's offer because his appearance would make the organization "subject to censure," Corelli testified. He did not identify the UJA official.

Carnival Opens Today at Naval Air Station

It's carnival time at the Patuxent River Naval Air Station today.

It's the first annual Navy Relief Carnival at the gigantic naval air test center sitting on the west bank of southern tip of the Patuxent River.

Bingo, dancing, a daily performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin", and at least 30 amusement booths will be featured from 6:30 to 11:30 p. m. today, Friday and Saturday.

Admission — 9 cents. Children under 12 will get in free if they bring their parents along. A special matinee will be held from 2 to 5 p. m. Saturday.

At the finale Saturday night, a 1950 Ford, a 12-inch television set and a washing machine will be distributed.

Every fleet and shore activity at the station is represented in the production headed by Lieut. Comdr. R. G. Albright. Among the exhibits will be a sketch booth by the station art class, a bombing range, a depth charge run and a quick photo booth run by the station photo lab.

Also a man who gets dunked in a canvas pool every time a visitor hits the bulls-eye, and there will be other games of skill.

Commander Albright, who is executive officer of Patrol Squadron 21, said the carnival will be made an annual affair if this one succeeds. All proceeds will go to the Navy Relief Society.

Hill Group in Squabble Over Children's Day

By The Associated Press

A House committee squabbled mildly yesterday over—of all things—when is the best time to have national Children's Day.

The hearing before a Judiciary Subcommittee began peaceful-like, with everyone plugging for the first Sunday in May.

Representative Lemke (R., N. Dak.) said the day should be used to impress upon youngsters the value of the American way of life.

"As the twig is bent," Lemke said, "so will the tree be."

"Thank you, Brother Lemke," said Chairman Bryson (D., S. C.).

"I believe the greatness of our Nation is due to the training of our children," Representative Carnahan (D., Mo.) told the committee.

"Thank you, Brother Carnahan," Bryson said.

"Most Important Crop"

Representative Lucas, another Democrat, from Grapevine, Tex., came out four square for children, too. "Our most important crop," he said.

"Thank you, Brother Lucas," said Brother Brother Bryson.

Then George Hecht, who publishes Parent's Magazine and heads various parents' councils, broke the calm.

He started off undiplomatically by suggesting that if the Congressmen really wanted to do something for the kids they should quit cutting the appropriations for the Children's Bureau.

Then he said he thought the day should be in October.

Hecht said May is a poor time to have another "day." Child Health Day is May 1, he said, and then comes Mother's Day and, in June, Father's Day. Why not switch to less crowded October?

Furthermore, Hecht said, when it comes to commercialization, it would be much better for business to have the day in October than in May. He said he imagined the day would become second only to Christmas as a day for the youngsters to get gifts.

Representative Doyle (D., Calif.), who had introduced the bill, said he certainly didn't want any commercialization to creep in, and there were nods from the committee members.

"If commercialism is to be the object of Children's Day," Doyle said, with some heat, "I ask the privilege of withdrawing my resolution."

"I'm glad to hear you say that," Representative Willis (D., La.) said.

Hecht managed to get the floor again for a moment to say:

"I'm not advocating commercialism on Children's Day. I'm saying that once Congress sets a Children's Day it will be commercialized, and nothing Congress can do will stop it."

The committee then moved on to consideration of the next bill: to have a national Smoke Abatement Week.

Laborites Lose Control In Glasgow City Council

Glasgow, Scotland, May 3 (AP).—The Labor Party has lost control of Glasgow, Britain's second largest city, for the first time since 1933.

Returns from yesterday's municipal elections showed the Progressives (Conservatives) took two seats from Labor to get a three-vote majority on the city council. The line-up now is 57 Progressives to 54 Laborites.

African Proposal

Fund Vetoes Gold Sales Above $35

By The Associated Press

The World Monetary Fund's board of directors yesterday rejected a South African proposal to permit international gold sales at prices above the $35-an-ounce official rate.

Directors of the 47-nation institution declared there is "no economic justification" for increasing that price, which has been the official United States rate for more than 16 years.

South Africa, as the world's biggest gold producer, stood to realize the greatest profit from premium price sales abroad if permitted to make them.

The United States, although the third largest gold producer, was solidly opposed to a price change, largely on the ground it would amount to a United States subsidy or aid grant to gold-producing countries.

Canada is the second biggest producer and Russia—not a member of the fund—is believed to rank fourth.

The fund directors' decision reaffirmed fund policy against premium prices for gold as set in a 1947 resolution urging member countries to ban such dealings by their subjects in international markets.

The South American proposal must still be passed upon by the fund's board of governors at their meeting in Paris next September, but their concurrence with the directors was regarded as certain.

The fund directors admitted that "a sizable quantity of gold" has gone into premium price markets around the world, but contended the fund's policy against it had held down the quantity since member countries have stood by the fund's directions.

The House Armed Services Committee planned to vote this morning on a two-year extension of the draft law and its chairman predicted they would approve it.

Representative Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) told reporters the committee probably will provide that the draft machinery—registration, classification, etc. be continued but that there will be no inductions without further action by Congress.

Vinson's committee met behind closed doors yesterday to hear top Defense and State Department officials on the latest international situation. The objective was to determine if world conditions demand continuation of selective service.

They heard Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, State Department Counselor George Kennan, Army Secretary Frank Pace, jr., and members of the Joint Chiefs.

Vinson said they had supported testimony given earlier by Bradley that the draft must be extended because there appeared to be no cessation in the aggressive movement of Communism.

The present draft law expires June 24. There have been no inductions since January, 1949, because volunteers have kept all the services filled.

Ives Proposes 500-Million Cut in ECA

NYHT News Service

Advocates of the full $3,100,000,000 authorization for the third year of the European Recovery Program received a jolt yesterday when Senator Irving M. Ives (R., N. Y.) announced he would propose a 500 million dollar cut.

Alignment of Senator Ives, a consistent supporter of Administration foreign policy, with the sizeable group favoring reduction in foreign spending, heightened the prospect of a sharp cut in the $3,366,450,000 omnibus foreign aid bill when it is voted on in the Senate Friday.

"This will be the first time that I shall have voted to cut an ECA authorization," Ives told the Senate.

He cited "the urgent need for economy," recalling that "we face a budgetary deficit this year which various authorities have estimated will be between $5,500,000,000 and eight billion dollars and an even larger budgetary deficit next year."

Beyond the question of economy, however, Ives argued that a cut in American aid would force the nations of western Europe to trade barriers and otherwise liberalize their trade and currency policies in the manner contemplated by the original ERP Act in 1948.

"If further assistance during this coming fiscal year should prove absolutely necessary, then a further authorization and appropriation can always be made."

In addition to the Ives amendment for a 500-million-dollar cut, the Senate also will have before it the amendment of Senator James P. Kem (R., Mo.) for a one-billion-dollar reduction and the amendment of Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) for a 600-million-dollar reduction. The latter proposal has the influential backing of Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio).

Erickson Link With Carroll Seen in Raid

New York, May 3 (AP).—Bigtime bookmaker Frank Erickson was linked today with another of the Nation's top "betting commissioners," J. J. Carroll of St. Louis, and with gambling activities in New Jersey.

The links, alleged by the New York district attorney's office, were disclosed by Erickson's own lawyer in the course of an unsuccessful attempt to get back a truckload of records seized yesterday in a raid on Erickson's Park ave., headquarters.

Sol Gelb, the Erickson lawyer, produced a copy of an affidavit submitted by the district attorney's office on Monday in applying for a warrant to raid the $12,500,000-a-year bookie's New York offices.

This affidavit said Erickson has an account in the Pennsylvania Exchange Bank at 20 W. 48th st., New York. It went on to say:

"The records of the bank also show that there are checks to J. J. Carroll of Missouri, a known betting commissioner who is known to operate on a substantial scale."

In addition, the affidavit said records of telephone calls indicated Erickson had a New Jersey headquarters at Cliffside, across the Hudson from New York.

Erickson and Carroll both testified last week before a United States Senate committee which is studying a proposal to ban interstate transmission of gambling information. Erickson admitted he broke the law daily in his operations.

As a result, New York police raided Erickson's headquarters here yesterday and carted away bundles containing canceled checks, diaries, ledgers, address books and other papers.

Gelb contended in court today that the raid violated Erickson's constitutional rights. He demanded that the papers be returned.

Acheson Hits At Soviet on Austrian Pact

Secretary of State Acheson assailed Russia yesterday in a new put-up-or-shut-up demand for action on a Big Four treaty with Austria.

On the avowed suspicion that the Soviets plan a new stalling movement today in treaty negotiations in London, Acheson charged that Russia is turning from "excuse" to "pretext" to prevent an agreement.

The Soviet representative has called for an unexpected meeting of the negotiators today, and Acheson has suggested that the United States, Britain and France will be on the alert to see if this will show whether Russia is ready now to join the West in withdrawing occupation troops from Austria.

This latest move "leaves the issue clearly up to the Soviet Union as to whether it proposes to get on with the treaty or whether this is but another move to delay the conclusion of a treaty," he said.

Off for Europe Saturday

The Secretary voiced this renewed criticism of Moscow on the Austrian issue at a final news conference before his scheduled departure on Saturday for Europe. The 12-nation North Atlantic Council opens its session May 15 in London and Acheson will be holding separate talks in the meantime with British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Foreign Minister Schuman of France.

In broad terms, he said, the council will go over what has been done the past year to strengthen the defenses of the West and discuss what remains to be done. He forecast the Big Three foreign ministers will:

1. Consider the world situation as it has developed since the last previous meeting in November at Paris.

2. Exchange views on matters that they believe either have changed or required some new decision.

3. Decide whether the policies of the three powers can be brought into line on these matters and consider what further steps need to be taken in the general strengthening of the West.

Germany May Be Issue

The general expectation is that the future status of Germany will dominate the issues taken up at London, but Acheson declined to go into further details. He told a questioner he had no plans to go to Germany on this trip and had heard no discussion of the idea of inviting Konrad Adenauer, the West German chancellor, to join the consultations at any stage.

On other matters, Acheson said he believes Senate Republican leaders with whom he has been talking are in general accord with plans to strengthen the bipartisan foreign policy. He cautiously declined to go along with the warning given Congress on Tuesday by Gen. Omar N. Bradley that conditions have worsened in the last five months, but did say that in many places conditions did not look any better.

Red Inspection Is Ordered On Berlin Freight to West

Berlin, May 3 (AP).—A Soviet-sponsored railway order tonight virtually paralyzed German freight loadings in Western Berlin.

The order from East German raiway headquarters said all Berlin rail freight consigned to West Germany must be loaded at stations in Russian-occupied East Berlin. There the cargoes would be inspected before shipment was allowed through the Soviet zone. Berlin freight must pass through about 100 miles of the Soviet zone to get to West Germany.

The rail headquarters said the order was necessary because the main zonal crossing point at Marienborn was jammed with traffic. By loading and inspecting cargoes here under Russian control, the headquarters said, other zonal border crossing points could be used to relieve this strain.

Many West Berlin shippers, however, expressed belief this was a new Communist attempt to clamp tighter restrictions on West Berlin's reviving trade with West Germany.

Some West Berlin businessmen immediately suspended rail shipments. They protested the new rules not only would cost them the expense of hauling their goods across town, but might lead to loss of time on delivery of orders and the hazard of having their shipments confiscated by Communist inspectors on the pretext that they were "unauthorized."

C. A. Dix, transport chief for the United States High Commission's Berlin office, said he doubted the Communist assertion that the Marienborn checkpoint was overloaded. He said there had not been a sufficient rise in traffic to cause a jam.

Reds Arm East German Police With Cannon, Court Is Told

Berlin, May 3 (AP).—A former East German policeman testified today that the Russians issued at least 40 German cannon to his battalion last winter.

Wilhelm Roloff was called by the prosecution in an American court as a witness against six of his comrades who pleaded innocent to charges of belonging to an illegal military organization — a reference to the East zone People's Police.

Lieut. Heinz Nocht is to be called as a prosecution witness Thursday. Roloff and Nocht pleaded guilty last week to wearing illegal uniforms and carrying arms in the American zone. They were sentenced to a year in jail.

By four-power law, uniforms, military organizations and the carrying of arms are illegal for Germans.

Roloff, Nocht and the six defendants were arrested April 13 when they blundered into the American sector in Roloff's truck. In pleading guilty, Roloff and Nocht testified that the East zone People's Police had been converted into a military organization last fall and that 36,000 men are undergoing military training.

Fritz Kaul, a leading Communist lawyer, appeared to defend the six prisoners today. He attempted to discredit Roloff's testimony, but Roloff stoutly insisted he had been in the German army and "I know infantry training when I see it again."

He said he personally hauled the cannon from an old Nazi ordnance dump in Brandenburg to his battalion headquarters where 1000 men are being trained.

Tri-State Parley Against Imports Called for May 16

Representative Secrest (D., Ohio) announced yesterday he is calling a tri-State meeting here May 16 to launch a drive for new Federal checkreins on imports from foreign lands.

Meeting with him to start the movement, Secrest said, will be eight Congressmen from Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Vrginia. He said he also expects spokesmen for employer and employe groups in the hand-produced glass industry in those States, and a spokesman for other groups interested in higher tariffs to protect United States industry.

Secrest told a reporter he hopes the conference will produce an agreement "on the type of laws needed to allow our industries and labor to compete on even terms with those in the cheap labor countries that are flooding our country with their products.

The goal, he said, is to snowball a high tariff movement of massive proportions for the 1951 session of Congress.

Czechs Get Back Planes Seized by Anti-Reds

Frankfurt, Germany, May 3 (AP). The three Czechoslovak airliners commandeered by anti-Communists March 24 and flown to Germany were returned to Czechoslovakia today.

Of a total of 86 passengers aboard the planes when they were seized in the air by their crews, 26 chose to stay in West Germany.

Hospital Cut Will Be Made, Johnson Says

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson informed Congress yesterday that the armed forces definitely will go ahead with its hospital cutback program as planned.

Two of the military hospitals scheduled for closing, it was announced by the White House earlier, will be transferred to the Veterans Administration. They are the Army's Oliver General Hospital at Augusta, Ga., and the Naval Hospital at Long Beach, Calif.

As for three other hospitals slated for closing, President Truman said, it has been found they "cannot be efficiently or economically adapted or are not required" by the VA.

Johnson announced later that Governors of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Michigan have offered to take over, respectively, the Valley Forge General Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa.; Murphy General Hospital, Waltham, Mass.; and the Percy Jones General Hospital, Battle Creek, Mich.

The Defense Department's February 1 announcement that it would close five hospitals and cut back beds in others aroused a storm of protest on Capitol Hill. A House Armed Services Subcommittee toured the country, to survey each hospital situation, and there were protests against closing down some Government hospitals while building others.

735 Foreigners Reach Hongkong

Hongkong, May 3 (AP).—The Gen. W. H. Gordon docked tonight with 735 foreigners from Shanghai, many of them convinced the Russians are taking a stronger hand in Red China's affairs.

The passengers include 196 Americans. Among them are the last of United States consular and other official personnel left in Communist China.

One of the 377 stateless persons aboard asserted the Chinese mainland was becoming a "second Russia." Others said Russian advisers sat beside Chinese police when their visas were stamped.

A United States businessman said foreign business is through in Shanghai. He wouldn't let his name be used because he said he had to go back.

This businessman said the foreigner was being squeezed deliberately through "crushing" taxation and by Communist insistence that companies keep operating to meet payrolls even though they are losing money.

2 Czechs to Hang in Plot

Prague, May 3 (UP).—The Moravian newspaper Nova Politika today said two Czechs had been sentenced to hang and 10 others to prison terms of 20 and 30 years for trying to kidnap Minister of Defense Alexei Cepicka.

Mundt Bill Called Weapon of Tyranny

By the United Press

Socialist Norman Thomas yesterday said the Mundt-Nixon Communist-control bill is "a weapon of tyranny and a useless tool against trained Communist conspirators."

Testifying before the House Un-American Activities Committee, Thomas said such legislation would have the effect of driving the Communist Party under-ground.

Clarence Mitchell, labor secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Mrs. Alexandria Stewart, president of the United States section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, also appeared in opposition to the bill.

Thomas said he does not share the belief of some that the Communist Party "presents a clear and present danger to American institutions," although he said "it is by nature undemocratic and in many of its activities thoroughly conspiratorial."

But should the Communist Party become a serious threat to national security, he said Congress should deal with it directly and honestly by outlawing the party.

Asked if he is or ever was a member of the Communist Party, Thomas replied:

"At least since 1936 I have had less to do with the Communist Party than Republicans and Democrats who accepted the indorsement of the American Labor Party in New York. I am not now nor have I ever been a member of the Communist Party".

The Cleveland-to-Louisville, Ky. bus and a truck slammed into each other head-on a mile north of Ashland. The truck, owned by the Glenn Cartage Co. of Girard, burned, too.

Both drivers died—trucker Paul Marrs, 40, of Sidney, Ohio and bus operator Edgar A. Snyder, 35, of Columbus.

cases," cited by him on February 20, were old stuff. They came from a list of 108 names that had been investigated in 1948 by no fewer than four congressional committees. Only 40 of the 108 still remained in the Department's employ.

Peurifoy then said, "There is not a shred of truth" to McCarthy's charge that Owen Lattimore, the subject of McCarthy's key case, had a desk at the State Department.

Wherry leaped to his feet in protest. In reading that, Wherry said, Lucas was "calling a Senator a liar," in violation of a Senate rule.

Vice President Barkley ordered Lucas to sit down, as is required when such a point of order is raised. But there was no objection to a motion that Lucas be allowed to continue "in order," so he finished the reading of Peurifoy's statement.

Lucas then recalled that the reason a Senate investigation of McCarthy's charges was instituted was to be found in the newspaper headlines that followed McCarthy's Wheeling speech.

"Time after time," Lucas went on, he had asked McCarthy on February 20 whether the latter had actually said he had a list of 205 Communists still in the State Department. The only reply, Lucas went on, was McCarthy's reading of what purported to be his Wheeling speech into the Congressional Record.

But that speech, Lucas continued, did not mention the 205. It said only:

"I have in my hand 57 cases of individuals who would appear to be either card-carrying members or certainly loyal to the Communist Party, but who nevertheless are still helping to shape our foreign policy."

This, said Lucas, is at "total variance" with all the newspaper reports. Whether McCarthy did or did not make the statement "casts considerable amount of weight as to the truth and veracity" of his charges.

As if on cue, Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.) rose to tell how the speech was carried in the leading Republican paper of his State, the Wheeling Intelligencer. Its quote of McCarthy read:

"While I cannot take the time to name all of the men in the State Department who have been named as members of the Communist Party and members of a spy ring, I have here in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the Secretary of State as being members of the Communist Party and who nevertheless are still working and shaping the policy of the State Department."

Kilgore then produced two affidavits from officials of Radio Station WWVA, which carried the speech. These officials supplied the text of the address and added they had checked either its delivery or a recording of it against that text and that McCarthy followed the text with no consequential departures from the written word.

The text, which Kilgore supplied, quoted the passage almost identically with that in the newspaper.

Now, said Neely, that accusation upset his constituents. They felt that McCarthy was talking as an official and must have known what he was talking about. Therefore, he said, he wanted to ask Senator Tydings (D., Md.), chairman of the investigating subcommittee, whether McCarthy had testified about the 205.

Tydings said he would answer in due time but that this was not the appropriate moment.

But, to another question from Lucas, Tydings noted that all McCarthy's testimony was in open session and that anyone could draw conclusions from it.

Senator Anderson (D., N. Mex.) joined the act by reading from the source of McCarthy's 205 figure. It was a letter written by then-Secretary of State Byrnes in July, 1946. He wrote that the Department's screening committee had made "a recommendation against permanent employment" in the case of 284 persons and that 79 had been terminated.

This produced the figure of 205—employed as of four years ago—but that was considerably different from saying, as McCarthy did, that the "President's Loyalty Review Board" had found 205 persons "bad security risks," Anderson noted.

Senator Neely (D., W. Va.) then arose for the final act. He recounted how he told McCarthy that if his charges were true, he would have performed the greatest national service since George Washington. But if he failed to establish his charge, "he would be retired from public life."

"If the Secretary of State is innocent (of harboring Communists) and there is no foundation to the charges, I think Senator McCarthy will have destroyed himself and his usefulness in the Senate and the country for all time," Neely said.

Had there been the proof, Neely demanded of Tydings. Again Tydings demurred.

The Tydings arm was figuratively twisted. Neely persisted, and asked if McCarthy had given the subcommittee the names of the 205.

"No," Tydings finally answered.

By this time, McCarthy was on his feet, demanding that Neely yield to him. Neely did, but only for an answer to the question: did McCarthy say on the floor of the Senate, on February 20, that he had not said he had the "list of 205 in his hand," at Wheeling?

McCarthy refused to give a direct answer. He said he had explained over and over that he had procured the figure from the Byrnes' letter and that everyone knew what he had said and there was no doubt in anyone's mind what he had said and when.

Four times Neely pressed him for a yes or no answer on whether he did or did not give the Wheeling reporters and radio station a copy of his speech containing the lines they reported.

McCarthy refused to say yes or no, but undertook explanations until Neely shouted him down with the comment that, "I must assume the Senator will continue to evade."

McCarthy insisted that the "numbers game" be stopped. The important thing, he said, was to get rid of the Communists, not whether he said there were 205 or 81 or 57.

The nearest he came to saying he might have included the 205 figure in his speech was an admission that possibly the figure became mixed up in a "rough draft" that he may have passed out.

In the meantime, Democratic Senators Lehman (N. Y.), Myers (Pa.), Humphrey (Minn.) and Mayback (S. C.) were asking "straight man" questions the inferences—that McCarthy was using the present tense when his evidence was from a four-year-old letter, and that if what he said were true, Byrnes and Marshall must have been knowingly tolerating 205 Communists in their midst.

At the end Neely was worked up to fine forensic splendor. He said that any man who loved his country would not continue "to evade and hide" and play for "headlines for the next six months" on the supposition he has more damaging information to offer.

If McCarthy was correct in his charges, Neely said, there should be meted out to the Secretary of State a list of punishments of which impeachment was the mildest.

But if not, "the penalty of public opinion ought to fall on those responsible for a false clamor" that has made the United States Government "the laughing stock in every chancellery in the world."

Somebody in this situation "has lied as Ananias has never lied," Neely shouted. If the charges are not true, and the Nation has been slandered, those responsible "should be scourged by public opinion from the society of decent men and women."

When he finished, Wherry replied with a repetition of the bitter denunciation of the subcommittee he and other Republicans conducted one afternoon last week. He demanded that the loyalty files of the persons McCarthy named be made available to the Senate. He accused the Democrats of bombarding McCarthy for political purposes, and of hurling "double-barreled questions" at him to smear him.

Why were the Democrats so light on the witnesses called before the Tydings Subcommittee, he asked. If they were half as tough on them as they were on McCarthy, some of the truth would now be known, he contended.

The fireworks on the Senate floor followed about four hours of not particularly revealing testimony from Lattimore before the Tydings Subcommittee.

The principal examination was carried out by Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa). He established the fact that Lattimore once met a Dr. Walter Heissing, since convicted to 20 years' imprisonment, as a Nazi agent.

Lattimore said he met Heissig in Peiping after the war and gave him some money to buy Mongol books for Lattimore's library, which Heissig did.

When Heissig was jailed, Lattimore said he wrote the American Ambassador in China and others asking that the case be looked into, and volunteering whatever assistance he could give.

He said that Heissig, a Mongol scholar, had also sent him a manuscript he wrote in jail on a Mongolian subject, with the hope Lattimore could find a publisher for it.

Hickenlooper also criticized Lattimore for the latter's comment that he never suspected that half a dozen people Hickenlooper listed were either Communists or very sympathetic to communism.

Hickenlooper said all the persons he named—Philip Jaffe, Nym Wales, T. A. Bisson, Frederick V. Field, Agnes Smedley—were well known as leftists. It was strange that in previous testimony Lattimore, who could not be considered "naive," said he did not know, or believe them to be of that stripe.

Lattimore said that when he knew them, he had no reason to suspect them of being Communists or, in Hickenlooper's words, "strong sympathizers."

Senator Lodge (Mass.), the other Republican member of the subcommittee, contented himself with only a few questions. Principally, he said, he wanted the whole matter put in executive, closed session.

"I don't see how we can get at the truth in this matter otherwise," he said. "I would like to take this show off the road."

Yesterday's hearing was intended to conclude Lattimore's testimony. The subcommittee meets today in closed session, presumably to decide what to do next.

Binaggio Bribe Offer Related By Ousted Pair

Jefferson City, Mo., May 3 (AP).—Two ousted Kansas City police commissioners charged today that slain political boss Charlie Binaggio had offered bribes and other pressure to set himself up as a czar over Kansas City and St. Louis police.

The accusations came as a Federal grand jury at Kansas City investigating the underworld, returned its first indictments. One of them named Charles (Moonface) Carrollo, Binaggio's predecessor as the North Side political chief and Kansas City underworld lord.

Refused to Resign

The accusaions agains Binaggio were made by Hampton S. Chambers and R. Robert Cohn who were removed from the City Police Commission by Gov. Forrest Smith yesterday after they refused to resign at his request.

Both Chambers and Cohn said they had informed the Governor last summer when Binaggio made his attempt to influence them.

The Kansas City Star said Binaggio tossed a "large roll of bills into Cohn's lap" in the bribery attempt and that Cohn tossed the money back. Cohn said the Star's story was "substantially correct."

Chambers, in a formal statement issued here, said Binaggio had "exerted pressure on me" to help "open up" Kansas City to gambling.

"Of course everybody knows Binaggio and his crowd wanted to throw Kansas City wide open to the gambling syndicates," Chambers said. "He also wanted to reach out into other fields, but I was never able to learn what other objectives he had in mind.

"It was reported to me on reliable authority that Binaggio boasted that if he could break down the Kansas City police department, he would move on to St. Louis and take over. He had ambitions to become a State-wide czar and to use the police departments of Kansas City and St. Louis to further his ends and protect his rackets."

In ousting Cohn and Chambers, Smith said he wanted to set up a new police board. The old board had been under fire since the gangland slayings of Binaggio and his henchman, Charles Gargotta, here April 5.

Cohn said he'll test Smith's "despotic authority" in court.

Smith, obviously irked, refused to comment on the Binaggio bribe story.

"I have nothing to say about any report from anybody," he said sharply to newsmen.

Carrollo and three others were indicted by the same grand jury that Saturday reported a $34,500,000-a-year gambling and rackets operation was being carried on in Kansas City.

Charged on Three Counts

He was charged on three counts with conspiring to run a wholesale liquor business without paying a Federal tax. The others named with him were Anthony (Stringbean) Marcella, Sam Tortorice and Carrollo's son-in-law, Mike Arnone.

They were arrested two weeks ago in a raid led by President Truman's personal friend, E. N. Ahlfeldt, head of the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit here. In the raid agents seized 1053 cases of untaxed liquor.

At the same time the Government struck at the Kansas City underworld from two other angles.

In Washington, Senator McFarland (D., Ariz.) said two of Gargotta's partners, Tano Lococo and Eddie (Spitz) Osadchey, had been subpenaed as witnesses in a Senate gambling investigation.

The Federal grand jury in an interim report Saturday identified the two as Gargotta's partners in the distribution of horse race information here.

The Government also slapped income tax liens of $38,159 against the estate of Gargotta and properties of his widow, Mrs. Marie Gargotta. The liens charge Gargotta and his widow with income tax evasion for the years 1945 to 1948, inclusive.

Senate Orders Probe of Interstate Crime

J. E. TAYLOR

. . . Would ban race wires

Colo.), McFarland (D., Ariz.), Tobey (R., N. H.) and Wiley (R., Wis.). McFarland and Tobey are on the Commerce Subcommittee which has been considering a bill to ban interstate transmission of gambling information.

The special committee has this authorization "to make a full and complete study and investigation of whether organized crime utilizes the facilities of interstate commerce or otherwise operates in interstate commerce in futherance of any transactions which are in violation of the laws of the United States or of the State in which the transactions occur, and, if so, the manner and extent to which, and the identity of persons, firms, or corporations by which such utilization is being made, what facilities are being used, and whether or not organized crime utilizes such interstate facilities or otherwise operates in interstate commerce for the development of corrupting influences in violation of laws of the United States or of the laws of any State."

It was this last authorization—to check on "corrupting influence"—that had the Democratic leadership worried. Crime is centered in big cities, most of which are run by Democratic organizations and this is an election year.

The committee is barred from making any recommendation for changes in State gambling laws or otherwise interfering with the rights of the States to legalize or prohibit gambling. The District is specifically included in the Authorization Act.

The committee has subpena power, a powerful instrument in investigations along with the ever-present threat of contempt of Congress citations for reluctant witnesses.

The act provides for a report by next February 28 with March 31, 1951, the termination date.

After the vote, Kefauver told reporters he hoped for "a very serious and objective study and investigation" and that he expected "to go at it not on a basis of punishing anyone or protecting anyone but of finding out the facts" in order to recommend legislation.

He said he presumed there might be open hearings within a few weeks but that extensive staff studies would be necessary to develop cases before public sessions.

"Lots of people probably will be disappointed," he said, "at the slowness at which we move but this is a tremendous field of study."

He said some might also be disappointed at the findings because the committee just couldn't cover everything.

The problem was defined by Kefauver as finding out "the source of power, how they operate, what they do" with "they" the "alleged gamblers" who move about the nation.

He said he expected the full cooperation of the Justice Department, including the FBI and the Treasury. He added, he already has talked to Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and FBI Boss J. Edgar Hoover as well as Treasury Undersecretary Edward H. Foley, jr. He praised the work already done by George Green of the Senate Judiciary staff on the crime problem.

Kefauver said he thought the committee would spend a lot of time in various parts of the Nation but that much of its traveling would come after this session of Congress ends. He would not be tied down on the question of a visit to Kansas City but he had said earlier he would not "shy away" from that Missouri city.

"I hope local law enforcement officers don't relax on the theory that we're going to take over their responsibilities," he added.

The vote on the measure came with dramatic suddenness late in the afternoon after its chances appeared to be disappearing. But Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D., Ill.) obtained unanimous consent after Donnell's speech. Donnell had charged that the special committee set-up "creates a suspicion on the part of the public with respect to the legitimacy of the investigation."

Only Donnell voted against final passage of the bill by a 69-to-1 margin.

Earlier in the day, the Commerce subcommittee had heard from Missouri's Attorney General J. E. Taylor and representatives of the news press associations.

Taylor said he believes there is a direct link between a national crime syndicate and the racing news wire services and the country's bookies. He said he favors a Federal bill to put the race wires out of business.

Taylor told of racing wire service to Kansas City, a service which the Federal grand jury there has declared was locally operated by Charles Gargotta, slain lieutenant of political leader Charles Binaggio, and three others.

Chairman McFarland announced two of the three (the third is serving time in Leavenworth Penitentiary) will be witnesses today. They are Tano Loloco and Eddie (Spitz) Osadschey.

The wire service officials generally agreed that there was a threat to freedom of the press in the proposed legislation because of its sweeping nature. The officials were Frank Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press; William B. Goode, general business manager of International News Service, and Earl Johnson, vice president and general manager of the United Press who sent his views by telegram. Elmer Davis expressed similar views for the Radio Correspondents Association.

3 'Mo' Officers Set Back in List For Promotion

Norfolk, Va., May 3 (AP).—Three naval officers were reduced in promotion numbers today as punishment for the grounding of the battleship Missouri.

Each was dropped a substantial number of places in his respective grade. This will retard their promotion to the next higher rank.

The sentences were imposed by three general courts martial that found the officers guilty of charges growing from the stranding, which occurred in Chesapeake Bay January 17.

Capt. William D. Brown, 47, the Mighty Mo's former skipper, was dropped 250 places in the captains' grade. He has assumed sole responsibility for the grounding.

Comdr. John R. Millett, 38, former operations officer, was reduced 100 numbers and Lieut. Comdr. Frank G. Morris, jr., 34, former navigator, was reduced 350 numbers.

The sentences were announced by Admiral William M. Fechteler, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, after they had been reviewed by the convening authority, Rear Admiral Allan E. Smith, commander of the Atlantic Fleet cruiser force.

Fechteler explained that the effect "of the loss of a single number in the captains' grade is approximately twice that of the loss of a single number in the commanders' grade and approximately three times that in the lieutenant commander's grade." This is because line officers in the captains' grade total 1786, in the commanders' grade 3127, and in the lieutenant commanders' grade 4838.

The court martial that tried Brown on charges of negligence and neglect of duty sentenced him to a reduction of 300 numbers, but Smith reduced the punishment by 50 numbers because of the court's unanimous recommendation of clemency.

Smith let the sentences stand as imposed by the courts that tried Millett and Morris. He said the Millett court recommended clemency but he did not act on it as he felt the sentence was "inadequate." Millett was convicted of charges of negligence and neglect of duty, and Morris of charges of culpable inefficiency and neglect of duty. Both pleaded innocent.

Brown pleaded guilty to the charges against him and threw himself on the court's mercy.

Gulf Railroad Firemen Win Discrimination Case Verdict

Birmingham, Ala., May 3 (AP).—A Federal judge today ruled that the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad was guilty of discriminating against Negro firemen and ordered corrective measures.

Federal District Judge Clarence Mullins instructed the railroad to cease discriminating against the Negroes and denying them their seniority rights.

He ordered the line to assign the firemen to jobs on steam locomotives or as helpers on Diesel engines "to which their seniority as firemen, based upon continuous service, entitles each of them."

The G.M. & O. was told to grant such seniority rights to the Negroes "as long as white firemen are given such rights and assignments."

The plaintiffs also were awarded damages, representing the amounts they would have earned "if they had been assigned to jobs they were entitled to."

A special master will be appointed under the court order to determine the respective amounts due each plaintiff.

The suit was a class action brought on behalf of all Negro firemen employed by the railroad.

Lie Plans Talk With Stalin

22, Lie conferred with President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Since then he has interviewed British and French leaders in London and Paris.

But he said he was taking no messages or proposals from President Truman or other Western leaders to Stalin. He said, however, his suggestion for a Security Council meeting with world leaders had been received in Washington "with enthusiasm and sympathy."

Without mentioning former President Hoover directly, he struck at the Hoover proposal of last week that the United Nations be reorganized to exclude Russia and other Communist nations.

"Now it is proposed to split the world permanently into two camps," he said. "That road will harden existing divisions in the world; create new ones; perpetuate and accelerate the armaments race; make economic warfare a permanent condition; condemn all the poor and hungry in many parts of the world to remaining poor and hungry; bring the propaganda war and its accompanying hysteria to new depths of intellectual and moral degradation, and destroy the chance for agreements on control of atomic energy.

"There is only one possible end to that road—sooner or later a third world war.

"The other road is the United Nations."

(In Washington, Warren Austin, a Republican and United States representative to the United Nations, also took sharp issue with Hoover. In a statement issued after he had talked to President Truman, Austin said he would "strongly oppose any effort to exclude the Soviet Union from the United Nations."

(Declaring he had no fear of Russia's use of the U. N. as a sounding board for propaganda, Austin said "we must never close the door to the negotiation of outstanding differences, and in that regard the United Nations is a house of a thousand doors.")

House Group Cuts Tax on 'Economy' Cigarettes 2.1 Cents

the Treasury would be the losers

Advocates of the cut, backed up by the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission, argued on the other hand that it was the only way to revive price competition in the cigarette field and to loosen the "monopoly" of the big standard brand producers.

The Boggs amendment steps down from $3.50 a thousand to 7 cents a pack to $2.45 a thousand or 4.9 cents a pack the Federal excise on cigarettes retailing at not more than 12 cents a pack. (including Federal tax).

It thus introduced for the first time the advalorem principle into cigarette taxes, a shift cheaper brand producers have sought for many years. In effect, it also opened the way for a lively price war, with some standard brand producers possibly moving into the economy field.

The Treasury's 90-million-dollar revenue loss figure was based on estimates that economy brands will capture 25 percent of the market if the lower price becomes effective.

Spokesmen for the economy brand producers pooh-poohed the estimate. They said the best they hoped to do if the tax cut becomes effective is to double their present 1 percent share of the market the first year. They cited an earlier Treasury estimate that the cut would have no substantial immediate effect as more accurate.

Eight Republicans and five Democrats are understood to have lined up for the cut. Ten Democrats and two Republicans voted "No." So close was the count that a later switch of one vote could reverse the result.

The cigarette tax action stirred up some pressure for cuts in liquor and beer taxes before the committee opens its search for offsetting revenues. Liquor tax cuts thus far have been confined to alcohol sold for medicinal use.

While the tax making group continued carving Federal income the House again voted for more spending—adding 1½ million dollars to the omnibus appropriation bill for a new Indian hospital in Albuquerque, N. Mex. Several efforts to modestly pare the bill were defeated.

Since the 29 billion dollar measure was reported to the House more than a month ago every major economy effort has failed. Instead, a net total of $68,800,000 has been added to the big measure and at least 350 million dollars more requested by the Administration for defense is slated to be voted next week.

Old-Age Pension Hike Voted

ent would be increased to about $49.

The committee's table on this is:

Present primary insurance benefit	New primary amount
$10	$20
$15	$31
$20	$36
$25	$48
$30	$56
$35	$62
$40	$68
$45	$72

Under the House-passed bill a person receiving $20 a month primary benefit would get $36 also, but from that point on Senate benefits are higher.

Primary Benefits

The primary benefit is the basic payment made to a husband, not counting the allowance for dependents.

The Senate committee estimates that its bill making it easier for those approaching the retirement age of 65 to become eligible for benefits that 500,000 persons would be paid those benefits in the first year of operation.

Senators stated that this should reduce the need for public relief expenditures by the States.

In the Senate measure, as in the House bill, the maximum family benefit under existing law of $85 a month would be increased to $150, but not more than 80 percent of the average monthly wage of the insured person.

Under the Senate committee's action, benefits are payable on a more liberal basis in respect to deaths of insured married women and also in respect to dependent husbands of deceased or retired women workers. Thus if a woman is currently insured at the time of her death (has six quarters of coverage out of the 13-quarter period ending with the quarter of death) her children will be eligible for monthly survivor benefits even though the father of the children is present in the household. Under existing law and the House-approved bill such children would be ineligible for benefits.

The Senate measure is more liberal than the House in benefit payments for retirement because of age, but it drops entirely the House plan to establish social security retirement for permanent and total disability.

Seven Million Added

Both House and Senate measures would add seven million new wage earners on a compulsory basis. The Senate bill would bring in on a voluntary basis about 1.5 million State and local government employes not now covered under a retirement system. The House bill would add four million on a voluntary basis. The present law covers 35 million workers.

Final action on all parts of the Senate Committee bill has not yet been taken, but George told reporters he expects to have the measure ready for the Senate next week.

George said that under the Senate bill total benefit payments in the first year would amount to about two billion dollars compared to about 700 million dollars now and $1,500,000,000 under the House bill.

The Senate Committee kept the present maximum wage base of $3000 a year on which employers and employes make contributions to the system instead of raising it to $3600 as the House did.

The committee approved a House provision that would increase the amount that a beneficiary may earn in covered employment without loss of benefits from $14.99 a month to $50 a month.

Also accepted in substance was a House provision granting veterans of World War II wage credits of $160 a month under the old-age and survivors insurance program for the time spent in service.

George said the committee planned to make the bill effective at the end of the second month after its enactment so far as increased benefits go. All other provisions, he said, would not take effect until January 1, 1951.

18 Natives Dead In South African May Day Riots

Capetown, Union of South Africa, May 3 (AP).—A night of terror growing out of an attemped May Day strike in Johannesburg and the surrounding gold-mining region led to the death of 18 Negroes and the wounding of more than 30, Justice Minister C. R. Swart told the House of Assembly today.

Swart charged in an interview that Communists are devoting 95 percent of their attention to stirring up South Africa's Negro population.

He said a "strong, wide" anti-Communist bill will be introduced in Parliament Friday.

Sixteen of the Negroes killed at Johannesburg and nearby were shot by police in dispersing gatherings. Two suffocated in a movie theater set afire by rioters. Shops were looted and street lights stoned when rioting flared in all the native suburbs of Johannesburg and some nearby towns.

Upshur St. TB Hospital to Stay Open, Says Seckinger in Apparent Reversal

District Health Officer Daniel L. Seckinger yesterday disclosed plans to keep Upshur Street Hospital open, at least on a "semi-permanent" basis.

Decision to maintain the District's convalescent home for tubercular patients follows by less than a week published reports of his recommendation to District Commissioners that the hospital property could be "used for other purposes."

Explaining the apparent reversal, the health officer yesterday said he never meant his recommendation to be interpreted as proposing immediate closing of the institution.

"We surely want to continue our Upshur Street Hospital program of rehabilitation of patients, at least till we have some relief in additional beds at Glenn Dale Sanatorium," he declared. Some 80 patients are now under care there.

Last week's newspapers carried reports of Dr. Seckinger's recommendations of March 13 to the District Commissioners. They included:

1. Building an additional apartment home at Glenn Dale, Md., the District's sanatorium for tubercular patients, to provide about 50 new beds in quarters now occupied by staff members.

2. Discharge of as many convalescent patients at Upshur st. as possible for continued care in their own homes.

3. Immediate efforts to obtain Federal planning funds for a long-proposed 400-bed addition to Glenn Dale Sanatorium.

4. Use of the Upshur st. property "for other purposes."

Amplifying the last recommendation, Dr. Seckinger pointed out to the Commissioners that the 13½-acre tract at 14th and Upshur sts. nw., has an assessed valuation of $189,932, and that its sale would offset some of the building costs for the proposed additions to Glenn Dale.

Chrysler Peace Talks Again Reported Hot

Detroit, May 3 (AP).—Peace talks in the 99-day-old Chrysler strike, hot and cold for weeks, reportedly took a turn for the better today.

Neither the negotiators for the company nor the CIO United Auto Workers nor Federal or State mediators would make any prediction, however, as to when the 89,000 strikers would get back to their jobs.

One source, who refused use of his name, said the several remaining contract issues had crystalized to the point where a little yielding by either side could lead to a quick settlement.

"One nod of the head could do it," was the way he put it.

The issues are understood to have been narrowed down to only two of any consequence: (1) the length of the contract, and (2) procedure for handling grievances. The union is reported to be willing to sign a contract extending to August, 1952 with a longer agreement covering pensions. The company has proposed an over-all contract running for five years.

Agreement reportedly has been reached on the major issue that caused the walkout January 25—financing of $100 monthly pensions, including Federal social security benefits. Most of the remainder are believed less controversial.

Yardmasters' Strike Called, Then Dropped

Chicago, May 3 (AP).—The railroad yardmasters of America today called a three day protest strike in seven Midwest rail centers starting tomorrow and then called it all off less than two hours later.

Francis A. O'Neill, jr., chairman of the National (railway) Mediation Board, said Milton G. Schoch, president of the yardmasters union, had advised him of the strike cancelation. He added the union would submit its demands to a Presidential fact-finding board next week in Chicago.

Schoch had said the strike was to be called to back up demands for a five instead of a six-day work week.

The strike was authorized for rail centers in Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn.; Omaha and Lincoln, Nebr.; Council Bluffs, Iowa, and St. Louis and Kansas City.

Ministers Win Delay In Atlanta Bus Strike

Atlanta, May 3 (AP).—About 300,000 users of this city's transit system can thank six clergymen for not having to walk, hitch-hike or drive to work today.

Intervention by the ministers "on behalf of the public good and welfare" last night brought postponement for at least 15 days of a threatened walk-out by 1500 street trolley and bus operators.

The drivers were about ready to strike when Dr. D. J. Evans of the Gordon Street Baptist Church delivered the pastors' appeal for a delay.

Union leaders and the Georgia Power Co., operator of the transit system, quickly agreed to an extension of the 1949 contract with the AFL transit workers union.

The operators now receive $1.35 an hour. They want that hiked to $1.47 and their pension plan revised.

GOP Awards Bachelor of Charm Degrees

Certificates were presented yesterday to 25 party workers from 11 States and the District to conclude the three-day Republican School of Politics.

Republican congressional leaders were on hand for the ceremonies in the Senate Minority Conference Room in the Senate Office Building.

Presentation was made by Mrs. Joseph R. Farrington, director of the school and president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

She presented scrolls certifying the completion by the "graduates" of "a course in basic training for local political leaders."

The school is the first of a series of four arranged by the Republican National Committee.

Point Of Fact

Senator McCarthy was at last brought to bay yesterday on one of his myriad charges about the State Department. He was reported to have said in his now famous speech at Wheeling, W. Va., on February 9 that he had in his possession the names of 205 Communists in the Department of State. He has fudged and equivocated about that speech and continued to do so yesterday, refusing to give a straight answer about it. It is a verifiable matter, and it should be verified. We believe that Senator Tydings, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Subcommittee investigating the McCarthy charges, should forthwith subpena the local radio station recording of the disputed speech—if such a recording exists—and should call before his subcommittee the radio and newspaper reporters who heard the speech delivered and received advance copies of it from the speaker. It is high time to call Senator McCarthy to account.

FBI On Guard

There is reason for reassurance in Attorney General McGrath's assertion the other day that in the event of war, the FBI is prepared to round up all persons regarded as bad security risks. The FBI did this with admirable thoroughness and precision in the days immediately following Pearl Harbor. It knew just where to put its hands on the tiny number of German, Italian and Japanese agents in America and did it so effectively that there was not a single enemy-directed act of sabotage during the entire course of the war. The FBI had no part in the Army's hysterical evacuation of all persons of Japanese ancestry, including about 80,000 American citizens, from the West Coast in 1942.

But the picture today is clouded by confusion as to what constitutes a "bad security risk." The FBI was able to do its essential task without violence to civil rights in 1941 because it knew what to look for; it did not make the mistake of rounding up everyone who had yellow skin or who spoke with a foreign accent or who belonged to the German-American Bund. But if, as he was recently reported to have told a subcommittee of the Senate, J. Edgar Hoover really thinks that Russia has a fifth column in this country more than half a million strong, the difficulty of seeing the trees for the forest may arise.

In the present state of hysteria, moreover, it is doubtful that any realistic appraisal of the security danger by the FBI would satisfy extremists like Senator McCarthy who regard any deviation from their own orthodoxy as disloyal. Nothing short of a steady procession of tumbrils and a Nation-wide network of concentration camps would slake the thirst for human sacrifice of the superpatriots. Let us hope that the vital task of rounding up actual enemy agents is left to the FBI and that the FBI approaches it with its intellect rather than with its emotions.

Clean Bill For Hawaii

The charges of communism in Hawaii which often have been used to delay Statehood legislation have been effectively thrown down by Representative Francis E. Walter. Mr. Walter is the chairman of a special subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee which just returned from the islands. While there, the committee had the assistance of the FBI and Army and Navy Intelligence in looking into the Communist problem. Mr. Walter reports that there never were more than 160 Communists in Hawaii, and that now the number is no more than 90. Despite infiltration of key labor unions, the people of Hawaii are fully aware of the menace and able to cope with it.

The Un-American Activities Committee has never been known to whitewash any issue involving communism. It should now be clear to all but the most crustacean diehards that communism is no legitimate bar to Hawaiian Statehood. On every ground Hawaii qualifies—a long period of tutelage and a demonstrated ability in self-government, adequate population well steeped in American traditions with a superb record of patriotism during the war, a fine educational system, good finances. Even now a constitutional convention is drawing up a constitution for use when Congress acts.

Statehood has never been so close for Hawaii. It has been approved by the House, and the bill is now before the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. In justice not only to Hawaii, but also to the Union—which will be strengthened by the admission of this Pacific stronghold—the committee has a responsibility to report the bill promptly, so that the full Senate may vote.

Who Lost China!

A mood of frustration is said to have seized the American people. It helps in part to explain popular support for the congressional quest for scapegoats for the diplomatic defeat in China—a quest which looks for all the world like a return to the sacrificial ceremonies of primitive times. The general irrationality is summed up in the parrot phrase, uttered with demanding sarcasm rather than as an interrogation, Who Lost China! The exclamation carries a whole weight of meaning and feeling. America is held to have lost China, and to Russia, and the culprit is regarded as the present Administration. So much pain and passion is evoked in Who Lost China! that the man from Mars would think that nothing less than a piece of American territory had been stolen. It is as if a sort of California had been severed from the Union.

This curious emotion derives from the great sentiment for China which has characterized the American people since the early days of American intercourse. Those were the days of the clipper era when fast sailing ships out of Salem and the Eastern ports wrested the blue ribbon of the China trade from the English. That business created the first fortunes in New England. It brought into rich households the silks and objets d'art of a fabulous Cathay which in turn cemented a link at once profitable and romantic. It is a fact that the affluence of many American leaders of affairs dates back to the commerce between Manchu China and early America, as, for instance, the Delano money. This inheritance began the process of building up a stereotype about ancient and pacific and famine-ravaged China which has survived all the vicissitudes of Sino-American relations.

In course of time other ties with China were developed by Americans of non-mercantile interests, notably missionaries. The missionary link grew tight and intimate, and this insured for China the readiest access to the American purse and to American sympathy of any nation on earth. Scarcely an American exists today who hasn't dropped his dime or more in a mission box at some period of his lifetime. To add to the Sino-American nexus, supple and gifted representatives of China one after the other have practiced with high skill the diplomatic art of suggesting American responsibility for China. All in all, a China cult has been created, a cult that, as the London Economist recently pointed out, is on all fours in its effect upon policy with the Arab cult in England.

No wonder, then, that a sense of loss as of one's own can be imparted to the phrase: Who Lost China! It is necessary, however, to look further into a question that has become a proposition. Leave aside the indubitable fact that China belongs to China. Has China ever been "lost" in the sense that it has succumbed to the alien intruder or to foreign direction? Here Chinese history is of assistance. It is an odd thing in China's glorious annals to discover a native dynasty. Since written history began, China has been "lost" time and again, yet has survived for 4000 years with its culture and integrity intact. Nor can it be proven that the Chinese people have been "lost" even when there has been a change of regime. The Administration, it is said, has lost China to Russia; but even former Ambassador Hurley, in a violent broadcast inveighing against "selling China down the river," said he doubted whether there is more than a tiny fraction of the Chinese people in the ideological camp of the Communists. This is the great fact that the policy-makers cannot afford to forget in reversing what is admittedly a diplomatic defeat in China.

The answer to the question "Who Lost China?"—the only one consonant with the facts of Chinese sovereignty and Chinese misgovernment—is, oddly, that China "lost" China, and that nothing could have saved China except American control. This would have saddled America with a staggering and continuous responsibility which, if history is any guide, would in the end have meant China's absorption of America—an entanglement, indeed, for the isolationists, who are the ones that are using the question today as an indictment of the Administration's foreign policy.

Smathers' Victory

Republicans are claiming that Congressman Smathers' victory in the Florida primary is a defeat for the Administration and an indication that the tide is running against Fair Deal policies. In our opinion this verdict is an oversimplified interpretation of the results of the contest. It ignores the fact that personalities as well as principles played a large part in determining the outcome of a contest in which both candidates resorted to demagoguery and name-calling. In many cases voters were undoubtedly influenced by such tactics rather than by the voting records of the contestants and their stand on major political issues.

Although Senator Pepper presented himself as a loyal supporter of the Fair Deal, nevertheless he denounced President Truman as a reactionary prior to 1948, and tried to displace him as the Democratic Party's candidate for President. His subsequent support of the President was almost certainly born of pure opportunism. It is significant, too, that President Truman resisted pressure to support Senator Pepper, remaining strictly neutral throughout the intraparty contest.

Judging from Representative Smathers' voting record, moreover, he will be a stout supporter of the Administration's present foreign policy. On the other hand, he does not follow the party line as regards the Taft-Hartley law, which he indorses as "basically good," whereas Senator Pepper declares that it "shackles" labor and ought to be repealed. However, Mr. Smathers voted against the more extreme labor bill sponsored by Congressman Hartley and supported the final Taft-Hartley bill only after it had been modified. Thus his recognition of the need for protective labor legislation does not stamp him as militantly antilabor.

Mr. Smathers has proved his ability as a campaigner, and it will be interesting to watch his career in the Senate.

Tactical Exercise

Many observers of the first stages of Operation Swarmer, the joint Air Force-Army maneuver at Camp Mackall, N. C., are convinced that it showed a grave deficiency in tactical air support of ground operations. These observations are of course no reflection on the exercise directed by Lieut. Gen. Lauris Norstad; one purpose of Operation Swarmer was to show up deficiencies so that they can be corrected. Nevertheless, it is disturbing to have so keen an authority as Gen. Mark Clark remark in respect of tactical air support that neither the Army nor the Air Force is sure it has "right planes for it today."

Until very recently there has been a distinct tendency in the Air Force to extol the virtues of strategic bombing and play down everything else. That is, measures to meet immediate needs of air supremacy and close support of ground operations seem to have been relegated to a back seat in favor of intercontinental attacks on enemy cities and industry. This may be an unfair statement of the Air Force position, but the suspicion is rife, as witness the feeling aroused among Army commanders over what they consider the ugly duckling role assigned to tactical aviation. There has been talk of returning tactical aviation to the Army, or even of turning the job over to the Marines. These proposals in our opinion are farfetched, but they indicate the intensity of the feeling of neglect.

If the United States and its European allies are to be able to stem any Russian aggression in Europe, they will have to hold ground. It is here that tactical aviation—with suitable close-support planes which apparently are now lacking—has a tremendous job. If the Russians were to sweep to the Channel, recapture of western Europe would be inordinately difficult and could be achieved only at the expense of great damage to the countries involved. It is for this reason that the retention of allies and bases in Europe is essential to the defense of the United States. Without adequate air support, ground defense would be crippled and perhaps impotent.

Concentration on strategic bombing at the expense of tactical aviation has other disadvantages. First, great reliance on intercontinental bombing is essentially isolationism, and that word has a bad effect on European morale. This strategy implies the probable loss of European bases which it would be cheaper and more practical to hold in the first place. Second, if strategic bombing became enthroned, it would virtually commit the United States to wholesale reliance on the atom bomb. Whatever destruction strategic use of the atom bomb might bring, the consensus is that it could not by itself win a war. The danger is that any defense effort predicated on the atom bomb, without sufficient emphasis on the less dramatic components of military strength, could turn out to be inadequate. The deficiencies shown up by Operation Swarmer indicate that Congress ought to look closely at the place of tactical aviation as it considers more money for air power.

Focus On Crime

Every city where law enforcement suffers from the inroads of interstate crime must be grateful to the Senate for acting yesterday on the Kefauver resolution. Majority leader Lucas deserves a round of applause for his part in enabling the resolution to be wedged into the ECA debate.

We hope Vice President Barkley will recognize the bipartisan status the committee should have by consulting Republican leaders on the two minority appointments. The investigation of syndicates and racketeering by a five-man delegation from the Judiciary and Interstate Commerce Committees will not stop crime. It will, however, help put the finger on the spots where criminal elements are operating across State lines and where they have corrupted local law enforcement, and thus will lay out possible fields for Federal action. Aside from any new Federal legislation that may stem from the investigation, it should help arouse community sentiment and thus enable local police agencies to do a better job.

The separate hearings conducted by the Interstate Commerce Subcommittee on specific crime legislation have emphasized the importance of the investigation. Along with the elliptical testimony of big-time gamblers, the committee has heard serious criticism of communications companies for permitting illegal use of their facilities by bookmakers. Very probably some of this criticism is well justified, but it hits at a by-product rather than the cause of the illegal activity. The real facts cannot be brought out in open hearings; they must be dug out by patient work beneath the surface. Further consideration of specific bills might profitably be delayed until after the investigating committee reports.

The need now is to staff the investigating committee with the most competent nonpolitical investigators that can be found—which Senator Kefauver proposes to do—and then to have a period of grace in which they can conduct their probe quietly and without publicity. They have an immensely important job in exposing the manner in which racketeers are able to buy protection and thus imperil the integrity of law enforcement everywhere.

Federal Payment

The Washington Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action condemns the action of the House of Representatives in cutting $1,200,000 from the Federal payment to the District of Columbia, and urges the Senate to restore the original appropriation of 12 million dollars.

The action, taken by a vote of less than half of the House, is, as Congressman Bates said, "not only a poor amendment—it is even an absurd one." How many times do the Tabers and their like have to be reminded that this is not a gift from their constituents to the voteless citizens of the District but a token payment of a fraction of the tax revenue the District loses because of Federal occupancy of much of its most valuable property.

Congressman Taber says "There is not very much more exempt property in proportion to the total here in the District than there is in most of our own districts." How many times does he have to be told that more than half of the area of the District of Columbia is federally owned and tax-free? The District Committtees of Congress found, by investigation, that the taxes on comparable properties are higher in the District than they are in the surrounding areas of Maryland and Virginia.

The District needs revenue to improve its school system—which was found to be seriously deficient by the Strayer survey. And to improve its hospitals—which are condemned by the medical profession. And to improve its health services—which have been shown to be inadequate to cope with the high disease rates for which Washington is notorious. And to improve its welfare services—which every year are forced by lack of funds to curtail their niggardly relief budgets.

The District has raised its taxes and imposed a sales tax to improve its grossly inadequate public services—conditions which caused a leading national magazine recently to call Washington a "Disgrace to the Nation." Under these circumstances, Taber's piddling "economy" is a cheap demagogic attempt to hoodwink the voters of his district at the expense of the voteless citizens of the District of Columbia.

DAR Program

Certainly this year the Daughters of the American Revolution went on record with a number of constructive ideas, it may be pointed out to Miss Catebury, whose April 28 letter indicated she had sought in vain for vision and courage in the DAR program. She is to be commended for desiring the DAR to be a source of good, and I believe she will be glad to have brought to her attention one of the 1950 resolutions.

Yes, the DAR does oppose world government. This year the Daughters proposed that the United States Congress at least study the idea of making official United States claims on the six-million-square-mile Antarctic Continent and perhaps arrange that countries which receive our financial aid cede to us the territories they claim in the South Polar regions. These are not the exact words of the DAR resolution but the general sense. This resolution will almost certainly benefit Miss Catebury and her descendants, and perhaps sooner than she thinks, provided the American people decide to stand up for their rights on the seventh continent where there are undoubtedly rich resources. And United States technology used in developing new sources of wealth will in the end benefit the whole population of the world.

It may be asked what this has to do with opposing world government. There are several implications, probably, but personally I believe that this is one: the world government movement seems based in a measure on the premise that the world's present resources and production are such and such and can never be increased and, therefore, these resources must be redivided and managed carefully. The premise is false. There are unknown riches in the Antarctic. The seas of the world, too, have not yet been tapped. And then there are the other planets for later. So, you see, the world government plan would disrupt sovereign nations for no valid reason economically.

FHA Interest Charge

I appreciated the frankness of the article on the cost of FHA financing which appeared in your real estate section April 23.

Some real estate firms neglect, initially, to tell borrowers and buyers that there is one half of 1 percent added to the interest rate as a premium to the Government for insuring FHA loans. This bad news can always be sprung on the homeowner or buyer at the last minute, when he is "mentally committed" to making the deal, and will do so rather than admit his ignorance.

The law provides for this one half percent premium, but perhaps few persons know the law, notwithstanding the legal presumption that they do. Your article prevented me from an unprofitable refinancing. Maybe you can expose some other hidden charges.

Israel's Aim

I have read with considerable interest Mr. F. S. Wilson's statement in his letter of April 29 that "the Jews in Israel are now . . . proclaiming that it is necessary for them to invade additional Arab-held lands."

As anybody even sketchily informed about Near Eastern affairs knows, the very opposite is true. The government of Israel has declared solemnly on several occasions that the establishment of a stable and just peace is the foremost aim of its policy, that it does not intend to attack any Arab state, and that it does not covet any territory not now under its jurisdiction. No statement even remotely like that attributed to the Jews in Israel by Mr. Wilson has ever been made by any responsible Israel official.

Israel has requested facilities for acquiring arms for legitimate self-defense, as she feels her security imperiled by the rearmament of the Arab states. Mr. Wilson's comparison of this request with "Hitler's proclamations" is as absurd as it is unfounded on fact.

Hoover's Call

God must have preserved our former President Herbert Hoover to this present hour, that he might deliver to us his timely message. It is an appeal that we rededicate ourselves to America and form a united front against the menace of communism, not only here, but throughout the world. An appeal for moral and spiritual awakening. Every father and mother—every boy and girl—would do well to read the text of this message and pray about it. I shall always remember Mr. Hoover's eloquent phrases, such as "By their cries ye shall know them." To us in the United States he is another Ezekiel the Prophet trying to save his people.

"Files On Maragon"

In your editorial of April 20 about the files in the Maragon case, you say that "it is important to keep clear the right to reach into the far-flung agencies of Government for evidence of corruption." Because I agree with you, I want to point out that when Mr. Maragon was being investigated by Senator Hoey's Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments, the committee investigators were given access to all the files of the Department of Agriculture on a confidential basis. Therefore, Congress was clearly unhampered in its search for fraud, or even minor irregularities, in the department's handling of the Allied Molasses Co. case or any part which Mr. Maragon may have played in it.

However, to disclose the same information in open court would be to override departmental regulations made pursuant to law and to reveal information, not pertinent to the case, which the department had received with the understanding that it would be held in confidence. The files would also have disclosed the sources which this department contacted at the time of our own study of the merits of the application of the Allied Molasses Co. for allocations of molasses.

To violate the confidence in one case jeopardizes the ascertainment of important facts in other cases. The departmental files in this case also contained reports of investigations made by the Compliance and Investigation Branch of this department in connection with suspected violations of law. I feel strongly that the disclosure of the sources of this kind of information should be safeguarded in the same way that you mention for information given to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The all-inclusive scope of the demand by Mr. Maragon's attorney, if complied with by this department, would have revealed confidential information which had no bearing upon the case. The courts have always felt constrained to deny demands for records, whether on the part of private persons or the Government, where the only purpose is the hope that somewhere among those documents something may be discovered which would aid the party in question. Mr. Justice Bailey's refusal to order me to reveal all the material called for in the subpena in this case was a recognition of the rule against permitting "fishing expeditions."

Your attention is further called to the fact that when Mr. Maragon's counsel later specified the particular matters which he wanted this department to disclose, and indicated the manner in which they were pertinent to his case, they were made available by the department, turned over to the court, and are now part of the record in the Maragon case.

I feel sure that your criticism of this department arose from a misunderstanding of the situation and the law, because I am well aware of your long-standing editorial policy of protecting people from the disclosure of confidences.

Marriage To Aliens Mixup

By Malvina Lindsay

In U. N.'s Lap

THE CAPULETS and the Montagues—that is the Americans (or British, Germans, Japanese, etc.) and "foreigners" are marrying more and more. And more seeds of international romance are being sown by tourists, officials, businessmen swarming the globe; also by students, teachers and others participating in exchange programs.

Hence confusion over nationality status grows. If a woman of Shangri-La marries a citizen of Graustark, should she become a Graustarkian? Can she bring her husband into Shangri-La without his losing his nationality? Or do they both have two nationalities? Or none? What of their children—which government will claim and protect them? If they divorce, which country does each belong to?

The U. N.'s Commission on the Status of Women, at its session begining Monday, will renew its efforts to clear up this international puzzle. Everyone having inclination or aspiration for marriage has a stake in this proceeding. For in these days of diminishing time—space, marital destiny may land almost anyone on alien soil.

THIS Government, more liberal than many in respecting nationality status, will present to the commission, as a basis for discussion proposals aimed to bring nations together as to how they shall treat those who marry outside national boundaries. These are in accordance with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which provides that everyone has the right to a nationality and no one shall be arbitrarily deprived of nationality or denied the right to change it.

This country, though it has lagged on giving women full immigration rights with men, has been a party since 1933 to the Montevideo Convention that there shall be no distinction based on sex as regards nationality. Many Latin-American countries also subscribe to this, pledge that neither woman nor man loses her or his nationality by marrying an alien.

Yet some countries follow the older system whereby an alien wife takes the nationality of her husband, and is not free to renounce it. However there is a trend among some of these countries to liberalize this stand. Ideological warfare has complicated matters somewhat as many countries now do not want to be forced to accept aliens, even though wives (or husbands) of nationals, without reviewing their political affiliations.

Also entering into the nationality problem is the tendency of modern wives to maintain independent business and property interests. In consideration of this trend the United States is suggesting two general principles on which U. N. nations might agree on nationality legislation.

ONE is that marital status alone shall not affect the nationality of any person; the other that neither marriage nor its dissolution shall affect the nationality of either husband or wife. Thus no one would lose his nationality by marrying an alien; either spouse would have the right to change nationality independently of the other; no wife would acquire the nationality of her husband unless she so requested, and her nationality would not be affected by a change of his.

Then there is the question as to whether the child shall take father's or mother's nationality. Some countries discriminate against women on this. This country urges uniformity on this matter, proposes a declaration of choice by the child on reaching maturity, and in absence of this a recognition of nationality based on his general place of abode.

For two years the Commission on the Status of Women has been studying the nationality problem. In view of increasing international marriage it hopes some step toward a uniform treaty on the matter can be reached at the coming session.

Mrs. Olive Remington Goldman, United States representative, also is eager to see the needs of women in backward areas given more emphasis in the U. N. technical assistance program. For unless their primitive work load is lightened they will find difficulty using the educational and political privileges the commission is seeking for them.

"Botched Time"

Don't you think that your May 1 editorial, "Botched Time," is just a bit ridiculous—or at least somewhat immature? Or did you really mean to answer your own question about "this silly business" and the "confusion" that exists?

It is only rational to believe that until we can have a Nation-wide ukase to advance all clocks one hour at a set date it would be no more than common sanity to let those clocks alone. Meantime, instead of being in the midst of a situation where "confusion will reign supreme," anyone who wants to go to work—or play—an hour earlier would be just as free to do so as he who does not would be free to refuse. And all claims to the contrary notwithstanding, there is still a very considerable group which does not relish the idea of being forced into a change of schedule at the whim of others and which objects to being dragooned into a puerile piece of business for which there is neither reason nor common consideration for the rights and privileges of others.

Today and Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Initiative In London

IT IS NOT improbable that there is a connection between the forthcoming Bevin-Schuman-Acheson meeting in London and the action of the Soviet government in asking suddenly and quite unexpectedly that the conference on the Austrian treaty be resumed immediately. One can only speculate. But it has been evident for some time, during the period of active preparation for the London meeting, that Russia has the diplomatic initiative: that is to say, that she has the power to select and pose the questions and the problems which the Western ministers will then have to deal with.

Lippmann

MUCH OF the tension in Washington in recent weeks has been caused by the uncertainty as to where and when and how the Russians meant to use their initiative. Some have supposed that they would send a mass of German boys to "dislodge" us from Berlin; others that they would start a guerilla action against Tito; others that they would make an incursion into Iran. The popular and the public official line has been that somehow the Russians would strike a blow—that they would use their initiative to carry out some kind of local, and probably limited aggression. The Soviets have encouraged this theory by a series of diplomatic feints at Berlin, at Turkey, at Trieste, at Finland, at Iran.

There is another possibility. It is that they will use the initiative to conduct a peace offensive against the organization of the Atlantic Community as a military coalition. Their Austrian action could be a move heralding such a diplomatic campaign.

WHILE we can only speculate as to how the Russians will use their diplomatic initiative, there is nothing uncertain about the fact that they have it, and that—for the time being—we do not have it.

Why? Because, it seems to me, much has happened that is not faced up to and dealt with in United States and west European policy in the field of military security, economic recovery, and in relation to the future of Germany. Our established and accepted policies were formulated and adopted and explained to the people before (1) the Soviet Union broke our monopoly of atomic weapons and revolutionized the basic assumptions of European strategy, (2) before the end of the Marshall Plan was so near at hand that the fact it was ending controlled the practical decisions of all of the governments, and (3) before Germany had made not only a big economic recovery but an even more spectacular beginning in the recovery of her political importance in Europe.

No new decisions have been taken, no new policies and plans have been proposed, which face up to these new developments. Mr. Acheson is operating on the diplomatic legacy of General Marshall's administration of the State Department: during a year of momentous, indeed revolutionary, development in the world American policy has not developed. It has settled into a bureaucratic rigidity, into a brittle inflexibility, and has acquired a strong tendency to rely on preaching to do the work of policy.

THE INITIATIVE was bound to pass out of our hands until and unless we were able to formulate a grand strategical policy—military and political—which takes account of the new situation, of the situation which did not exist and was not foreseen when General Marshall was Secretary of State. It will be impossible for Secretary Acheson to regain the initiative and to exercise leadership until he is able to convince the world that the United States Government has taken adequate account of the epoch-making consequences of a race, rather than an American monopoly, of atomic weapons.

Nor can the Western countries take the initiative in planning their economic future unless they know with reasonable certainty what the United States intends to do after 1952 when the Marshall Plan ends. Until we can say what we intend to do, the other Western countries can make no common plans for the future. Each country will make its own plans for its own nearest advantage, or it will make no plans, assuming that somehow when the time comes Congress will vote some more money.

I think it is a fair criticism of the Truman-Acheson policy to say that, since the devaluation crisis of last September, they could and they should have formulated a financial policy and have taken the initiative.

IN GERMANY we are losing the initiative because on the one hand, the German recovery is so great that the occupation controls are becoming each week more unworkable,—and on the other hand, because in the doctrine and conception of our German relations we still continue to think of Germany as an occupied country that has surrendered unconditionally.

The liquidation of the controls will come very quickly now. There is no way to prevent it, even if that were still the best thing to do. But then as the controls are liquidated, the unconditional surrender of Germany is also liquidated. In what will follow in the relations of the two Germanys with one another, and with the Soviets and the Western powers, the initiative will pass increasingly and in the end, I would suppose, mainly to the Germans.

IT IS against a background of this sort that the Soviets will be operating during the coming weeks.

U. S. Holds 2 Frigates Sold To Egypt as Not Demilitarized

NYHT News Service

The State Department yesterday issued a hold order and started investigation of two surplus Navy frigates which were scheduled to sail momentarily for Egypt, ostensibly for passenger service under the Egyptian flag.

The Department previously had authorized the transfer of the 303-foot vessels, despite a ban on the sale of warships to countries in the Middle East tinder box, upon certification that they were to be demilitarized.

Yesterday's action, it was learned, followed receipt of information that although $75,000 has been spent to recondition the two ships at the Bethlehem shipyards in Baltimore, not a single gun mount or ammunition bin has been removed.

Served Under British

The two frigates, the Papua and Tobago, were built in 1944 and saw service during the war under lease to the British. Each carried three 3-inch guns, two 40-mm. and several 20-mm. antiaircraft guns and depth charges.

The embargo was issued after agents of the Egyptian buyers had refused to permit a reporter and a photographer to view the frigates.

Despite the order, however, a reporter viewed the frigates at Baltimore. He found all the gun mounts and ammunition bins intact. Only the guns had been removed. No reconversion to commercial uses had been effected. British captains and Middle Eastern crews were already on board, ready to take the ships out.

The incident developed as the State Department said that it still has under consideration an application of Israel for permission to buy heavy arms here to defend herself against any resumption of the Palestine war, in which Israel was arrayed against Egypt and the other Arab countries.

Egypt is receiving modern tanks, jet-propelled military planes and other heavy military equipment from Great Britain pursuant to treaty arrangements. Transjordan similarly is being armed by the British.

While Secretary of State Dean Acheson has said that there is no likelihood of a resumption of Arab-Jewish hostilities, the State Department has retained the ban on export of heavy arms, including warships, to that area.

Acheson denied yesterday a report that the State Department has decided to reject the Israeli request for assistance in buying modern arms here. He said that consideration has to be given item by item and that specific requests have to be considered against the available supply, and defense requirements in the Middle East.

Michigan Widow Named Catholic Mother of Year

Mrs. John Bauer, a Manchester Mich., widow who gave 9 of her 14 children to the service of the Catholic Church, yesterday was named Catholic mother of the United States for 1950.

Four of Mrs. Bauer's sons are in the congregation of the Holy Cross, the Catholic community which runs the University of Notre Dame. Five of her daughters, one of them now dead, joined the Sisters of Mercy.

Mrs. Bauer, a widow since 1936 and a partial invalid, lives with an unmarried daughter in Manchester. The award will be delivered to her on Mother's Day, May 14.

Swiss Advised To Stock Supplies

Bern, Switzerland, May 3 (AP).—The Swiss government called on housewives and industrialists today to stock up on supplies

"Preparations for the military defense of the country would be incomplete if the economic defenses were not simultaneously prepared with all possible means," the Economic Department explained in a communique.

"Household and industrial stocks would play an important part if unforeseeable events should cut short our supplies."

Economic Minister Rodolphe Rubattel said the appeal was "a normal precaution."

"It is impossible to foretell the development of the international situation," Rubattel said. "But it is possible, and even probable, that in case of war we would no longer be able to replenish our supplies."

Smathers' Victory

By Marquis Childs

Pepper Defeat Laid To Irregularity

THOSE WHO are seeking to make communism the issue in the election this fall and then again in 1952 will claim the victory in Florida of Congressman George Smathers over Senator Claude Pepper as proof of their argument that this is the best way to win. And they will have some justification.

There is evidence that the Red charges against Pepper took hold with voters not merely at the top but down the scale. Quite early in the campaign the operator of a beauty parlor in a resort town put it like this:

"Yes, Senator Pepper has done a lot for beauty parlor operators from time to time. But I'm not going to vote for him because they say he's a Red."

It would be unwise, however, to draw any final conclusion from the outcome of the intensely bitter Florida contest. To begin with, Florida is a one-party State and Pepper was running against a powerful Republican minority sparked by rich Northern vacationers as well as the conservative Democrats.

Then, too, the Senator with the glib tongue was extraordinarily vulnerable. His ambition and his egotism had led him down the primrose path of dalliance with the extreme left in the years immediately after the war. The bait held out to Pepper was the Presidency.

THIS dazzling prize persuaded him into strange bypaths. In New York's Madison Square Garden the ambitious lawyer from Florida stood under the brilliant searchlights and gave out the proper line to draw massed cheers and, at the mention of hated names, massed booing.

Under this spell Pepper opposed not merely the extreme right wing of his party, the Dixiecrats, but the regular Democratic organization and President Truman. Thus he was two removes away from a sizable segment of the Democratic Party in Florida.

Furthermore, Pepper took conspicuous public occasions to demonstrate his irregularity. At the Democratic convention in 1944 Harry Truman, then a Senator from Missouri, is said to have received word that Pepper favored him for the vice presidential nomination.

Truman was nominated for Vice President by his old friend from Missouri, Bennett Champ Clark, now a judge on the Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia. Pepper was recognized and seconded the renomination of Henry Wallace for Vice President.

But it was at the Philadelphia convention four years later that Pepper really advertised his party irregularity. He had teamed up with the liberal-left Democrats who were eager to displace Truman as the party's nominee because Truman so obviously could never win reelection.

The antics of this group made a peculiarly absurd kind of political history. They were first for drafting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower even though it should have been apparent that the general shared almost none of their views.

When Eisenhower was out, they switched to Justice William O. Douglas. And finally a feeble little boomlet for Pepper sprang up with Pepper for President signs blossoming briefly in an office across from the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

MOST PEOPLE forget such minor footnotes to a big political shindy almost as soon as they are over. But President Truman is one who does not forget. His political memory is longer than an elephant's and just as unerring. Several Southern visitors who saw him during the campaign reported that in their opinion he would not shed many tears if Pepper were to be defeated.

Since Smathers voted and spoke in opposition to Administration policy on important issues, Pepper's defeat could presumably cause trouble beginning next January. But one more Southern Senator, which is what Smathers promises to be, will surely not make much difference in view of the present confused and divided state of the Democratic Party in Congress.

If Smathers follows the lead of the wealthy Northerners who helped to elect him, he will go on to become part of the organization that is attempting to make it possible for Southern electors in the 1952 election to cast their votes for a Republican for President. But no matter how clever the maneuver, this would seem to many Democrats to be party irregularity. And party irregularity, as the Florida election has shown once again, can bring dire retribution on the individual who deviates from orthodoxy.

Truman Invitation to Taylor Vexes Democrats of Idaho

NYHT News Service

President Truman stirred up an angry battle in his own party yesterday by inviting Senator Glen H. Taylor of Idaho, who bolted the Democrats in 1948 to become Henry A. Wallace's running-mate, to ride on the presidential train through Idaho next week.

Idaho Democratic leaders who have been organizing a campaign to "purge" the left-wing Senator Taylor in the State's August 10 primary exploded with denunciations of the President's action, which they interpreted as a boost for the Senator's reelection and a sign that he had been restored to the Administration's good graces.

Dan J. Cavanaugh, Idaho's Democratic national committeeman, said he had not been informed of the White House invitation to Taylor although he had been notified he would be in charge of arrangements for six rear-platform speeches the President plans to make as his train crosses the State on May 10 on his "nonpolitical" Western tour.

"I'm so surprised that Mr. Truman would do anything like that I can hardly believe it," said Cavanaugh by telephone from Twin Falls, Idaho.

"I've always been against Glen Taylor and I'm going to try to beat him in the primary this year regardless of what the President says or does. The situation in Idaho regarding Taylor is the same as it was in Florida regarding Pepper."

D. Worth Clark, former Democratic Senator who was nosed out by Senator Taylor in 1944, tossed his hat in the ring formally for the Taylor seat as soon as he heard about the President's invitation. He had not disclosed previously whether he would run against Senator Taylor in the primary or seek the seat now held by Senator Henry C. Dworshak, a Republican.

"You can say I'm going to run against Taylor," Clark told a reporter by telephone.

"I'm more than a little surprised that the President would ask Taylor to ride with him across the State. He seems to have forgotten, if Taylor had had his way, Truman wouldn't be in the White House today."

Taylor told reporters he had been invited to ride with the President across Idaho and presumably to appear with him on the train platform for the whistle-stop speeches.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, said later he had heard of no such invitation.

Senator Taylor shot back that the invitation had come from the White House.

[Meanwhile, Republican sources disclosed that Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio will reply to President Truman's May 15 Chicago address 24 hours later.

[Mr. Truman will address a Democratic mass meeting in Chicago stadium at 11:30 p. m. (EDT) May 15. His 30 minute address will be broadcast simultaneously on the four major networks. Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson has asked the four networks for the same broadcast facilities on May 16 at the same hour.—Editor's note].

Basehart's Ex-Con Funny and Frantic

By Richard L. Coe

"OUTSIDE THE WALL," at Keith's, concerns a young man who went into stir—podden, prison—at 14 and didn't get out till he was 29.

Before he's been out an hour he's tangled with Philadelphia's traffic lights and ordered pop in a beer joint. Since Richard Basehart's character and your reporter are roughly of an age (which is about as rough as you can get), I must confess this aspect of the character surprised me. The Basehart character couldn't have dwelt in a brook all the years before he hit stir, so I was mildly astonished that traffic lights and beer joints could so jolt the lad. What a backward little tyke he must have been.

But to get on with the story, which is something the picture takes its time in doing, the toughest thing Richard comes across his first week out it Woman. Most unnerving of Woman is Marilyn Maxwell, blonde, curvaceous, wise. Most understanding of Woman is Dorothy Hart, brunette, curvaceous and gentle. It takes Richard some while to discover the one is Evil, the other Good. Guess which.

Things pick up when a guy Richard knew in stir pops up in the suburban sanitarium where our boy is an orderly of all work. Both the girls are nurses in this rest home but one wants money, money, money. Richard, natch, wants her, and when it turns out the patient under the assumed name, who's just robbed a Brinks truck of a million in cash, needs help, he turns to Richard.

So our gentle, virginal hero is tempted once mor into the life that does not pay. He comes close to losing his neck, but to tell you any more would be to give away Crane Wilbur's yarn, which the onetime actor has himself directed.

Once the excitement gets under way after the rather slow if humorous digressions are made on the worldly wisdom of a fellow long locked up, "Outside the Walls" picks up steam. There's the razzle-dazzle climax one expects from good melodrama and the idea itself is not without merit.

The picture has a realistic tone, the first scenes having been made at Philadelphia's Cherry Hill pen and in city streets. But the sanitarium and its people boil down to types.

Basehart is good, despite the early ramblings getting across his plight with wry amusement. He is certainly one of the most promising of postwar leading men and one looks forward to a sound career for him. Miss Maxwell could scarcely be more beautiful ,though her nurse is more absurdly comical than believable. Miss Hart's an eye-filling pleasantry and Signe Hasso does well as a gangster's wife, if anyone can "do well by" a gangster's wife.

If you girls are looking for a picture your boy friends will get some laughs from, steer 'em into Basehart's unenviable adventure. They'll understand.

Music of Army Band Unites Services in One Happy Family

By Paul Hume

The Army Band's 16-week series of Freedom Sings came to a close last night.

Before its usual tightly filled Departmental Auditorium, the band, under Capt. Hugh Curry played an American program, saluting all 48 States and especially Tennessee, sixteenth State to ratify the Constitution.

Two American singers were soloists: Marguerite Piazza, soprano, and Brooks McCormack, tenor.

During the program, the spirit of cooperation was rampant. Robert E. Fowler, a lieutenant commander in the Coast Guard, was made a member of the United States Army. It happened this way:

Col. John T. Cole, deputy commanding officer, Military District of Washington, spoke in appreciation of the loyal audiences throughout the concerts. He then presented Fowler with a certificate of honorary membership in the Army Band. It is the first time such an honor has ever been given. Fowler is publicity chairman of the Sesquicentennial Commission.

After acknowledging the tribute, Fowler introduced Paul Massmann, general manager of the commission. Returning the honor, Massmann gave Captain Curry a scroll expressing the commission's appreciation of the band's series of concerts.

At this point, Captain Curry led the band through a melody of songs of all service branches, tying Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard, into one happy, unified unit. Isn't music wonderful? Unification just like that!

Both Miss Piazza and McCormack were rewarded for their attractive singing by demands for encores. It was an evening in gala mood, looking hopefully toward a sesquicentennial year of more and better American music in every sphere.

Anacostia Flood Control Voted in Bill

The House yesterday gave final approval and sent to the Senate a compromise Rivers and Harbors bill which includes $4,500,000 for Anacostia River flood control and dredging work.

Locally, the omnibus bill also carries a $142,000 authorization for removing water chestnuts in the Potomac River from Key Bridge to Maryland Point.

The measure also provides for a survey of Chincoteague Bay with a view of establishing a harbor of refuge and a flood control survey of the Mattiponi River, Va.

If the Senate approves the $1,730,251,825 bill, it will go to the White House.

Prince Georges Awards Two School Contracts

Contracts for additions to two Prince Georges elementary schools were awarded yesterday by th County Board of Education.

Low bidder on both was W. M. Chappell of Washington. Contracts call for addition of eight classrooms to the Brandywine School at a cost of $275,235, and four classrooms and a multi-purpose room at Bradbury Hegihts for $109,810.

Just Social, Bottle Club Tells Court

The Government ran into its first formal opposition in District Court yesterday in its drive to close the city's after-hours bottle clubs.

Charles E. Ford, attorney for the Club Villa Bia, 2019 19th st. nw. doggedly fought throughout a day long trial against the Government's suit, which charged the club was in violation of its charter, and therefore should be dissolved.

United States Attorney George Morris Fay has brought similar suits against 11 other bottle clubs, four of which have been bottled up without court contest.

Of the eight remaining clubs, all have been enjoined from disposing of their assets and are awaiting trial, with three already placed in hands of a court-appointed receiver. None of these actions was contested by the club owners.

Assistant United States Attorneys Ross T. O'Donoughue and Bruce Sundlun told Judge F. Dickinson Letts yesterday the Villa Bia's 1944 charter declared it was organized "to promote the general cultural, social and economic welfare of its members."

Two police witnesses testified they entered the club last January and purchased several rounds of drinks.

Mrs. Ambia Roey, who said she was the club's secretary-treasurer, swore she "never purchased any whisky for sale at a profit."

The club, she said, serves as a private gathering place for many "highly respectable" persons who have no similar place to go in the District.

"We donate free use of the club to several social, civic and fraternal organizations, including several Howard University fraternal groups," she testified.

Under questioning by Ford, Mrs. Roey said the club "has never made any money" and since its start she personally has invested $15,000 to $20,000 in equipment and renovation of the Villa Bia.

Most of the records of the club's financial state, she explained, were stolen from her safe last February 3.

Judge Letts continued the case until 10 a. m. Monday.

Brokers Liable

1946 Whisky Deal Award Sustained

The United States Court of Appeals yesterday upheld an $8000 District Court award given District Line Liquors, 405 6th st. ne., for "misrepresentation" made by a whisky brokers' partnership in the sale of 600 cases of liquor.

The defendants are William Stein and Ferdinand Ney, trading as Stein-Ney Co. The partnership since has dissolved.

The sale was made in 1946, when, because of the liquor shortage, "it was difficult to purchase whisky at wholesale in substantial amounts," the court said.

The defendants called Ely J. Treger, the District Line Liquors owner, and told him that they could get an unlimited amount of liquor provided he placed a $10 a case deposit with them, the court found.

Treger was told the liquor would come from the North American Distributing Co. of Chicago, which the defendants said was "financially all right," according to evidence.

It turned out that Treger got only 100 cases of liquor, after which the Chicago firm went bankrupt, according to his lawyer, John L. Laskey.

Instead of being "financially all right," North American's officials were "known to be black-market racketeers, didn't have the liquor to sell, and one of its officials had a long criminal record," the Appeals Court said.

The court exonerated the defendants of knowingly making untrue statements but said that since the representations proved false, the defendants were responsible.

The case is among a dozen of similar nature on file in the court. Two other verdicts for a total of $4000 have been imposed against the brokers.

FPC Suspends Gas Raise Until Hearings

Requests for increased natural gas rates affecting the District and Maryland have been suspended, pending hearings, by the Federal Power Commission.

The proposed increases were asked by the Atlantic Seaboard Corporation and the Virginia Gas Transmission Corporation for wholesale natural gas service. They would amount to about $349,780 annually, based on anticipated sales for the 12-month period ending April 30, 1951.

The suspended schedules apply to service to Washington Gas Light Co., with an annual increase of $348,066; Manufacturers Light & Heat Co., $1237, and Maryland Counties Gas Co. and Washington Gas Light Company of Maryland, $477.

The FPC also permitted rate reductions asked by Atlantic and Virginia Gas to other consumers, effective May 1. They total approximately $84,415, and apply to Amere Gas Utilities Co., $12,217 annually; Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Co., $7495; Lynchburg Gas Co., $14,520, and Virginia Gas Distribution Corp., $50,183.

A date for hearings on the suspended rate increases will be set by order, the FPC announced.

Death of D. C. Jail Prisoner Starts Five Investigations bowl throughout the early evening and guards were sent to quiet him.

A special conference of jail guards was called late yesterday afternoon by Reid. Director of Corrections Donald Clemmer also was present.

Clemmer, who said he had been advised over the phone Saturday that Davis died of natural causes, told reporters last night that guards, inmates and anyone who might possibly shed light on the matter, were being questioned.

The jail inquiry was still going strong after six hours, without a stop for dinner.

Asked whether he had any information that there might be something irregular before newsmen started checking yesterday afternoon, Clemmer said he had been conducting routine inspections Tuesday and yesterday, and "do you think I'd be doing that if I had any idea that there was something wrong with this death?"

Asked if any jail personnel had been suspended, Clemmer said: "There are no suspensions—we still don't know that this is not a natural death." He said there would be no further announcement from the jail until after the coroner and the police complete their investigations.

Fay, who has received charges that Davis' death was not accidental, said that "on the surface the charges has substance." He added that further investigation was required before he could say whether any law had been violated.

The FBI investigation was instigated later in the afternoon. Its scope was limited, agents reported, to determination whether a full-fledged inquiry was warranted.

Davis' body was embalmed at the Carter funeral home, 600 2d st. sw., after it had been claimed by a woman who said she was Davis' common-law wife, Miss Tezorah Grimes, 832 2d st. sw., a waitress at Thompson's Restaurant, 1109 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

The body left Washington at 2:45 a. m., Tuesday in company with Davis' brothers, and was taken to his mother, Mrs. Bertha Davis, 341 Smith st., Fayetteville.

The funeral was scheduled for Sunday, Miss Grimes said.

Committee Approves Bill Switching Six Pools to District

swimming pools, and eliminated references to parks and playgrounds, were adopted in the committee measure.

The pools subject to the bill are Banneker, Francis, Anacostia, McKinley, Takoma, and East Potomac.

With his report to McMillan on the swimming pool bill, Chapman sent a statement titled "Progress in the Movement to Guarantee Equal Rights for All Citizens in the National Capital." It said the Interior Department's contribution to the movement had been "clear and sustained."

It said Interior Department policy had brought about nonsegregated use of park picnic lands, the tourist camp and golf courses here.

It said that the six pools had been open to all citizens for a decade, but in practice, until last year, only two were used by Negro swimmers—Francis and Banneker.

It noted last year's closing of Anacostia pool after interracial friction developed there.

The report cited conflict between the Interior Department's application of a nonsegregation policy, and the District Recreation Board's idea of a segregation policy for its facilities, but it noted that progress reached a climax last fall in an agreement for the Recreation Board to operate programs on 19 park lands, in accord with the nonrestriction policy of the department.

Chapman's letter said good progress was being made under the agreement. His letter said the report on the bill had been cleared with the Federal Budget Bureau.

Father, Maid Held in Death

line the investigation on Mrs. Jenkins is to take.

In one of the lengthiest preliminary hearings in Alexandria Police Court history—it lasted 8½ hours—two physicians testified that the baby's death was due to abdominal hemorrhages resulting from ruptures of the liver and spleen.

The doctors—Richard Palmer, Alexandria Hospital pathologist, and Dr. John A. Sims, Alexandria coroner, said there were numerous bruises on Donald Ferranto's abdomen, chest, arms and buttocks.

Dr. Palmer cited 26 separate bruises. He and Dr. Sims agreed that those on the chest seemed—by their shape—to have been causd by a fist.

But Ferranto steadfastly denied he beat his stepson. The child died in Alexandria Hospital April 23.

As told by Ferranto and his 22-year-old wife, June, the child was taken ill. He was pale, weak and breathing hard, they said. They tried unsuccessfully to get a doctor. Then they took him to the hospital.

What was Ferranto's attitude toward the child?

Mrs. Ferranto declared: "In my eyesight, he worshipped the child."

Ferranto's story was that he put the child to bed about 9 p. m. April 22, returned to the house about 11:30 p. m. and found that the child was ill.

He said that to settle the child's digestion he gave it a glass of gingerale, then some ice cream. The child was put back to bed about 12:30 a. m., he said.

Mrs. Ferranto said she worked that night in a restaurant near their home. She came home, she testified, about 1:05 a. m.

Ferranto admitted that five days before the child died, he spanked it. But he insisted he did not beat Donald the night before he died.

"It was done while I was away from the house," he maintained.

Mrs. Jenkins, on her recall, was shown several pictures of the dead child when she made her statement denying she had struck the child.

Asked why she said this, she replied:

"Well, they showed me the pictures and I was there at the house. I just wanted them to know that I had nothing to do with it."

Despite her claims that the child's crying irritated her, she told the hearing that "he was a sweet child and I loved him."

Clarence C. Hansborough, a former keeper at the Alexandria City Jail, testified that he visited Mrs. Jenkins—from 8 p. m. to midnight—the night before the child died.

Hansborough told a confused story that in some respects contradicted that of Mrs. Jenkins.

At one point, Judge Duncan said to him:

"It seems to be a question of deciding who is telling the biggest lies—you or Mrs. Jenkins."

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Chamber Asks Point 4 Reins For Business

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The United States Chamber of Commerce closed its thirty-eighth and biggest convention yesterday without a hint of a disagreement over policies or personnel.

It unanimously elected Otto Seyferth, 59, self-made Muskegon, Mich., foundryman, as president, shortly after adopting, without debate, a series of resolutions ranging from approval of "reasonable Federal aid" for a Nation-wide system of airports, to recommending that President Truman's Point Four program be operated by private enterprise and private investment capital.

The resolutions:

1. "Thoroughgoing appraisal" of the antitrust laws, to "minimize confusion" and guard against their use "as an instrumentality for accomplishing undesirable forms of governmental regulation of business."

2. Opposition to price controls of any kind "except in time of war."

3. Approval of extension of the draft law.

4. Urged that the National Security Resources Board study proposals for dispersing industry as a defense measure.

5. Urged stockpiling of strategic and critical materials needed for national security.

6. Recommended "vigorous measures to encourage the redevelopment through private activity of slum and blighted urban areas."

7. Declared that "it is of crucial importance that Congress curtail Government expenditures. A balanced budget, with definite provision for debt retirement, should be the normal procedure."

8. Urged adoption of the Hoover report for reorganization of the executive branch of the Government.

9. Declared that "nonregulatory functions of Federal transportation regulatory agencies should not be placed in any department of the executive branch of the Government." The Hoover commission recommended such action for the Maritime Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

10. Indorsed joint Canada-United States defense procurement policy.

11. Attacked "double taxation" by the Federal Government of corporation earnings distributed as dividends.

12. Declared farm price supports should be used only in emergencies and at levels "which will not stimulate increased production leading to unmanageable surpluses." Declared further that "a national farm program should aim to protect farmers against an undue share of the burden of price declines" during depressions.

13. Approved soil and water conservation, but denounced "duplication, overlapping and unnecessary cost."

The committee on policy said it had not acted on other subjects, such as calendar reform, holiday to honor the President, compulsory health insurance, Government competition and opposition to imports from iron curtain countries.

The business of the convention followed a scolding of businessmen by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D., Md.) for bringing spending pressure on Congress. Such pressures, he said, have helped to pose "a definite threat to our solvency."

At a time when taxes are the No. 1 problem of business, O'Conor said, businessmen are adding to their own woes by being "against Federal spending, except in their own neighborhoods."

The recent billion-and-a-half rivers and harbors bill, he said, is typical. Congress members, he said, were unable to resist the pressure from every section for projects whose ultimate costs "will run to many times that huge total."

O'Conor urged business, labor and farm groups to stop running to Washington for special favors.

Striking Railroad Men Drafted by Finland

Helsinki, Finland, May 3 (U.P.)—The government today drafted 4500 striking locomotive engineers and firemen into the army and ordered them to return to their jobs. The strike halted virtually all trains in Finland.

The engineers and firemen walked out at midnight. They demanded pensions equal to 66 percent of their salaries. The government refused to grant more than 46 percent.

Phone Firm's Offer Accepted By 3d Group

A third tentative settlement between a Bell Telephone System subsidiary and an affiliate of the CIO Communications Workers of America was reported yesterday.

The agreement was reached by the Wisconsin Telephone Co. and CWA Division 23, covering 4100 employes. As in the earlier tentative agreements with Northwestern Bell and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore, the union won no general wage increase.

Instead, the union got a reduction in wage progression scales so that employes could reach the top pay level, on the basis of experience, in 6½ years instead of 8. The agreements also provides for some job and town reclassifications.

A union spokesman estimated the new contract would mean $1 to $6 a week more to the Wisconsin phone employes. The company announced it would seek higher phone rates to meet the increased cost of operation resulting from the agreement.

Each Community Must Control Its Own Smog, Truman Says

Air pollution in the United States has become a serious problem, but its control is up to each community affected, President Truman said here yesterday.

The Federal role, the President added, consists of taking leadership in research on air pollutants.

Such research, he explained, would exhibit standards for determining and controlling air contamination, and thereby a base for establishment of local anti-pollution laws.

The President's message was read by Oscar L. Chapman, Secretary of the Interior, at the opening-day session of a three-day conference on air pollution, the first to be sponsored by the Federal Government. Some 500 scientists and public health leaders are attending the meetings at Wardman Park Hotel.

After meeting in short, general sessions yesterday morning, the conference split up into seven separate panels covering health, meteorology, instrumentation, equipment, analytical methods and properties, legislation and agriculture. About 80 papers will be presented in the two days of panel conferences.

The conference, officially designated as the United States Technical Conference on Air Pollution, will conclude Friday. It was proposed several months ago by the President largely as a result of the 1948 smog disaster at Donora, Pa.

Labor Dept. Hit in UP Case

The House Labor Committee yesterday demanded the Labor Department explain its action in shutting off its United Press news ticker out of deference to a strike over wages by 165 United Press.

The Labor Department turned off the UP teletype machine soon after the strikers—members of the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union—walked out Sunday night and set up picket lines at all UP bureaus, including the one here at the National Press Building.

The Labor Committee's action was taken at the instance of Representative Graham A. Barden (D., N. C.). He said the department's action "might be a dangerous precedent if Government departments decide not to remain neutrol in labor disputes."

"What would happen if pilots of one of the airlines struck and the Civil Aeronautics Administration closed down?" Barden demanded.

Meanwhile, there was no word of progress in the attainment of a settlement between UP and the union. The striking telegraphers, including 22 here, asked $6.50 a week increase in pay; UP offered $2.21. The union says its members make $90 a week; UP says the telegraphers average $107.80 a week.

In Pittsburgh, the Press resumed normal publishing activities yesterday. Other AFL unionists refused to pass through the telegraphers' picket line on Tuesday, tying up several editions of the paper.

Five Tenants In Apartment, Owner Says

Meyer Siegel, landlord of the Wakefield Hall apartment house at 2101 New Hampshire ave. nw., said yesterday only five tenants remain in the 79-unit building.

The structure is undergoing extensive remodeling which necessitates cutting off heat, hot water and gas, Siegel said. Electricity, which was turned off Monday, has been restored, he said.

In a report that a court order restraining the landlord from cutting off any more services had been obtained, the District Rent Control office said Tuesday that there were 28 tenants still in the building.

Siegel said he had offered the tenants apartments at comparable rents, and free moving. Some declined the offer, and were granted an extension to find new living quarters, he stated.

Red Sox Win, 7-2, for 6th in Row; Chase Feller

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

OF WHAT HAS been viewed in the three-year-old stakes leading up to Saturday's run for the roses at Churchill Downs, Your Host is supposed to win the 1950 Kentucky Derby. The initial Derby upset will be if the California colt does not go to the post as a pronounced favorite.

But anybody who wagered on Bimelech in the same race, exactly 10 years ago, as did your agent, will be understandably reluctant to go traipsing up to the window with the rent money on the Derby favorite in any year. The book shows that only 36 of the 76 post-time favorites got home in front.

POVICH

And of these post-time choices, Bimelech certainly qualified as the greatest disappointment, because he went off at 2-to-5 or 40 cents on the buck and finished a tiring second to the 35-to-1 shot, Gallahadion.

The trouble is, with these Derby favorites, the price is always put ahead of the horse race. It is conservatively estimated that there are 100 ways for a horse to lose a race, a fact of which Mr. Humphrey Finney once reminded me during one of these discussions.

BACK IN 1940, when I was essaying one of these Derby pieces, I sought out Mr. Finney, who is the editor of the Maryland Horse, and for my money the savvy-est man in horse racing. I wanted his ideas of the Derby of that year, and put the question to him flatly: Would Bimelech win the Derby?

"I don't know," he said, just as flatly.

And then he said, "Bimelech figures to win, but they still have to run around the track. That's when things can happen."

That's when he pointed out, "there are a hundred way to lose a horse race. You can get a bad ride. Meet up with bad racing luck in a dozen different ways. Lose a rider, lose a stirrup, a saddle or a whip, get off badly, stumble, fall, be disqualified, or find yourself with a horse that has gone into sulk."

And then he told the story of a race he once saw in England. None of the above items figured in that one. "We had a favorite out in front by 12 lengths in the last sixteenth. He didn't win, because he had the worst kind of race luck. He was struck by lightning, and killed."

MR. FINNEY has a fondness for no fewer than five horses in the Derby Field. He was on the scene in Kentucky most of this week before returning to his Towson, Md., home. He likes Your Host, Hill Prince, Middleground, and Mr. Trouble and Oil Capitol in varying degrees. They're all fine horses, and Mr. Finney is a lover of fine horses.

"They will certainly have Your Host to catch," says Mr. Finney, "and I would say that the colt most likely to catch him is the Virginia-bred, Hill Prince. Your Host will have that long Churchill Downs stretch to contend with?"

He was explaining that the Churchill Downs stretch is longer than the stretch runs at most other tracks. "It's a full quarter-mile, and under a 126-pound load, it can be difficult for a front-runner to stay in front with good horses running free behind him.

"And Hill Prince is bred to run all day, so if he is close to Your Host when they turn for home, I would say the element of stamina is in Hill Prince's favor."

IF IT COMES up mud, Your Host's chances would not necessarily be dimmed, says Finney. "I saw him breeze a mile in mud in 1:40 as a 2-year-old, and that establishes his mud form. They don't lose it from year to year."

One of the reasons he likes Middleground, says Finney, is Maxie Hirsch, his trainer. "He's a genius for bringing a horse up to a particular race, for one scintillating effort, and in Middleground he has much to work with. I saw him in the Derby trial and under Jacobs' orders the boy did not persevere with him."

On his best form, Oil Capitol, too, could win it, says Finney, and he has the utmost respect for the training ability also of Sylvester Veitch, who will saddle C. V. Whitney's Mr. Trouble, "I would call this a five-horse Derby," he says, "and I have a secret idea that Hill Prince will get the roses."

Garagiola's Hit in 13th Beats Bums For Cards

St. Louis, May 3 (AP).—Joe Garagiola came through in the clutch twice today to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 13-inning triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Garagiola singled with two out and the bases loaded in the 13th to break up the game which he sent into overtime with a two-out ninth inning single.

The Dodgers had taken a 5-4 lead in the top of the thirteenth when Jim Russell homered with two out off reliever Al Brazle wha was making his first appearance of the year.

Jones Homers Twice as Phils Bop Klippstein

Chicago, May 3 (AP).—Ken Johnson and Willie Jones teamed to pace the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs today for a split of the two-game series.

Jones hammered Johnny Klippstein, Cub rookie from Washington, D. C., for his fifth and sixth homers of the season to drive in three runs.

Boxer Rushed To Hospital "Fair"

Toledo, Ohio, May 3 (AP).—A Detroit boxer programmed as "Art Rooney," was in "fair" condition at Mercy Hospital tonight after a battering by Stan Kursa, also of Detroit.

The hospital, however, listed the injured boxer's name as Harold Hummel. Dr. C. J. A. Paule, Toledo boxing commission physician, said Hummel had a possible brain concussion and was in a semiconscious condition.

And Richmond Pros, Too

Justice Tells Redskins 'NO'

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

When Charlie Justice said no, he meant it—even if the Washington Redskins did insist on twisting his arm.

Last night from Chapel Hill, N. C., the fabulous North Carolina All-American admitted to The Washington Post he definitely had decided against playing pro football.

Of course, that's what Justice has been saying all along. But the Washington Redskins persisted in drafting him and Harry Seibold, energetic owner of the Richmond Rebels, entered the chase.

Two weeks ago, Justice came here to listen to the Redskins' proposal. (Best guess is that it was about $10,000).

He left saying he would discuss the proposition with his advisers and give an answer. Justice already had agreed to take $6000 post with the North Carolina Medical Foundation.

"It's not an easy decision," Justice admitted, "I must say I'd like to play and the Redskin proposal was satisfactory enough.

"But, I'm 26 now and I think it's time my mind has to control my emotions. I've been lucky in this rough game of football, I've been hurt badly only once. I feel my luck can't hold out forever.

"I'm perfectly happy here in North Carolina and have been assured that my job with the medical foundation is permanent. Those people even agreed to give me a leave of absence to play football. But I'm going to pass it up. I think, in the long run, it's best."

Redskin Coach Herman Ball finally got the word himself from Justice late last night. Plainly disappointed, Ball said, "We still might get him. Football season's a long way off."

THE CHIN AND THE LIP—Umpire Larry Goetz, his chin thrust forward, advances for a word battle with New York Giants' Manager Leo (The Lip) Durocher after a Goetz ruling nullified a Giants' run in the sixth inning of yesterday's game against Cincinnati at the Polo Grounds. Goetz ruled that Giants' outfielder Don Mueller failed to touch third base while scoring from second on a hit by Bobby Thomson. Durocher argued so long and loud that Goetz had to give him the thumb. The Giants, however, won, 5-2

Sain Turns Slugger

Braves Erupt for 11 in 9th To Lambast Pittsburgh, 15-4

Pittsburgh, May 3 (AP).—Boston's Johnny Sain survived a first inning mauling by the Pittsburgh Pirates today, held the Bucs to a four-hit total for the game, then led his mates on an 11-run binge in the ninth that resulted in a 15-4 Boston victory.

The 9389 fans who paid their way into Forbes Field sat back amazed as Sain proceeded to win his third game from the mound and the plate. He drove in four of the Braves' first five runs on three bingles. And he held the Bucs to a lone single in the final seven frames.

Giants Finally Win but Leo Is Chased in 6th

Cincinnati, May 3 (AP).—The New York Giants scored their first victory in eight days and their second of the season today defeating Cincinnati, 5-2.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants was banished for protesting a decision by Umpire Larry Goetz in the sixth. Goetz called Don Mueller out for not touching third when the outfielder raced home from second on Bobby Thomson's single. It was the first time for Durocher this year.

Walt Dropo Hits Homer, Kinder Hurls Seven-Hitter

Boston, May 3 (AP).—With big Walt Dropo, back from the minors only two days, again swinging a mighty bludgeon, Boston's Red Sox today thumped the Cleveland Indians 7-2 for their sixth consecutive victory.

Dropo, hastily summoned from Louisville to take over first base after Billy Goodman suffered a chip fracture to his left ankle, clubbed a two-run homer and walloped a run-producing single to aid Ellis Kinder to the second victory over the Indians in his American League career.

Dropo, who now has four hits and four walks in two games, made both blows off Bob Feller, who was chased in the sixth when the Sox scored four times

Kinder, who evened his season's record at two victories and as many losses, allowed only seven hits. One of them was the veteran Joe Gordon's eighth inning homer.

Raschi, apparently ruffled by Umpire Bill Summers' balk calls, also yielded 10 hits, walked four, made a wild pitch and an error.

Coan's Grand Slam Wins For Nats, 4-3

up five hits and three runs to the Browns.

Manager Bucky Harris moved in Southpaw Mickey Harris to protect the Nats' one-run lead in the last two innings, and the wisdom of that choice was undeniable. Mickey delivered two hitless innings.

The Nats weren't looking good to their chilled 4212 fans when that seventh inning opened. Garver was pitching three-hit shutout ball, and when he disposed of Dente and Kozar for the first two outs in the seventh, the Nats were looking even more futile.

And then Mickey Grasso got his first hit in the big leagues—a single to center. Harris spurned his left-handed pinch hitters to send Clyde Vollmer in as a batter for Hudson, and Garver walked him. The Browns' right hander also walked Yost to fill the bases.

Sitting in a box near the Browns' dugout, Dr. David F. Tracy, the team's travelling psychologist, assumedly put the whammy on the Nats at that point. But if so, the wham triumphed over the whammy as Coan whammed Garver's third pitch out of the park.

It all served to give Hudson his second victory of the year and to pull the Nats into a third-place tie with the Boston Red Sox.

A Flurry of Trouble

There was a flurry of trouble for Mickey Harris, though, before he got the Browns out in the eighth. His first act was to walk the tying run on base with a pass to Kokos, who was sacrificed to second. But Harris speared a line drive off Ken Wood's bat, and then got rid of Pinch hitter Don Lenhardt on an infield pop.

Sam Dente got Harris the big first out in the ninth inning, by gliding far behind Yost to snatch Lollar's bid for a hit and throwing him out at first. Then Harris disposed of Thomas and Pinch Hitter Roy Sievers on his own, with, respectively, a strike out and a bounder to Eddie Robinson.

Both teams wound up with five hits for their night's work. The Browns got two of theirs in the first inning when they wrenched a 2-0 lead out of Hudson.

Hudson couldn't get any of the first three batters out. He walked De Mars, and Kokos got a two-bagger on his drive to center when Noren slipped after trying to play it safe. Coleman tapped a ball in from of the plate, and Hudson's throw to Grasso was too late to get De Mars at home. Kokos scored a bit later while Wood was grounding into a double play.

The Browns came up with a very solid third run in the fourth inning. It was a solid 400-foot smash by Ken Wood into the unused bullpen in center field, for a home run.

IN SHORT . . . Catcher Mickey Grasso almost blew a gasket trying to convince Umpire Cal Hubbard that Dick Kokos was out on Hudson's throw to the plate in the first inning. Hubbard said one word: "No." . . . Clark Griffith scanned the skimpy attendance and began to wonder about television . . . When his pals in the Nats' infield clammed up Eddie Robinson muffed an easy force play at third after fielding Friend's bunt in the seventh. Hearing nothing, he made the play at first . . . Ken Wood's homer into the new center field bullpen would have been a long out under last season's playing field limits. But it was an honest 400-foot clout . . . When Mickey Grasso singled in the eighth, it was his first hit in the big leagues . . . Joe Ostrowski, the rookie lefthander who beat the Indians with six hits in his last start, will face the Nats tonight . . . Bucky Harris is passing over Ray Scarborough's pitching turn and unveiling Dick Weik as a starting pitcher.

A Champion's Story

Sarazen's Ears Nicer Than Valentino's, Agents Told Gene, But He Wised Up in Time

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of anecdotes about the colorful golf career of Gene Sarazen, who will appear in The Washington Post's National Celebrities Tournament June 3-4 at Army-Navy Country Club.)

By Gene Sarazen

IN 1923 I toured with Jock Hutchison, ending the barnstorming tour in Hollywood. When I hear of people succumbing to the hokum side of Hollywood, I can understand perfectly.

SARAZEN

Maybe the tests they ran off of my golf "shorts" were pretty good, and then again, maybe the swarm of agents who beat a path to my door gave the same swimming-pool line to everybody who got off the train. Anyhow, I swallowed everything they told me and they couldn't tell me enough. I wasn't just another athlete out for a two-reel stint, they said. I was star material. I could be groomed into another Valentino. Correction: I'd be bigger than Valentino.

"You have perfect camera ears," I remember one agent raving as he clambered over the furniture in my room, peering through his hands as if he were experimenting with camera angles. "Valentino," this agent sneered, "he's got ears like Rin-Tin-Tin."

Quite a few of the studios did test me, and I got pretty puffed out with all the talk that I was great-lover material. One company invited me out to San Fernando Valley to show me how they made pictures on location. I sat in a canvas chair, toasting in the sun, while studio hands brought my lunch on a tray, and luscious starlets told me how excited they were just to be talking with me. "This is the life" I said to myself. "I'm going to become a star. Why should I kill myself hitting a golf ball around when I have better ears than Valentino?"

Whenever I visited a studio, photographers would appear out of nowhere and snap pictures of Sarazen showing the correct golf swing to Norma Talmadge, Jack Pickford, Larry Semon, Alan Hale, Buster Keaton, and other stars. I appeared in one comedy with Buster, as a slapstick comedian. Brushing myself off after one pratfall, I asked the director, "Do you mean to say that people laugh at things like this?" "Naturally," he answered. "What do you think makes Keaton a great star? Not his profile, son."

I took more tests, drank in the happy talk of a new horde of agents, and had a wonderful time escorting Pauline Garon and other starlets to the Cocoanut Gr

His Trainer Pooh-Poohs Paddock Talk

'Hill Prince Overtrained,' Derby 'Smart Set' Says

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

LOUISVILLE, KY., MAY 3. Pre-Derby races, supposed to cut down the size of the Kentucky classic field, have worked in reverse. The results of these tests, plus the prospects of mud for Saturday, have upped the number of potential starters from 10 or less to a possible 17.

Haight

Another multiplying fact in the free-for-all to name 3-year-olds for the $100,000 added battle, came when reports were circulated that Hill Prince has been overtrained for the famous mile and a quarter.

This angle has come from the paddock, members of the "smart set," some qualified and others not. If you'll listen they'll tell you that the Virginia gentleman has "left his race on the track" with his muddy workout of 1.40:5 for a mile and a furlong farther in 1.54 on Tuesday.

Ridicuous as these reports seem, they have taken effect here and many believe that Your Host will march postward at a shade less than 2-1 with Hill Prince at least 4-1.

However, trainer J. H. "Casey" Hayes, who has handled Hill Prince like a Hollywood mother trying to get her daughter in the movies, pooh poohs the whole thing.

"Mr. Chenery and I are the only ones who have to be satisfied and I'm certainly pleased with Hill Prince's shape. If he has lost any supporters I'm just sorry for them," said the usually quet conditioner.

If a guy's looks ever registered confidence they were those on the map of the Virginian who after years as a farm manager finds himself spotlighted as the Nation's No. 1 horserace approaches.

I haven't looked into this but as far as I know now, the whole thing adds up to a whispering campaign with little or no foundation.

Getting back to the size of Saturday's field.

The condition of the track will be a vital factor in the plans of many. The only "name" horse in the field to become doubtful was Calumet Farm's Theory, who failed to impress in the Derby trial yesterday.

"I made a bad mistake in running him in that kind of going," Jones told the writer this morning. "Steve (his jockey, Brooks) said the colt simply wouldn't extend himself at any time and the race did not do him much good. I've always had my doubts about Theory being a true Derby horse, and now I'm more doubtful than ever. You can say he is a very doubtful starter."

It was brought before Jones' attention that several of the starters in the trial were not shod properly for the thick, sloppy going, that they ran "smooth" without the usual "stickers" or caulks, usually referred to as "corks" by horsemen.

"Well, Theory was shod right and so was Black George, so I can't give my horse any excuse on that score," he explained.

Max Hirsch is another who isn't too happy. He was of the opinion that Middleground should have encountered little difficulty in winning the Derby trial and when he moved to the head of the stretch and then promptly "spit out the bit" the Texan was visibly alarmed and disgusted. This correspondent watched the race from his box in the clubhouse.

It was learned today, though, that Middleground was a member of the trial field that wore smooth plates and that may have accounted for his disappointing performance. He ran as if he were a dead short horse. When Boland asked the question nearing the three-eighths pole, he moved readily and at the head of the stretch appeared to have his foes beaten. It was then that he began to falter and Black George, who had set the pace and was believed to be more of a "quarter" horse than one physically equipped for the Derby distance, drew away with authority.

Your Host, who still holds his place as the probable favorite, was galloped once around the muddy course this morning and Trainer Harry Daniels said the colt continues to do well. The condition of the track is his main concern at the present time and he inquired about the long-range weather predictions, which, it is said, are favorable for a fast track.

Oil Capitol was galloped this morning and tomorrow Trainer Harry Trotsek will set him down for a hard, gruelling move, probable a mile at his best speed, with orders to gallop the colt out an extra eighth. As previously reported, Trotsek is satisfied that Oil Capitol has regained his form. Tomorrow's trial undoubtedly will tell an important story.

At the same time, Trotsek said he will not run Lot O' Luck in the Derby.

"Didn't have enough time to prepare the horse for such a race," he remarked.

Mr. Trouble, a very handsome and sturdy colt who is gaining many supporters as the big day nears, was on the track for a gallop this morning and he seemed full of fire. Actually, his exercise boy, John Bruder, encountered considerable difficulty restraining him as he fought to get away into a full run.

"The colt feels good and he's ready," Trainer Syl Vietch remarked with an expression of extreme satisfaction.

Sunglow and Greek Ship walked around the shed. Trainer Preston Burch said that he was satisfied with their Derby trial performances and that all is well—that they definitely will start.

Only three candidates worked this morning. King Ranch's On The Mark and Clifford Mooers' Harvey worked together, with the former appearing much the stronger of the two. Willie Boland was on On The Mark and Conn McCreary was astride Hawley. They reached the quarter in :25 1-5 and half in :51 together and there the King Ranch sophomore began to draw away. He finished out the three-quarters in 1:18, seven-eighths in 1:32 1-5 and went out the mile in 1:47 1-5. Both horses wore blinkers. Hawley finished about a full second, or five lengths, in back of On The Mark.

Double Brandy Comes From Behind to Take Pimlico Feature

Bill Bennings

AT PIMLICO

DEAR FOLKS

Eddie "Spike" Sanders, apprentice from New Oxford, Pa., is now riding without the benefit of the 7 pounds allowance after booting home the twentieth winner of his career on Saturday. The former truck driver rode his first winner at Charles Town this spring when he drove Betty's Bobby home and has continued to set the pace for apprentice booters in Maryland. The 23-year-old booter was recommended to his contract employer, the capable Glenn C. Smith, by a gasoline station attendant. Smith nursed his protege along for four years before he permitted Sanders to ride in a race. He was unsuccessful in his first 25 mounts of 1949, but started off with a bang this year and his showing at Pimlico suggests that he will be able to hold his own when he loses the all-valuable apprentice allowance. See you on the rail.

Midianite Beaten Out By a Nose

Special Dispatch to The Post

Pimlico, Md., May 3—After a pair of tuneup sprint races this year, Double Brandy, Clarence E. Tuttle's Dixie Handicap aspirant, crashed into the winner's circle in this afternoon's featured Discovery Purse, a test at a mile and a sixteenth.

Backed down to $4.00 favoritism by the crowd of 10,112, the Maryland-owned colt had to go all out to turn back E. Barry Ryan's Midianite by a nose while Jack Jenkins, jr.'s Chiloe 2d, another Dixie eligible, picked up the third money of the $3500 purse.

Double Brandy and Midianite battled it out for the final eighth of a mile with the first named getting up in the last jump. The time for the route was 1:48 2-5.

Mrs. James Carson's Kinsman gained little stature for a starting role in the Preakness when he was beaten five lengths by Cedar Farm's Halter in the Tred Avon, secondary attraction at six furlongs.

Sherry, a grst time starter, and Mary Ann, an old Maryland favorite, combined to return a $104.40 daily duoble payoff for "8-6" tickets.

5 Horse Shows This Weekend

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

The anxiety of Virginia, Maryland and District horse owners to get their show stables started on the season's horse show circuit will be greatly relieved this weeend with five shows listed.

Saturday furnishes the headliner with the Beau Val Schooling Show scheduled for a 10 a. m. start at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Haggin Perry, Cobham, Va.

The first of a series of two shows for members of the Washington Bridle Trails Association will take place on Sunday beginning at 10 a. m. at Equitation Field in Rock Creek Park.

The McLean Junior Horse Show also starting at 10 a. m., at Smoot Field, McLean, Va. and the Laurel Pony and Junior Show on the J. L. Aitcheson Farm, Burtonsville, Md., beginning at 9:30 a. m., help to overload the Sunday schedule. The McLean and Laurel affairs are first attempts, each with day-long programs scheduled for pony and junior mounts.

The Foxcroft Horse Show at the fashionable Foxcroft Girl's School in Middleburg, Va., on Monday, rounds out the busy weekend for horse enthusiasts.

Vickers Ousts Stranahan, 1 Up

Dallas, Tex., May 3 (AP).—Little-known James Vickers of Oklahoma City today ousted defending champion Frank Stranahan from the Western Amateur Golf Tournament, 1 up in 19 holes.

A birdie on the nineteenth hole gave the Sooner golfer the decision over the Toledo, Ohio, ace. Stranahan, who struggled through the rough on four holes and landed in traps on two, missed a 10-foot putt that would have kept his chances alive in the extra-hole match.

Vickers started poorly, but started fashioning his upset midway of the first nine holes.

Dale Morey of Dallas, whose 69 yesterday was the lowest round of the tournament thus far, flew through his first-round match, 5 and 3, over Ken F. Corcoran of Boston.

For Stadium

Recreation Cedes Land To Coolidge

The D. C. Recreation Department yesterday agreed to release enough land for th Board of Education to build a floodlightd stadium next to Coolidge High.

However, the Board, acting cautiously, has called for another meeting with Recreation officials to make sure that the transfer is permanent.

After the meeting, the Board will meet with the District Commissioners who must formally transfer jurisdiction to the schools. And then, it must ask Congress for an appropriation to cover building expenses.

The plot where the 10,000-seat stadium is planned is east of Coolidge, and bounded by the school, Sheridan st., and Third st. nw.

The stadium would have a football and baseball field and a quarter-mile track with a 200-yard straightaway.

The Recreation Department would retain its land north of Coolidge for its Takoma Community Center.

The Board yesterday also abandoned its plans to build an indoor swimming pool at Coolidge because architects found it impractical.

The Federal Diary by Jerry Kluttz

Civil Service Reform Provisions Agreed On By Administration

Administration forces have agreed on a proposed bill to carry out the No. 1 civil service reform — the recruiting, examining and hiring of Federal workers.

The bill would shift the responsibility for recruiting and examining from the Civil Service Commission to the agencies, but under conditions which the commission "deems necessary." In other words, the agencies would be subject to supervision and direction from the commission.

The commission, for example, could require agencies to work together in recruiting and examining. It could continue to hold competitive tests for mass clerical jobs such as typists and clerks. And it would be given police authority to crack down on agencies that violated its orders.

The three Civil Service commissioners and the Budget Bureau are agreed on the proposed bill. The Congress will be asked to enact the bill. Some people had hoped the hiring plan could have been made effective by a White House order. The President has limited power to make the change. However, the plan involves a change in the "rule of three" which is a part of the Veterans' Preference Act.

Under the rule, an agency head is required to select one of the top three eligibles from a Civil Service register to fill a vacancy. The Administration wants to give the agency head a wider choice in filling jobs.

VA: The 4800 medical employes in the Veterans' Administration are still on tenterhooks; they don't know how long they'll have their jobs.

These employes were given 30-day lay-off notices about two months ago. The notices were postponed a day or so before they were to become effective and VA announced it would seek funds to keep them on the job.

The Budget Bureau yesterday sent a request to Congress for $2,190,000 to keep these 4800 people until June 30. It has taken no action on a second request—one for 23 millions to continue the employes for the 1951 fiscal year that begins on July 1.

LEAVE: Representative Vursell (R., Ill.) yesterday told the House: "I believe close to a billion dollars could be trimmed out of this bill (omnibus appropriation) by freezing personnel and revamping the provisions for shorter annual and sick leave."

PEOPLE: Dr. R. E. Dyer, director of the National Institute of Health at Bethesda, will retire from Federal service soon . . . George A. Bauman has been appointed personnel director of Federal Housing. He succeeds James Hicks, who was moved up to an operating job . . . Robinson Newcomb of the Council of Economic Advisers has moved over to Maritime to be an assistant to Chairman Philip Fleming . . . William L. Slattery, former comptroller of the Postoffice Department and budget officer of Maritime, has retired from the Federal service. His most recent Federal post was financial adviser to the United States Occupation forces in Berlin. He is in France, where he's writing a book on the Federal accounting system—and how it must be improved.

LAYOFFS: The Navy is laying off about 100 employes in its Bureau of Supplies and Accounts here. It hopes to reassign the career employes in other jobs throughout the department. . . . Commerce's Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has out lay-off notices to another 120 of its employes. About 100 of them have permanent status, veterans and nonveterans alike. Frankly, Commerce has little hope of finding other jobs in the department for them. It is still hunting jobs for several score career people who were laid off weeks ago.

NOTES: Civil Service Commissioner Frances Perkins will assail the Hoover Commission in a speech she will make today in San Francisco. . . . Dr. F. C. Craighead is retiring from the Agriculture Department. For 27 years he was in charge of investigations of forest pests. . . . At State, longevity pay raises have been given to Charles E. Goldsteen and Adelaide Watson. Mrs. Loretta E. Kitzgerald is retiring after 30 years of service in the department. Her father worked for the department for 25 years and a brother worked there for 33 years.

School Board Applies Ax To Central

Approves Dropping Of Name When Roosevelt Merger Becomes Effective

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

The tradition-packed history of Central High School was ended yesterday by the Board of Education.

School board members approved a recommendation of the board's buildings and grounds committee that the name Central be dropped from the list of city schools after graduation exercises are held in June.

The Central building, 13th and Clifton sts. nw., will be reopened next fall as Cardozo High School housing Negro students.

The board voted down a proposal that the name Central be retained by changing the name of Roosevelt High School to Roosevelt-Central.

Clagett Protests

A few minutes after voting to abolish the city's oldest high school the board received by special messenger a protest from Brice Clagett, associate judge of the Municipal Court of Appeals and a Central alumnus.

He said "thousands of graduates of Central, including myself, will forever resent it if the board does not find a way to retain the name of Central in connection with Roosevelt."

In other actions the board:

1. Approved closing of the veterans center at McKinley High School August 30. The center, which had an enrollment of more than 1300 students in 1946, now has a student body of 144. These veterans who are completing their high school education will be enrolled in regular high schools.

2. Authorized Schools Superintendent Hobart M. Corning to notify the House District Subcommittee on Appropriations that the schools will be unable to pay employes in June and July unless within the next few weeks Congress approves a supplemental pay bill.

No Reason for Alarm

District Budget Officer Walter Fowler said that there was no reason for alarm over the prospect of payless pay days. He said he had been assured by members of the subcommittee that the supplemental bill with pay funds for teachers and other District employes will clear Congress in plenty of time.

3. Accepted a portrait of Alexander Graham Bell from his daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor. The portrait, which was unveiled by Mrs. Grosvenor's grandson, Martin Grosvenor Myers, will hang in the Bell Vocational High School.

4. Retired Mrs. Imogene Ickis Ruediger, director of seventh division elementary schools, after 44 years of service to the schools as a teacher and officer.

Dairies, Milk Producers, On Trial in 'Price Fixing'

D. C. Health Dept. Named as Suit By Government Gets Under Way

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

The Government's 2-year-old criminal antitrust suit against the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, its secretary-treasurer and seven area dairies, began in District Court here yesterday.

Robert H. Winn, special assistant to the Attorney General, charged the group with joining in a continuing conspiracy to fix milk prices.

He also put the District Health Department under fire, charging that although not illegal, the department has set up through its regulations a "geographical wall" about Washington, which effectively stifles competition.

Winn said the regulations requiring that milk sales here be limited to supplies arriving from District-inspected farms keeps non-Washington milkshed producers out of the local market. He declared the geographic limits of the inspection area usually have paralleled the Milk Producers' Association sphere of influence.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff, who is trying the case without jury, indicated, however, that evidence on the implied collusion may not be admitted. He noted that citizens have the right to plead their cause with Government officials.

The Health Department, in the past, has denied implications of collusion.

The Milk Producers' Association has about 1500 farmer members, and joins with the seven dairies in handling about 80 percent of the milk sold in this area. The Government says the operation runs to 35 million dollars a year.

The defendant organizations face $5000 fines and Bruce B. Derrick, association secretary-treasurer, the only individual charged, could be fined $5000 and sentenced to a year in jail, Winn said.

The dairies on trial with the association are Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, Thompson's, Richfield, Wakefield-Simpson Brothers, Inc., Harvey Dairy, Alexandria Dairy, and the Lucerne Milk Co., operated by Safeway Stores.

The suit has drawn an imposing lineup of legal lights who yesterday filled the counsel tables and overflowed into the jury box.

In his half-hour opening statement, the Government prosecutor explained the operations of the Milk Producers Association, charging the group with price-fixing at both wholesale and retail levels, and the dairies with price-fixing among themselves.

He said he would show that the association brought pressure to force independent producers to join the group, so as to prevent sale by them of milk to distributors not under contract with the group.

These charges were roundly denied in quick succession by attorneys for the firms. They argued that there was no price-fixing collusion, that each company's prices were the result of economic forces.

The legal representatives who spoke were Roger J. Whiteford, Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase; Elwood C. Seal, Producers' Association; Samuel O. Clark, jr., Thompson's; John F. Hillyard, Simpson Bros., Inc., Wakefield; Arthur B. Hanson, Safeway; William Blum, jr., Alexandria; Ralph W. Powers, Harvey; William E. Leahy, for Derrick. Gwynne Gardiner, counsel for Richfield, did not make an opening statement.

The Government's case opened with identification of a milk Producers' Association contract by William B. Hooper, association office manager.

4 Arrested In 2-Store Gaming Raids

Three ranking officers of the Tenth Precinct yesterday afternoon raided a cleaning shop and a newsstand on information they said was supplied them by an undercover operative making numbers plays with marked money.

Four persons were arrested and later released under $500 bond each for an appearance in Municipal Court today.

They were: Lawrence J. Coates, 30, of 128 U st. ne., charged with operating a lottery and possession of slips; Clarence A. Green, 35, of 2221 12th pl. nw., charged with possession; Jeff Thomas, 40, of 1254 Penn st. ne., operating and possession, and Miss Irene D. Shaw, 22, of 446 Newton pl. nw., operating and possession.

Police said Coates was arrested in a cleaning shop he operates at 3120 11th st. nw. Green was in the store, police said, and had numbers slips on his person.

Capt. Basil F. McAllister, who led the raiders, said marked money was found in the store. With McAllister were Lieut. Albert Embrey and Sergt. Tom Sullivan.

Thomas was arrested at his newsstand at the corner of Georgia ave. and Irving st. nw. Miss Shaw, an employe, was charged because she accepted bets from the undercover operative, police said.

In both raids, police had warrants sworn out by United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence.

Quinns Only Placed Bets, Jurors Told

Their Ownership Of 'Bookie Joint' Denied at Trial

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

"The Backroom" at Barber's Newsstand, 427 10th st. nw., was a bookie joint for 17 years until it closed in January, 1949, a District Court jury was told yesterday.

The statement was made by Defense Attorney Edward Bennett Williams, who added that "everybody on 10th street" patronized the place.

However, said Williams, his three clients on trial for allegedly setting up a gaming table for horse bets and accepting wagers, had nothing to do with running the place.

Three Defendants

The defendants are John L. Quinn, 4308 2d rd., N. Arlington, Va.; his brother, William Quinn, and Thomas B. White, 1104 N. Quincy st., Arlington.

Williams characterized the Barber establishment as a "horse race betting room." He said that large numbers of "10th st. merchants" were steady customers.

He insisted that the place was run by the late George Barbour, who died after the place was raided by United States marshals last January 25. Williams told reporters that George Barbour is the same man as Garner S. Barbour, 1325 Allison st. nw., who was indicted for illegal gaming activity but died before trial.

Williams' statement was backed by testimony of John Quinn, Barbour's brother-in-law.

Admits Placing Bets

Quinn readily admitted that he placed bets in Barbour's, saying that it was done almost daily.

"Barbour had quite a thriving business," Quinn said. "He took bets in the front across the counter and in the back too. I often saw a great many people in there—people of the neighborhood, merchants, Pepco people."

But Quinn flatly denied he operated the horse shop. His position was purely that of a patron, he insisted.

In other testimony, Wilfred D. Barrett, a Columbus University student employed at the United States Attorney's office, who did the undercover work for the Barber raid, described how the "back room" operated.

Barrett said there were two phones in constant operation, a crowd of men milling around placing bets, scratch sheets were available, the radio was blaring out race results, and winners were being paid off.

Raymond Soo, of Greenbelt, former Eastern High School fullback, has been named executive director of the Prince Georges County Boys Clubs.

Soo replaces George Kneply and Kenneth Maschauer, who have jointly filled the post on a part-time basis for the past two years. Until his appointment to the Prince Georges post, Soo was an educational and vocational counsellor in Baltimore.

Jobless Bill Subjected to Employer Fire

Delay on Changes In D. C. Program Urged at Hearing

Washington employer groups yesterday fired sharp criticism at the District unemployment compensation program and at a bill to liberalize it.

They teamed up in a Senate District Committee hearing to urge delay of the measure pending further study. Labor union sponsors of the bill quickly turned thumbs down on delay. The committee then went on through an all-day hearing, the second on the bill.

As the hearing ended, there were indications a move might be undertaken to give the employer and labor groups further time to seek some compromise agreement on amending the present unemployment compensation law.

If such a move does not succeed, Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.,) Senate District chairman is believed likely to press for committee action on the bill which he introduced.

The present law provides a maximum payment of $20 for 20 weeks. The bill would increase the maximum to $33 for 26 weeks, and eliminate the present one-week waiting period. The change has the backing of the District Unemployment Compensation Board.

Spokesmen for employer groups, however, centered their fire less on the increase in benefits than on existing "abuses," and on liberalizing features of the bill other than the scale of payments.

A. Julian Brylawski, speaking for the Washington Board of Trade, said his group was willing to review the legislation with the AFL Central Labor Union, provided the labor group would join with the trade board in asking the committee to delay action on the bill.

C. F. Preller, president of the Central Labor Union then told the committee that his group was equally willing to discuss the legislation with the Board of Trade provided hearings on the bill were not delayed.

The committee heard main features of the bill indorsed by Robert C. Goodwin, director of the Federal Bureau of Employment Security. He proposed some changes, including an increase in the level of extra benefits to the dependents of unemployed persons.

Walter J. Mason of the American Federation of Labor also indorsed the bill, terming present benefits "inadequate."

Leonard J. Calhoun, presenting a Board of Trade statement on the bill, said there are many desirable changes to make in the unemployment compensation law, but that the bill emphasizes liberalization of benefits at the cost of aggravating other shortcomings.

He proposed ending dependency benefits. He said the duration of benefits should be made proportional to the period of employment, not a uniform 26 weeks. He called for transferring the District employment service from Federal to local government control.

Maurice G. Long, of the District Laundry-Dry Cleaning Association, urged that stricter disqualification features be written into the law. He said his organization did not oppose a "reasonable liberalization" of benefits provided employes know they will get benefits only when unemployed through no fault of their own.

Buddhist Priest Offers Prayer At Arlington

Incense burned yesterday at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier as a Buddhist prayer for the departed soldiers was said.

Robe-clad Archbishop Iwo Iwamoto of the famed Koyasan Buddhist Temple, spiritual leader of 10 million Buddhists in the Tokyo area, presided over the ceremonies.

The Archbishop was sent to this country by General MacArthur's staff to study religion and social welfare.

On a table near the tomb stood two candles, indicating "a light to brighten the world"; the incense, for purification of the ground against any evil spirit"; and a basket of fruit, "food for the departed."

Several hundred out-of-town high school sightseers who happened to be visiting the tomb watched with fascinated eyes.

There was chanting, there was striking of cymbals. And Archbishop Iwamoto rubbed together 108 beads, representing the 108 ill omens which afflict man, to make the omens vanish.

And he shook a goko, a metal affair which used to be a weapon of war in India long ago but which he employed to drive away evil spirits.

And the murmuring of prayers. These, explained Jesse S. Shima, president of the local Japanese-American Society, were for the soldiers "to rest peacefully in the heavenly world forever with Buddha or with Christ or with whatever their religion."

Participants in the ceremony, too, were Bishop S. Takahashi, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Ryojun Masamitsu of Washington, said by Shima to be the only Buddhist priestess in the United States.

Capital Transit Blocks Trial Of $2.25 Pass

Injects 'Inconceivable' Proviso That PUC Hold Hands Off

Hearings on the Capital Transit Company request for a fare increase ended yesterday with a CTC official opposing, in effect, a recommended trial period for a $2.25 weekly pass.

Comptroller J. E. Heberle told the Public Utilities Commission his company would accept the PUC staff suggestion, but only under conditions that he felt the commission would not allow.

The company would agree to the trial suggestion, Heberle testified, "if the period of trial and other conditions be left in the hands of the company . . . This is difficult to conceive because of the commission's control of matters of that kind. . . ."

Asks "Liberal" Trial

"I don't think the company should be asked to take the risks," Heberle added. "It has been in the red so long . . . The trial should be on the liberal side . . ."

The company has asked authority to increase cash fares from 13 to 15 cents; to boost tokens from 3 for 35 cents to 6 for 80 cents; and to eliminate the weekly pass.

V. A McElfresh, PUC accountant and auditor, had recommended a trial for a fare schedule that in addition to raising the pass to $2.25 would increase cash fares to 15 cents and tokens to 4 for 50 cents.

Before Heberle made his statement, PUC Counsel Lloyd B. Harrison asked him if his attack Tuesday on the return McElfresh estimated his schedule would bring was not based on "judgment rather than experience."

Briefs Due by May 24

Heberle admitted he knew of no city where a $2.25 pass is used. But his testimony, he said, was based on "judgment developed by experience."

The hearings concluded yesterday with a cross-examination of Heberle by Harrison and brief closing statements by opposing attorneys. They were given until May 24 to file briefs.

Yesterday's proceedings were just the reverse of Tuesday's. Then Heberle attacked figures presented by McElfresh. Yesterday Harrison sought to pick holes in Heberle's criticism.

Heberle and McElfresh are about $1,000,000 apart in their estimates of the annual net operating income McElfresh's fare schedule would bring in.

The difference results partly from computing for different time periods and partly from differing opinions on what are nonrecurring company expenses.

GSA Has Only 23,000 Clocks To Worry About as DST Starts

Daylight saving time in the District became official yesterday and operative today, which will be only 23 hours long, clockwise.

Those who took the Commissioners' order literally either stayed up until or got up at 2 a. m. today to set their clocks forward one hour, for that was when fast time became effective.

Others were more practical and turned in an hour earlier than usual, having set their clocks forward beforehand. They refused to lose that hour of sleep everybody talks about.

Because there was no such thing as the period from 2 a. m. to 3 a. m. today, the usual 24-hour day will be reduced to 23 hours as far as timepieces are concerned. But everything will be all right September 24 (a 25-hour day), when clocks will be set back an hour to return to Eastern Standard Time.

Nearby Virginia and Maryland areas have joined hour, minute and second hands with the District.

One outfit with about as much time on its hands as any early today was General Services Administration.

It had 23,000 clocks to worry about in all local governmental buildings except the Capitol.

Of these, about 600 had to be set forward by hand. Many were changed by "program control," a system whereby electric impulses speed up clocks by an hour within the span of a few minutes. Others operate from a "master clock," plugged into a central electrical system, which was stopped at 7 p. m. (EST) yesterday and restarted at 7 a. m. (DST) today.

Effects of the change were felt everywhere but particularly in the transportation industry, which will continue to operate on standard time.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad announced that a new schedule for its commuter trains will become effective at 12:01 a. m. today.

Commuters on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad between the District and Baltimore will ride on trains scheduled on standard time but running an hour later to conform to daylight hours in the two cities.

Creation of Park Authority Asked for Northern Virginia

A special northern Virginia committee, set up to study the problem of a comprehensive regional park program, yesterday recommended establishment of a Virginia-National Capital Park Authority.

The park authority could be set up through adoption of ordinances by Falls Church, Fairfax County, Arlington, and Alexandria, according to the committee, which represents the four communities.

The committee also recommended enactment of congressional legislation for financial aid to a northern Virginia park program through the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

In its report, the committee pointed out that the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission is now authorized to receive 1.5 million dollars in grants and three million dollars in loans through the NCPPC.

The Virginia Park Authority, if established, could condemn land for park use, with the approval of the four local governing bodies, the committee said.

Prompt action on a regional park program is necessary, the committee warned, since desirable park sites will soon disappear, or become much more expensive.

Present population of the four communities, which cover about 451 square miles in all, totals 348,000 persons, according to the committee report, and is still expanding.

"There are no parks located within this entire area, other than Arlington's Lubber Run and Glen Carlyn, with a total of 57 acres, and the parkway along the Potomac River," the report stated.

A northern Virginia park program would increase land values in the area and result in higher tax revenues to the communities involved, the report argued.

Members of the committee are: C. B. Runyon, Alfred E. Frisbie, Bertram Gross, Edward Kelly and Samuel McCrary.

Senate Group Backs Bridge 'In Vicinity of' E. Capitol St.

A Senate District Subcommittee yesterday took an afternoon look at the Anacostia River, and decided promptly the next bridge to cross it should be located in the vicinity of East Capitol st.

Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.), subcommittee chairman, announced the group's decision to indorse the House-approved bill to speed construction of the East Capitol Street Bridge as requested by the District Commissioners.

A single change was ordered in the House version—to make the location of the bridge "in the vicinity of" instead of "in line of" East Capitol st.

Senator Hunt said this change will give the Commissioners more leeway to adjust the approaches of the bridge to keep them from cutting up the area reserved for a sports center—a tract near the District Armory, where East Capitol st. reaches the west bank of the Anacostia.

Hunt said he felt the sports area should be preserved. He opposed the idea of a bridge at Massachusetts ave.—sought earlier by Federal planning and parks officials—because it would slice through the Gallinger Hospital grounds.

Subcommittee members who visited the bridge site were Chairman Hunt, Senators J. Allen Frear, jr. (D., Del.) and Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N. J.). With them were Gerhard van Arkel, District Committee counsel, and J. George Stewart, clerk to the District Committee minority. Also in the party were officials of the District government, Federal Bureau of Public Roads, National Capital Park and Planning Commission and National Park Service.

Reed Pond Heads Area Schools Group

10th Birthday

Lane Speaks To County Civic Group

Gov. W. Preston Lane, jr., complimented the Queens Chapel Civic Association last night for its "sense of civic consciousness" in helping to win "a war which is cold and unseen."

At the group's tenth anniversary celebration, attended by 300 persons at the Prince Georges Golf and Country Club, Lane spoke on a program with Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (R., Md.).

The Governor compared the association's part in governmental affairs to that of the State in early colonial efforts to form "a strong and free government."

"This same spirit now prevades such civic associations as this in their realization of a need to do well for themselves, for others and for their country," Lane declared.

He said the country's "fight for its life" in the cold war is being aided by civic groups, who "have been willing to make sacrifices to provide superior educational facilities."

Maryland now ranks second in the Nation in public education, having jumped from "the low forties in three years," Lane said.

Crestwood

The Crestwood Citizens Association held its final meeting of the season at Roosevelt High School, 13th and Upshur sts. nw., last night.

A nominating committee was formed to report on association officers at the next meeting, October 4. A film on Hawaii was also shown.

McKenney Hills

Commander Clarence J. Barry was elected president of the McKenney Hills Citizens Association last night at the group's final meeting until fall.

Other officers named were: Harry Love, vice president; Richard Browne, treasurer, and Mrs. Colin L. Michael, secretary. The meeting was held in the VFW Building, Silver Spring.

Washington Highlands

Elmer Hallowell of 125 Forrester st. sw., was elected president of the Washington Highlands Citizens Association last night.

Also elected were Charles W. Price, first vice president; Maury T. Warren, second vice president; Ralph Cushman, treasurer; Mrs. Bernice Ramsey, recording secretary, and Thomas T. Waugh, corresponding secretary.

Joseph V. Moran and William J. Hudgins were elected delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations at the meeting in the Patterson School.

In resolutions adopted, the group asked for all-day bus service over the South Capitol Street Bridge; asked for better street lighting at Nichols ave. and Atlantic st. sw., and sent a request to the Recreation Department for a full time male assistant director for the Fort Greble Playground this summer.

Reed K. Pond, Arlington, civic leader, last night was elected chairman of the Maryland-Virginia Citizens Committee for the public schools.

The organization, formerly known as the Metropolitan Area Citizens Committee for the public schools, was formed recently to deal with area-wide problems affecting the schools.

Mrs. Wells Harrington, vice president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers and mayor of Greenbelt, was named vice chairman.

Mrs. Paul Hutchings, chairman of the citizens advisory committee on audio-visual aids for the Arlington schools, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Pond, who is chairman of the Citizens Committee for School Improvement in Arlington County and vice president of the Arlington County Civic Federation, succeeded Mrs. Eugene Meyer as chairman of the organization. Mrs. Meyer, wife of the chairman of the board of The Washington Post, had been acting chairman since the group was organized.

Mrs. Ben B. Baylor, newly appointed member of the Montgomery County school board, was named at last night's meeting to head the group's legislative committee. Mrs. Baylor is education chairman of the Maryland State division of the American Association of University Women.

Named chairman of the rules and procedures committee was Dr. Keith Harder, who heads up the Prince Georges County Board of Education advisory committee.

Last week the citizens committee was host at a national conference held at Western High School to promote two bills introduced in Congress by Representative Clevland M. Bailey, (D., W. Va.). The bills would provide Federal aid for school construction, maintenance and operation in communities where military or civil activities of the Federal Government have created unusual school problems.

The meeting, held last night at the Meyer home, 1624 Crescent pl. nw., expressed its appreciation to Mrs. Meyer for her aid in setting up the organization.

Shrine Blessed on Campus . . .

The Washington Post

ON FEAST DAY—Four-foot figure of Christ, carved in Switzerland, erected on the east campus of Dunbarton College and the Academy of the Holy Cross, 2935 Upton st. nw., was blessed in ceremonies yesterday, the Feast of the Finding of the Holy Cross. At the shrine, (from left) Marguerata Pizano, Annette Bagnache, Margaret Dillon, Maureen McNerney, Cecelia McDonaugh, Cynthia Courtney and Betty de Montfredy. An outdoor shrine in honor of Christ was blessed yesterday on the east campus of Dunbarton College and Holy Cross Academy, 2935 Upton st. nw.

The Very Rev. Clement Kearney, professor of philosophy at Dunbarton College, solemnly blessed the shrine. Students of the college and academy participated in the service.

Blessing of the shrine was held on the feast of the Finding of the Holy Cross, which marks the anniversary of the discovery of the cross by St. Helena in 326 A. D.

The feast day has special significance for Dunbarton College and Holy Cross Academy, which are conducted by Sisters of the Holy Cross.

The shrine is a memorial to all religious and lay persons who have worked for the schools.

The cornerstone of the old Holy Cross Academy, founded in 1879 and formerly at 1312 Massachusetts ave. nw., has been moved from the front campus of the school to a spot near the shrine.

15,000 Grottos To Convene Here June 7 to 9

About 15,000 Grottos, members of the Mystic Order of the Veiled Prophets, will hold its first Washington convention June 7-9 at the Statler Hotel.

Frank B. Jones, of Youngstown, Ohio, grand monarch of the Masonic group, arrived in Washington to plan the convention with members of the local Kallipolis Grotto.

Jones conferred with Kallipolis monarch William E. Doolan and Dave Tuckman, co-chairmen of the convention. The grand monarch predicted "some of the most colorful marching units Washington ever will see."

Country Doctor Turns Tables on 'Patients in Need'

Forsyth, Ga., May 3 (AP).—A country doctor who has spent a lifetime as a friend indeed to those in need, today appealed to his patients as a friend in need.

This notice by Dr. R. H. Bramlett, sr., appeared in the current issue of the Forsyth County News:

"I am now up against a serious problem. Have been in the hospital for three weeks and must undergo a serious operation which I may not survive. I am now asking your aid, like you asked mine thousands of times.

"Do you remember how good you felt when maybe snow covered the ground or in all other kinds of bad weather, when you heard my voice say, 'I will come?'

"Now, my friends, I am asking you to come and pay me the small fees charged you for my services.

"You might do better to settle with me than with my administrator. Please don't disappoint me, my friends, for I love every one of you."

Science Keeps You Young

Backbone of Youth Is Upright Posture

This is the fourth in a series of 12 articles on keeping young.

By Ida Jean Kain

BARBARA STANWYCK . . . looks to her posture and keeps vitally young by refusing to 'settle' for a slump

THE BACKBONE of young middle age is upright posture. In a slump, posture grows middle-aged in the middle and old from the shoulder blades up. The typical picture of old age, back bent, shoulders rounded, is not the result of age itself, but of years of habit. Even if we live to be a hundred, we need not bow down with age.

The secret is to have a good posture through the prime of life. In straightening up, get off to the right start. Don't stiffen. Associate posture with balance, ease of motion and freedom from strain. In proper alignment, posture is self-supporting with no straining at the connections.

You may contend that it is tiring to sit and stand straight, and that it feels more comfortable to slump. Actually it is far more tiring to slump, for the wrong muscles are straining to carry on a job intended for other muscles.

Poor Posture Adds on Years

ONE column isn't long enough to list the troubles that can stem from poor posture. But even if I were to list them, it might not bring you to attention. So shock No. 1, coming up . . . Poor posture doesn't make you look your age—it makes you look older, years older!

Authorities claim that a youthful appearance can be preserved longer by using the body in good postures than by the use of cosmetics or by following the innumerable artificial devices for prolonging youth.

So here are the steps: the first is honest desire for good posture; second, get the right "feel"; third, put tone in certain muscles, and last and most important, practice good posture.

Keep Shoulders Relaxed and Down

TO GET the feel of the right line-up, stand with your back to the wall, heels about 2 inches out, with head, shoulders and hips touching the wall. To center the pelvis (which is the center of gravity as far as the balanced line-up of the figure goes), pull up strongly with the middle muscles and contract the hip muscles. Keep shoulders relaxed and down. Now walk away from the wall, toes pointed straight ahead. That's young posture . . . it gives a lift.

One good thing leads to another. With the uplift through the middle, the chest is held high, the spine straight and the head up. Snug midsection control makes for buoyancy. You feel fine too. It's impossible to stand up and feel "down in the dumps" . . . for long anyway.

To sit pretty, and with the least effort, keep this same control through the middle. Sit with back of hips against back of chair and bend forward only at the hip joints, not in sections.

Trumans Steal the Show at Burtons' Party for Austins

By Marie McNair

JUSTICE AND MRS. HAROLD BURTON'S reception yesterday at the Congressional Club had the Warren Austins as guests of honor, and the Truman family came simply as guests!

Former Senator Austin, who now heads the United States delegation to U. N., and Mrs. Austin found a lot of old friends at yesterday's party. But it was President and Mrs. Truman and Margaret who stole the show.

Twenty minutes before the arrival of the Presidential family, the receiving line came downstairs from the big reception room to be on hand in the entrance hall. Mrs. Burton wore dark blue lace, ankle length, with jade green slippers and matching gloves and belt and a green orchid on her shoulder.

Mrs. Austin's gown of black chiffon was made with a low round neck and held at the sides with diamond clips, and a pair of fringed white orchids were tucked in at her belt.

First Lady Wears Black and Pink

MRS. TRUMAN'S black taffeta frock banded at the elbow of the sleeves in jet, was topped by a halo of pale pink buds and deep blue cornflowers. Margaret wore a blue-black frock and a scooped brim, pale pink hat covered in black veiling.

With her were her voice teacher, Metropolitan Opera star Helen Traubel, in private life Mrs. William Bass, and Mr. Bass.

The Marine Band kept up a lively obligato to tea time chatter. President Truman was the center of a ring-around-the-rosey-circle of guests wishing to shake his hand. Mrs. Truman had a smile for everyone, and said Margaret's going back to New York on Friday and will return before the week's end. As Margaret received congratulations on her recent article in the Saturday Evening Post, the President beamed approval and hastily added that she didn't dare come home till that article was out. Margaret, it seems, had turned author without parental approbation.

Diplomats, Officials Join Gathering

DIPLOMATS, dignitaries and dowagers, you could count them by the scores at this pleasant party. Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred Vinson were there, leaving immediately after the presidential party, to dress for dinner at Blair House. Mrs. Vinson, in swishing black taffeta, wore a hat fashioned of white lilacs which trailed over one ear and sported a white bow.

Saw the French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet, and Mme. Bonnet, giving and getting a heartwarming kiss from both the Austins. The Ecuador Ambassador and Senora de Dillon, a tiny figure in severe black, were there, and others from the "corps diplomatique" were the Greek Ambassador and Mme. Dendramis; the Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Berckemeyer, and the Egyptian Ambassador and Mme. Abdul Rahim.

Other guests were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Robert Taft, with pink flowers on her hat; the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles Brannan, Mrs. Oscar Chapman, wife of the Secretary of the Interior who was with Mrs. James Murray; the Swiss Minister and Mme. Bruggmann, the Indonesian Ambassador and Mme. Sastroamidjojo, whose bright peacock blue and gold sari added luster to an already gay scene.

The Chinese Ambassador and Mme. Koo came in just as the Trumans, after a half hour's stay, were on their way out.

Mrs. Perle Mesta was there in a lilac colored hat. Then there were Mme. Boheman, wife of the Swedish Ambassador; the New Zealand Ambassador and Lady Berendsen, and Mme. Malik, wife of the Lebanese Minister.

Mrs. Conger Pratt—the effervescent Sadie—was introducing "the best looking man in the room"—Hermann Sartorius of New York. Robert Lincoln O'Brien came with his bride on his arm, and I saw White House social secretaries, Mrs. James Helm and Miss Reathel Odum, together; Miss Carolina Nabuco, sister of the Brazilian Ambassador; Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, fairly sparkling in an ankle-length black gown with varicolored stones appliqued in a yoke effect, a striped satin hat in pale pink and green.

And—Judge and Mrs. Ernest Van Fossan, Gen. and Mrs. Gordon Young, Mrs. Wade Haislip, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. George McGhee, chatting with President Truman while he downed a glass of orange juice and nibbled on a cake.

With two tea tables going—one in the alcove, the other in the dining room — there were four sets of assistants. Mrs. Clarence Hancock "was in charge of" Mrs. Fred Vinson, Mrs. Hugo Black, Mrs. Felix Frankfurter, Mrs. William O. Douglas and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone.

Mrs. Charles Dewey "managed" Senator Margaret Chase Smith, Mrs. Robert Taft, Mrs. Owen Brewster, Mrs. Eugene Millikin, Mrs. John W. Bricker and Mrs. Edward Martin.

Mrs. Robert Hale and Mrs. Walter Brehm were other tea table assistants.

Asked to be "roving aides" were Mrs. Homer Ferguson, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Mrs. John Williams and Mrs. Clifford Davis.

Last evening the Austins were honor guests at a dinner party given by the Dominican Ambassador and Senora de Thomen at the embassy.

Other guests were the Australian Ambassador and Mrs. Norman O. Makin, the Ambassador of India, Mme. Pandit; Justice and Mrs. Harold Burton, John Sherman Cooper, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Edward G. Miller, the Governor of the Central Bank of the Dominican Republic, Jesus Maria Troncoso; Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, the Minister-Counselor of the Dominican Embassy and Senora de Vega.

Dr. Mann to Entertain at Zoo for Geographers

DR. WILLIAM M. MANN, director of the Zoo, and Mrs. Mann will give a breakfast Sunday at the Zoo restaurant for members of the Society of Woman Geographers who are in Washington to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization. Mrs. Mann, who has accompanied her husband on his animal collecting expeditions and who has written entertaining books about them, is herself a member of the society and its former vice president.

Following the breakfast Dr. and Mrs. Mann will take their guests on a personally conducted tour, which will be enlivened by their comments on the newest acquisitions. Specialists themselves on birds, beasts and fish in their native habitats, the woman geographers are looking forward to this day as one of the high spots in a memorable weekend.

On Saturday night, the gold medal of the Society of Woman Geographers will be presented to an outstanding member at the anniversary dinner.

Dinner at Blair House

President Honors Pakistan Guests

THE PRIME MINISTER OF PAKISTAN, Liaquat Ali Khan, and his wife the Begum Liaquat Ali, caught their first glimpse of Washington yesterday from the air as they flew in from London in President Truman's personal plane, the Independence. Last night they were guests of President and Mrs. Truman at Blair House, and honor guests at a dinner given by the President and First Lady.

Today the distinguished visitors and their entourage will move to Prospect House in Georgetown, to be there until they leave Saturday for New York.

Miss Margaret Truman, here for a brief stay from New York, was included among her parent's 18 dinner guests. In addition there were the Foreign Secretary of Pakistan, Mohammed Ikramullah; Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred Vinson; the Pakistan Ambassador and Madame Ispahani, the Speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn; the Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson, Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Mrs. Connally; Stanley Woodward, Chief of Protocol (now Ambassador-designate to Canada) and Mrs. Woodward; Mrs. Perle Mesta, United States Minister to Luxembourg, and Helen Traubel, Margaret Truman's voice teacher, with her husband, William Bass.

Guests at this dinner were "a little bit crowded," was the explanation for the size of the dinner—20 at table including the hosts. Until this week state dinners at Blair House, where the dining room is small, have been confined to 16.

At luncheons, Mrs. Truman has been able to seat 18 by substituting smaller gilt chairs for the formal ones used on state occasions. Although last night's party was a state occasion socially, the gold chairs were put in service—and two more of them than usual. This seating arrangement was tried first on Tuesday night when the President and Mrs. Truman seated 20 at a dinner in honor of Mrs. Mesta.

Gen. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Haislip, former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph Davies, Mme. Rosso, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, Mrs. Max Truitt, Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, and Mr. and Mrs. Lars Christensen and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lie of New York.

Vice Admiral Emilio Ferreri, Chief of Staff of the Italian Navy, who's spending a week or more in Washington before touring the United States, was the guest in whose honor the Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. Forrest Sherman entertained at dinner last evening.

The Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani were in the company, and among others were Admiral Carlo Francesco Tallarige who accompanied Admiral Ferreri; and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air and Mrs. John F. Floberg.

The Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Charles Sawyer gave a farewell dinner last evening at their home in Georgetown for the retiring Undersecretary of Commerce and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke entertained a small group at dinner last evening for Mrs. Giles Whiting of New York who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield Taylor. Mrs. Brooke's son, E. Bates McKee, who is also here from New York, was in the company.

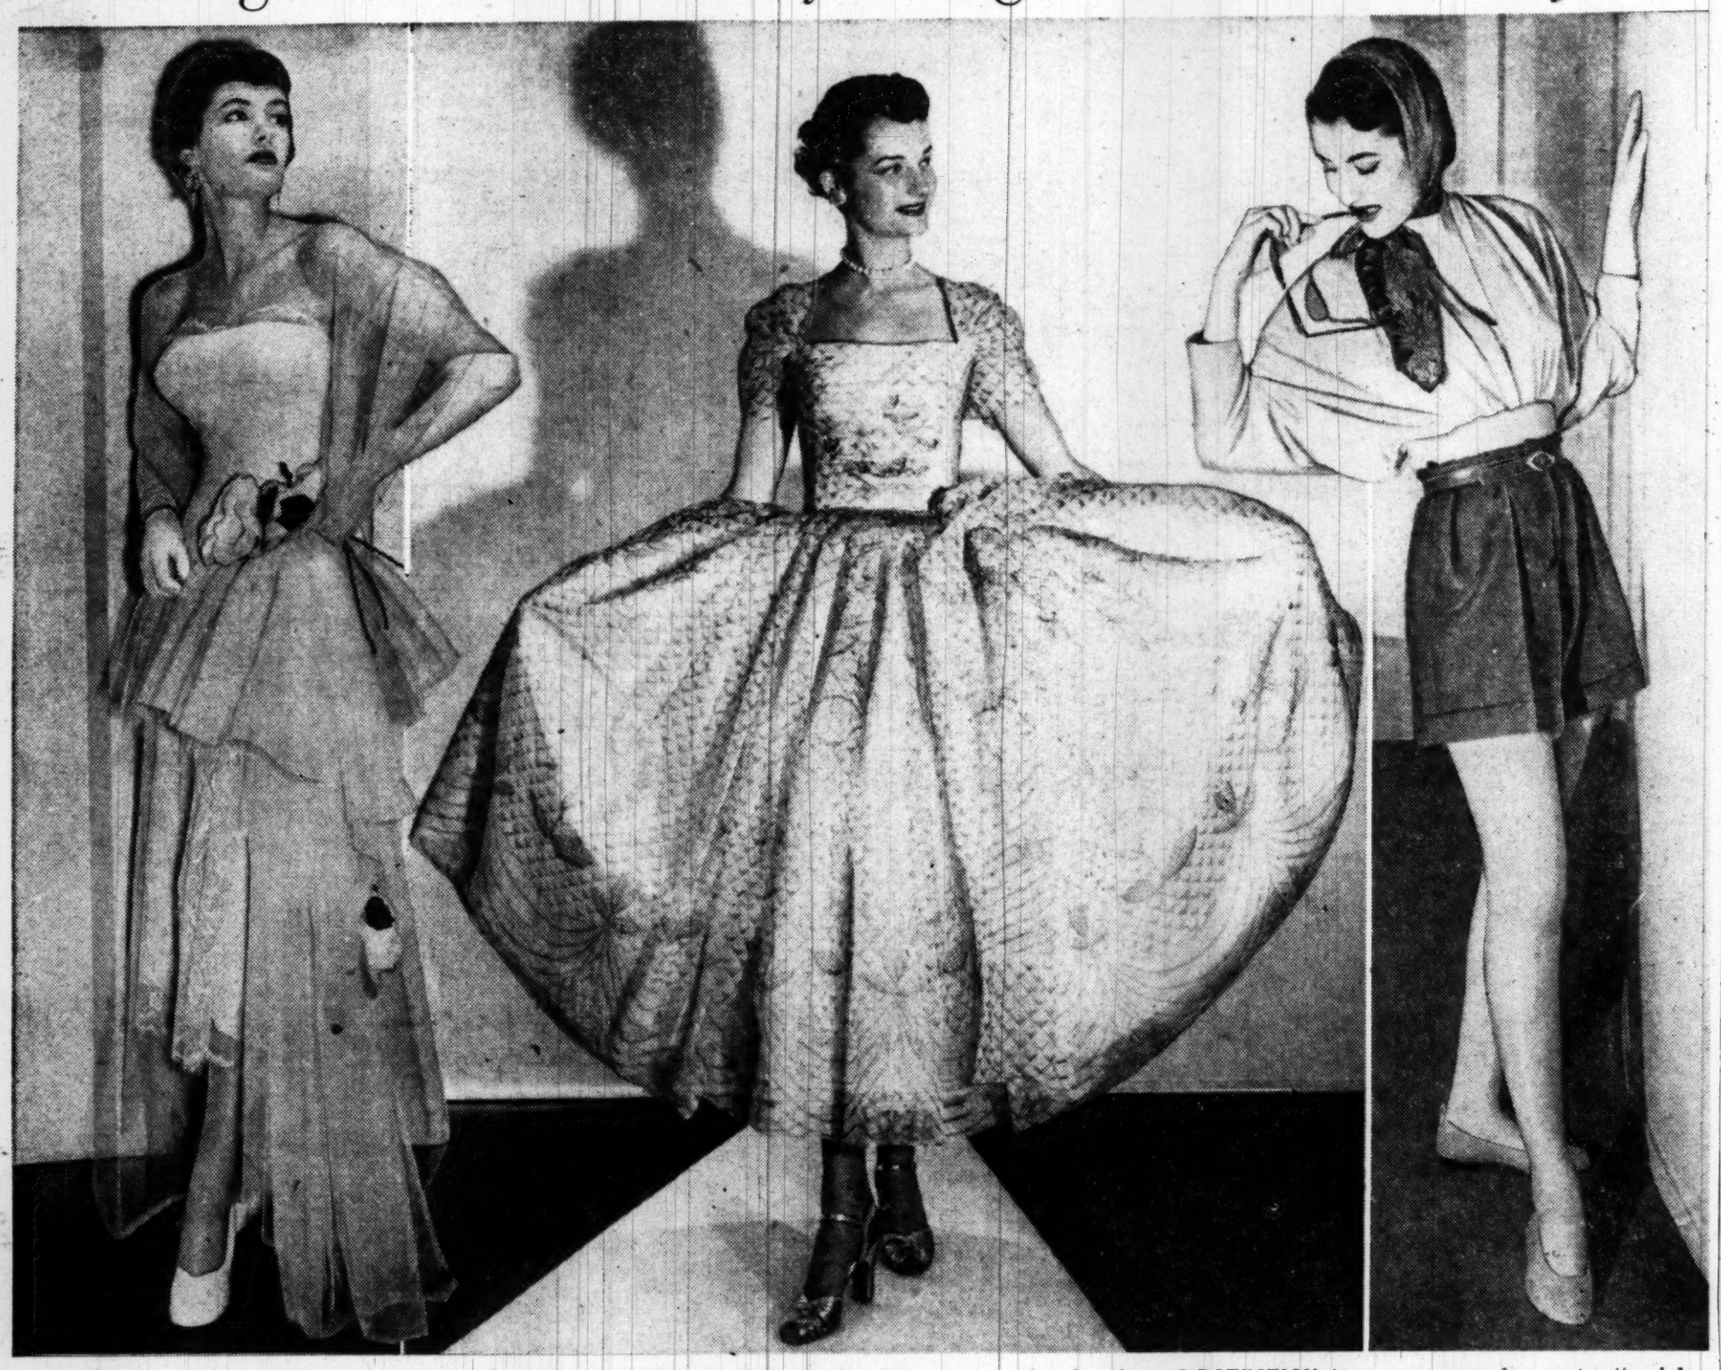
Charming Summer Fashions for Virginia's Hunt Country



SUMMER fashions for Virginia Hunt Country society will be presented Friday afternoon when new designs from outstanding American and French stylists will be shown at a benefit party in Middleburg. Proceeds from the show, which will take place at 4 p. m. at the Middleburg Community Center, will go to the Mary D. Neville Guild of the Trinity Episcopal Church of Upperville, Va. Fashions will be from Garfinckel

For formal evening wear, a strapless gown of lace over silk crepe will be shown. The net peplum of this creation by Irene falls in a drape on one side with rose accents, and the net stole is fastened to the waist with another cluster of roses. Long kid gloves complete the costume. Mrs. Kingsman Douglass, the former Adele Astaire, and one of the Nation's "ten best dressed," will be commentator for the stlye show. Mrs. Douglass also will present the prizes for the afternoon, including a weekend for two at Virginia Beach, another weekend at Ocean City, Md., and a Hattie Carnegie hat

YARDS and yards of silk chiffon were gathered and tucked to create this gay summer afternoon frock by Adrian. Wide tucks cover the bodice, and the skirt and dropped sleeves are fashioned from generous gathering. It's one of the many American and French styles from Garfinckel's to be shown at the May Fashion Preview Friday at the Middleburg (Va.) Community Center. Mrs. George R. Slater is chairman of the benefit fashion show, and Mrs. Langhorn Wiley, the vice chairman. Patronesses include Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan, Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler, Mrs. William Rust, Mrs. Harry Byrd, Mrs. W. H. Lipscomb and other prominent members of Hunt Country society.

PROTECTION from gusty ocean breezes is offered by this comfortable bloused jersey jacket by Clare Potter. The yellow jacket, worn over a sun bra, is a perfect companion for green linen shorts and burlap ballet slippers. The costume, available at Garfinckel's, will be shown at the Middleburg (Va.) Community Center Friday, 4 p. m. Tickets for the show may be purchased from Mrs. George Slater at West View, Upperville, Va. Proceeds will go to the Mary D. Neville Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church in Upperville. The party also will include music by Devron of Washington, and a singing accordionist will entertain during the tea hour following the fashion show

Russell Sage Recognizing Miss Fosdick

Troy, N. Y., May 3.—Miss Dorothy Fosdick, only woman member of the State Department's policy planning staff, will receive an honorary degree at the thirty-third commencement of Russell Sage College here on Sunday, June 4. She will receive a degree of Doctor of Laws.

Lynn Fontanne, the actress, will receive a degree of Doctor of Letters.

Miss Fosdick, who studied at Smith College and Columbia University, joined the State Department's Division of Special Research in 1942 and served with the American delegation at the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, the San Francisco Conference, United Nations Preparatory Commission in London, and United Nations General Assemblies. She was one of six "women of the year" honored recently in Washington by the Women's National Press Club.

Wife Begs Divorce to Wed Husband's Brother, Then Decides to Patch Things Up With Husband, Who Is Disturbed by Her Conflicts and Tears

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Nell and I have been married 29 years and have three children. Two are married and the youngest is in school. My wife is 46 and I am 51. We have had a happy married life and a good sex relationship. But I find we have a problem that is too deep for me.

Recently I learned that my younger brother Bill, twice married and the father of five children, has been in love with my wife for 18 years, and she with him, it appears. Bill first married two years after I did and had three children. Later he parted from his wife, lived single for about eight years, then married again and had two more children. Between marriages he came to see us every chance he got, seemed to think a lot of me, and I thought he loved Nell like a sister.

Some years ago I went into business about 50 miles from Bill's home, and he continued his weekly visits. I thought it was because he loved both of us in a brotherly way; but two months ago he asked his wife for a divorce and Nell asked me for a divorce, so they could be married.

Brother's Wife Takes Him Back

After several days' pleading with Nell not to leave, I finally decided to let her go, and she set forth to another city to get the divorce. About 150 miles from home she changed her mind, returned and begged me to take her back. Loving her as I do, I did. Bill also asked his wife to take him back and she did.

Now Nell says she still loves Bill and always will; but he says he is tired of being a coward and a sneak and wants to prove to his wife that he loves her.

After Nell came back I decided never to give her a divorce to marry Bill and break up two homes. However, I don't want her to stay here against her will and have asked her to leave if she doesn't love me; but she says she still loves me, although not as she loves my brother. He can never come to my home again, and I will not live with Nell if I ever catch her trying to see or talk to him.

She says she is trying to forget him, but she will talk about him to anyone who will talk to her, and I have caught her crying several times. Will you please tell us what to do. I have tried to get her to consult a psychiatrist, but she won't; so I hope you can help us. C. J.

Romantic Crisis Is Safely Past

DEAR C. J.: It seems to me that the situation has begun to settle itself, provided you don't gum the works by getting too executive about Nell's future conduct.

The family upheaval surely means that Nell and Bill had been considering partnership for years. And now that they've had a fling at breaking ground for it, and themselves voluntarily abandoned the idea as too costly to peace of mind, I think the romantic crisis is safely past.

Thus it seems unnecessary, also imprudent, for you to talk tough to Nell in the wake of her tearful, confused return home. If you begged her to stay in the first place, and were impelled by love to take her back, it doesn't make sense, nor will it reknit harmony, to take a mailed-fist attitude now.

Large Spirit Saved Marriage

INSTEAD of giving orders about how she is to feel and what she is to do to earn your tolerance hereafter, it is better to go on being your usual kindly large-minded, decent self, because this real manliness was the drawing power that saved her from folly at the eleventh hour. And it isn't manly to act the bully in any way, when you find yourself with the winning hand.

However, your decision never to give her a divorce is another matter. In view of your brother's unstable record and her own uncertainty, it seems a wise policy. If she won't discuss her conflicts with a psychiatrist, why don't you? It would help clear your head for constructive leadership in the readjustment period. As I see the picture, you are the strong key-figure in the situation, and it seems almost more important for you to get your bearings, than to wait around for her to "find" herself. M. H.

'They're Bursting'

Male Peacock Sets a New Fashion Pace

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, May 3 (AP).—Paris and New York designers are getting a boost from Vincent Price in their campaign for brighter clothes for men.

"Men are just dying to try new styles," says the lanky actor. "Just look around at all the bright-colored and flashy print shirts men are wearing. They're bursting for a chance to wear something different."

Price is helping the drive along with his current role in "His Kind of Woman." He plays a flamboyant movie star and his outfits include:

Innovation Tried

A "FETCHING" dinner jacket of bold plaid with midnight blue trousers and a cumberbund.

A hunting jacket with built-in cartridge holders and a suede patch for gun rest.

A pure white gabardine suit and silk shirt with Barrymore (extra long) collar.

A royal blue velvet smoking jacket with chartreuse trim, vertically pleated shirt with crepe tie.

"If men are ever going to rejuvenate their wardrobes, the time is now," the actor declared. "Why, until recently there hadn't been anything really new in men's clothes for 100 years.

Recalls His Youth

HE RECALLED his college days when he picked out a brand new size 42 suit and proudly displayed it to his father.

"Why, son," said the elder Price, "that's the same suit I wore when I went to college."

The actor said that men have been loath to alter their garb because of the expense.

"A man buys himself a suit that will last him a long time and one that he can wear everywhere. He couldn't afford to buy as often as women, because men's clothes are more expensive."

California is the logical place to start the crusade for brighter and more practical clothes, Price said.

"The men here have long worn sport clothes," he observed. "Informal and comfortable clothes are what they want."

Arise, men!

Basement Playroom a Boon to Youth But a Bane to Suffering Parents; Sound-Proofing Solves the Problem

DEAR ANNE:

We have a play room in the basement of our home and I must say that at the moment it is proving more of a bane than a boon. Our youngsters love it, but the noise from the room is annoying to everyone else in the house—and, of course, we hate to be continually calling them down for talking loudly, singing, etc. Can you give us some suggestions on sound-proofing the room?

L. T. S., Washington.

Basement rooms are likely to be noisy because of the reflection of sound waves by the hard surfaces of ceiling and walls. To check this, walls and ceiling can be covered with materials which absorb sound waves. These can be bought in large sheets or smaller blocks, to be attached to the surface by nailing or with cement. Thick fabric hangings will have the same effect. This treatment, by absorbing sound waves created within a room, will prevent their passage upstairs.

VISITING in Washington, Miss America of 1949, pretty Jacque Mercer, gives some suggestions about a "basic list" of linens to give a bride at a "cedar chest" shower. She is here to open the contest for Miss Washington of 1950.

At a shower given her before her own recent wedding, she says she received the following well-rounded assortment: Three top sheets, monogrammed; three percale sheets; six pillow cases; two winter blankets; three summer blankets; two bedspreads; one good linen dinner cloth; 12 linen napkins; one bridge cloth; 12 everyday napkins; 12 dish towels; 12 hand towels; 12 bath towels; matching wash cloths; 2 sets of cotton table mats, and one heavy woven set.

MISS AMERICA'S CEDAR CHEST

Miss Mercer will be interviewed over WWDC at 10 a. m. today along with Mary Jane Hayes, Miss Washington of 1949. Following the broadcast, entries will be received for the 1950 contest, which will send the winner to the Atlantic City Beauty Pageant. Miss Mercer will appear at the Hecht company later to give brides tips on linens and cedar chests.

Red Cross Appeal On A-Bomb Race Rejected Here

NYHT News Service

The United States yesterday indirectly rejected an appeal by the International Committee of the Red Cross asking all governments signatory to the Geneva Convention to take "all steps to reach agreement" on prohibition of atomic weapons.

Although the State Department had not yet received a copy of the letter from Red Cross headquarters in Geneva, Michael J. McDermott, department spokesman, was authorized to say that the United States was the first nation to propose "effective elimination" of atomic weapons, but that the plan had been frustrated by Soviet Russia.

The tone of the statement implied that this Government had done all it could to ban atomic warfare and was now resigned to a race with Soviet Russia in the production of atomic weapons.

Verdict Won By Boy Hurt Under Truck

A District Court jury verdict was on file yesterday awarding $500 damages to Peter A. Anselmo, 3109 28th st. se., and $5000 to his 7-year-old son Michael who was injured two years ago in a fall from a truck.

The jury returned the verdict against the Pyle Motor Co., Inc., of 3600 Branch ave., Silver Hill, Md., and Harry Corbin, a company truck driver, late Tuesday night before Judge Richmond B. Keech.

According to testimony, Corbin, driving a tow truck, picked up equipment at a playground at Knox st. se., between Irving and 28th sts. se., on May 18, 1948. Three blocks away, as Corbin was leaving, Michael fell off the running board and the truck's rear right wheel ran over the boy, fracturing his pelvis.

Daniel L. O'Connor, attorney for Anselmo, contended 7 or 8 children had hopped on the truck as it drove away, but Michael was the only one aboard when the accident happened.

Corbin testified he had stopped three times to chase the children away, and did not know Michael was still hanging on.

O'Connor insisted that if Corbin had stopped his truck several times, he was negligent in not ascertaining that the children were standing at a safe distance when he started up.

Remington to Go Before Committee Again Thursday

William Walter Remington, Commerce Department official, will appear Thursday before the House Un-American Activities Committee, which is investigating his loyalty record.

Remington was suspended from a post in the Commerce Department in July, 1948, and was reinstated eight months later after he was cleared by the Federal Board of Loyalty Review. Committee Chairman John S. Wood has said new evidence has been uncovered in the case.

Wood has asked President Truman's Loyalty Review Board to reopen the case.

However, Seth W. Richardson, Loyalty Board chairman, said the case could be reopened only after the FBI has "reviewed any new evidence."

Goucher Profs Polish the Apple Of Their Students

Baltimore, May 3 (AP).—Any girl at Goucher College can have a professor shine her shoes, make her bed, or wash her car the next few days—for a price.

The faculty has put itself up on the slave block for the highest bidder. The idea is to raise a $2500 student contribution to the endowment of the girl's college.

The auction is this morning.

Not all the chores the professors have agreed to do are menial.

For example, Dr. Otto F. Kraushaar, Goucher president, offers himself for rent as "house mother for a day" and as a dancing partner at the May hop Saturday night. Several faculty members offered up themselves unflinchingly for the latter ordeal.

Four more offered to compete in a bubble gum blowing contest and four others will sing some barbershop harmonies. They even offered not to sing, if the price is right.

Woman Trainer Hurt as Panther Escapes on Ship

Bangkok, Thailand, May 3 (AP).—A black panther broke from its cage aboard ship in Bangkok harbor today, clawed a New York woman wild game collector and two other persons, and terrorized the crew for four hours before it was slain.

Genevieve Cuprys, 25, noted animal handler, was knocked down and clawed. Her right arm was badly torn.

Miss Cuprys had just superintended the loading of eight elephants, the panther, three leopards, 105 monkeys, 15 pythons, 4 crocodiles and a number of oriental birds.

Sanitary Board Asks Notice Of Projects

The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission yesterday urged citizens to confer with its staff before entering on storm drainage projects. Thereby it hoped to prevent repetitions of the situation now facing residents of Riverdale Heights.

A group from Riverdale Heights Tuesday asked the Prince Georges County Commissioners for relief from "exorbitant" assessments for storm drainage.

WSSC Chairman Dwight B. Galt threw cold water on the prospects of any relief being realized from a conference between the WSSC and the County Commissioners.

"The Commission regrets that hope has seemingly been held open to the people of Riverdale Heights by action of the County Commissioners that they might still obtain help from the Commission," he said. "The matter has been thoroughly explored and all parties concerned, including the County Commissioners, have been repeatedly informed the reasons why the Commission cannot participate in the payment of expenses of the project."

The Riverdale Heights work on eight streets in the special improvement area, was done by private contract let by the county commissioners. It was completed last spring.

Galt declared it is "readily apparent that the commission could not possibly entertain proposals to pay for work constructed without its authorization."

He added that if aid were granted in this case, "numerous townships, corporations and individuals would then be in a position to claim some adjustment which is not possible considering the limited funds available for storm drainage work."

Pelkisson Identified in Warring Case

Police Chief Robert Barrett announced yesterday that two witnesses to the now-famed "secret holdup" of Emmitt Warring have positively identified the third gunman in the case.

He is Arthur Pelkisson, 40, held in New York.

Barrett said the two witnesses—Warring's brother-in-law, William P. Cady, and a maid in the house, Louise Enos—made the identification in New York.

Barrett said this rounds up the out-of-town "hoods" who last January 9 staged a holdup in the home of Warring, reputed kingpin of Washington gamblers.

The other two are Sidney Stromberg, 32, held at Pottsville, Pa., after confessing to a slaying in 1948 near Pottsville, and Malcolm Epstein, 40, held in Pittsburgh for a long series of robberies, holdups and larcenies.

According to police investigatotrs the three gained entrance to Warring's home by posing as deliverymen. They beat and bound Cady, locked the maid in a closet, then wainted 2½ hours for Warring so that he could open a wall safe that contained about $20,000 in cash.

Bay Stater Wins Md. U. Campus Office

Fred E. Stone, a junior from Salem, Mass., led an Ideal-Old Line Party sweep in the University of Maryland student government elections yesterday.

Stone

The 27-year-old pre-dental major was elected president of the Student Government Association by a 500-vote margin over Ted Shackley of West Palm Beach, Fla., heading the ABC ticket.

Over 3000 votes were cast in the annual balloting which saw the coalition party take every office on the slate.

Elmer Wingate of Baltimore was elected president of the senior class; Frank Wright of Takoma Park, president of the junior class, and Charlie Kehne of Buckeytown, president of the sophomore class.

The university's usual primary was done away with this year when the Old Line and Ideal parties combined against the ABC forces. Forty-six campus posts were contested in the vote. All officers will take office in the fall.

Truman Requests Approval of Pact On Niagara River

President Truman saked the Senate yesterday to ratify a treaty between the United States and Canada establishing controls over use of Niagara River waters for power purposes.

The President, in a message to the Senate, urged the treaty's prompt consideration in order that more hydro-electric power ,badly needed in the United States and Canada, can be made available at the earliest possible time."

The President said the treaty would permit "development of substantial amounts of low-cost power, in an area of urgent need, without detriment to the scenic beauty of the falls."

"I believe it is a fair and wise treaty, which protects all legitimate interests and I recommend its approval by the Senate," Mr. Truman stated.

Psychiatric Aid to Courts Set on Foot

A panel of twelve District psychiafrists is to be chosen to aid courts here in their prosecution of Miller Act violators.

James D. Lasky, president of the Bar Association of the District of Columbia, said last night that representatives both of the legal group and the Medical Society of the District of Columbia met yesterday with District Court judges to discuss selection of the panel.

At Request of Fay

The meeting was scheduled at the request of United States Attorney George Morris Fay, and was held with Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws, of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, Lasky said.

His announcement was made at the first joint meeting of the two professional groups, held in the Medical Society auditorium.

He explained that under the plan worked out yesterday, the psychiatrists who are to be selected will receive fees of $25 for each examination, and $25 for each court appearance in cases involving sexual perverts prosecuted under the act. He explained that the doctors' services were not being compensated "at a phenomenal rate."

Need for Help

The Bar Association president said need for the added psychiatric help was pointed up by the fact that at present, District courts must rely wholly on two psychiatrists in Government pay, both of whom are stationed at Gallinger Hospital. They are Drs. Amino Peretti and Joseph L. Gilbert.

Those at the session also heard Dr. Leonard M. Elstad, president of Gallaudet College, describe some of the difficulties of the deaf with the English language.

'Horsenaping' Turns Out as Another Color

Two thoroughbred horses that were held as hostages for a romantic interlude between humans set Metropolitan Police, Prince Georges County Police and the American Polo Association on their respective ears yesterday.

It turned out, however, to be a case of "horsenaping" of a different color.

Mostly involved, police say, was the lady driver of a horse-van with two expensive horses in her care.

The value of the steeds were estimated—at various times—as high as $100,000.

The lady, named Charline, was entrusted to transport them from the Gulfstream Race Track in Florida to New Jersey's Garden Park.

But en route to New Jersey, police said, she stopped in Washington and became friendly with a barfender.

The two horses were then taken to a stable in Prince Georges County while the bartender messaged the president of the American Polo Association, William Todd, to send Charline more money or they'd never tell where the horses were.

Todd declined vigorously.

Todd called in police. Prince Georges County authorities located the two horses. Metropolitan Police found the truck at 4th and School sts. sw.

As it last stood, no charges were brought against the bartender—his threats weren't meanacing enough to warrant charges. The horses were on their way to race at Garden Park.

And the lady horse-van driver, by all legal accounts, was simply guilty of dalliance and dallying on the job.

W. Virginia Police Halt Canadian Hitchhikers' Tour

Charleston, W. Va., May 3 (AP).—Four Canadian teen-aged hitchhikers were being held here today for immigration officers.

Kenneth Kunkel, 19, spokesman for the quartet from Kitchener, Ontario, said "we were just thumbing around, seeing the country."

Detective Capt. Dewey E. Williams said the four had entered the country through Detroit last Sunday on a one-day visit to the city. The action requires no visa or passport.

Williams said the boys were picked up on loitering charges yesterday and their nationality discovered after Canadian money had been found in their pockets.

He identified the other three as Arthur Theodore Schnarr, Bertram Miller and Albert Clarence Mitchell, all 19.

Martin Completes 'Flying Stovepipe' Targets for Navy

Baltimore, May 3 (AP). — The Glenn L. Martin Co. announced today it has completed the first two "Flying Stovepipes" for the Navy to shoot at.

They can go as fast as jet fighter planes, can be maneuvered by radio from the ground, and have no pilot. Martin has a contract to build an undisclosed number for the Navy.

Small airplanes with a 10-foot wingspread, these KDM-1's carry a ram-jet engine, which looks like a length of stovepipe. They burn gasoline, generating a whoosh which drives the plane along.

The "Flying Stovepipe" is taken aloft by a mother plane, mounted beneath a wing, and then turned loose when the speed and altitude are right.

Man Is Held As Suspect In Holdup

Police yesterday afternoon arrested a 28-year-old man five minutes after he admittedly attempted to holdup the proprietor of a Northeast grocery store.

The suspect identified himself as Herschell Lee Holmes, 28, and said he lived at 249 11th st. se.

Holmes said he was a driver for a Washington laundry company funds and tried to recoup by staging the holdup.

Police said he entered the Community Delicatessen, 101 8th st. ne., and asked Isaac Rodgin, 55, the proprietor, for a candybar. When Rodgin turned to get it, police said, he was struck three times on the head with a pair of pliers.

Rodgin began to yell, detectives said, and his assailant fled.

From a description police got from a crowd that gathered outside the store, Pvts. Edward H. Plumb and William M. Rinehardt apprehended Holmes four blocks from the grocery.

Rodgin was treated at Casualty Hospital.

In another case, a tall, thin Negro robbed Abe Goldberg, 53, of $5 in his cleaning shop at 100 K st. nw., after beating him over the head.

Goldberg, who lives at 4319 3d st. nw., said the man came into his store and gave him a cleaning ticket. He was attacked, he reported, when he started to look at the receipt.

Goldberg was taken to Casualty Hospital with severe lacerations of the head. His condition last night was fair.

$1600 Loss Traced to 12 Bank Employes

By Kenneth L. Hall

CHAPTER FOUR

A few years ago the president of a large Eastern bank was trying to trace a loss of $1600.

In desperation, he called upon a comparatively untried but newly publicized device called the lie detector.

Fifty-four of the bank's employes were tested. Twelve gave reactions indicating guilt. Nine confessed. The purpling president fired all 12.

Then he decided to use the lie detector in testing candidates for the 12 vacancies. He got another shock. More than half the applicants had taken money from previous employers!

The general average of employe dishonesty is around 60 percent, according to lie detector tests in a few large companies. But this figure applies only to employes in positions to pilfer money or merchandise in small amounts without much danger of being detected.

That type of "employe dishonesty" isn't serious, from the standpoint of actual money losses.

But "big-time" embezzling is something else again. Here the risk as well as the "reward" is greater. Embezzling requires a warped kind of courage. Perhaps foolhardiness is a better word.

Some Are Foolhardy

Certainly the methods used by some embezzlers are foolhardy, to say the least.

Most embezzlers who dream up a way to separate an employer from his cash fondly believe they have hit upon something unique. Like a high-school Romeo who has just tasted his first kiss, they are certain they have discovered something never before known to ordinary mortals.

This attitude can be explained by the obvious fact that embezzlers usually are not able to compare notes with each other. However, the disillusionment always comes. Auditors probably have a higher percentage for "getting their man" than even th Northwest Mounties.

For 23 years bookkeeper Rodier played off-key tunes on his tabulator, managing to garner almost a quarter of a million dollars for his favorite charity—himself.

Rodier's private Marshall Plan was financed by a ridiculously simple device. He fed false figures into the machine.

Auditors accepted his tape figures until the company began to show mysterious decline in volume. Then it was decided to take off the balances themselves rather than accept the machine's figures.

Rodier was detected immediately. The shortage amounted to $214,563. When accused, he pulled from his desk a carefully kept record that jibed perfectly with the reported loss. For 23 years, Rodier had kept this record.

'Thought I Would Replace It'

"I thought I would replace it," he told bonding company investigators.

Exactly how, he did not explain. None of the money was apparently left. Rodier had recently allowed a life insurance policy to lapse. There was still a mortgage on his small home. He owned a medium-priced car. His bank balance was trifling. Where did the money go?

Where does most embezzled money go after it is embezzled?

A good portion of it goes on wine, women and horses. Or it may go toward keeping up with the Astors. (Embezzlers' tastes are usually too expensive for even the hard-to-keep-up-with Joneses.)

A recently front-paged case of keeping up with the well-heeled neighbors concerned Richard Crowe, assistant manager of a bank in the heart of Manhattan's financial district.

Married, the father of three children, he maintained an elaborate 11-room home in a fashionable section of Staten Island. He owned two cars, belonged to the better clubs, took his swims at a private beach, spark-plugged a good deal of civic and charitable work.

Took Off For Florida

Finally, when the whole intricate lie he was living became too much for him, he took off for Florida with $883,660 in cash and negotiable bonds.

He was apprehended by the FBI after an eight-day search ending in a bar at Daytona Beach, 1048 miles from New York as the Crowe flew.

Although the assistant bank manager had only a few dollars in his pocket when arrested, most of the money and bonds were eventually recovered.

There have been embezzlers of every degree of importance—from porters to presidents.

As recently as 1947, the sergeant at arms of the House of Representatives was found to be short $121,981.

When Republicans gained a majority in the House in 1946, after long years of control by the Democrats, they audited the books of Kenneth Romney, sergeant at arms, and found the deficit.

Among others involved in the case was a former Congressman.

A significant fact brought out during the investigation was that the books had not been audited since 1890, when a shortage of $75,000 was found. Previous to that, in 1830, a shortage of $7000 was recorded. The increasing amounts probably reflect the ascending cost of living since the days of Andrew Jackson.

Investigation of many thousands of embezzlements has proved one fact. There's a little larceny in the hearts of most men. The majority manage to keep it under control.

But those who don't control that impulse cost American business more than 400 million dollars annually—and ultimately cost themselves and their families an untold amount in disgrace and ruin.

Mere Blow on Pate Doesn't Faze Spade

By John Crosby

SAM SPADE is described on the program of that name (NBC 8 p. m. Sundays) as the "greatest private detective of them all" and his originator, Dashiell Hammett, as "America's outstanding detective writer." Sweeping as these claims are, they'd have a good chance of standing up in court, though, of course, there'd be strenuous objections from the Erle Stanley Gardner mob.

If you like tough private eyes, you might as well get an earful of the original one, which is what Spade is. The Spade caper, which sometimes threatens to revolutionize the speech habits of the Nation's young, is a fairly standardized operation, not necessarily a bad thing. At the very outset, the telephone rings. Effie, Spade's secretary, answers. Spade is on the other end.

"Scurry right down to the apartment, my love," commands Mr. Spade. "And bring along a recording of 'Bongo Bongo Bongo, I Don't Want to Leave the Congo,' two cups of coffee and two voodoo drums. We'll sit on the drums, play the record and drink the coffee."

Eyes Like Smoke

THE GREAT man always subjects Miss Effie to this kind of whimsy, but she has never quite grown used to it. "Oh, Sam!" she wails. Spade's odd, laconic requests take on some semblance of meaning when he gets down to describing his latest caper. It seems this girl—eyes like smoke, a sheath of satin, a calendar figure—walked into his office, unannounced. "Lie down," invites Spade, "we'll have a good talk."

"Drop dead," snarls the girl.

"I never argue with a redhead with a gun," Spade confides to the audience. "Blondes you can reason with. Redheads, no. So I dropped dead—or a reasonable facsimile. Unfortunately I tipped over the desk and also the redhead. Then we wrestled, an interesting experience.

Anyhow, that's typical of the Spade formula, a shrewd mixture of sex and violence. The redheads (or blondes or slinky brunettes) don't always walk into the story at the opening. Sometimes, Spade finds them bending over him when he opens his eyes, his head throbbing from the pistol butt blow he received on the noggin in the alley outside.

"I love those low cut dresses from this angle," murmurs Spade.

Hammett Collects

DASHIELL HAMMETT no longer has anything to do with Sam Spade beyond collecting a good deal of money each week. It is written by a number of Hollywood characters who have closely studied his style and, above all, the original story ingredients. While they can't match the old master, they do pretty well.

For one thing, the stories are fairly fresh and hold together remarkably well—as radio detective stuff goes. There are few holes in the plots. The thugs, the minor characters, even the unfortunates who get murdered are pungent, tough, and uniformly reprehensible, thus carrying out the Hammett theory that everyone has himself in mind at all times.

And the narration is about as brisk and laconic as it can get. One of my favorite bits concerned Spade trying to get into someone's room, where he had no business to be.

"Found the landlady, made the pitch, flashed the license, got the key."

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

This Time the Man Got The Last Word

The two old ladies in the '47 Dodge pulled up to the stop sign at 37th st. and Wisconsin ave. and waited for traffic to let them proceed.

The man in the '47 Buick pulled up a few feet behind them, and waited, too.

As the two cars stood there, the Dodge began to slide gently backward, down the hill. The fellow in the Buick saw what was happening and tooted his horn.

But it was too late. The two sets of bumpers came together with a clank, and though the Dodge hadn't been moving very fast, there was an appreciable jar.

Both old ladies piled out (to apologize, I supposed). I was as dumbfounded as the driver of the Buick when they teed off on him.

"The very idea," they huffed, "blowing your horn and deliberately ramming into us.

Couldn't you see we were stopped for Wisconsin ave. traffic?"

"Ladies," he protested, "I didn't hit you; you hit me. Your car was slipping backward."

"Nonsense," they replied almost in unison, "we were standing stock still."

The fellow who was driving the Buick shrugged in tacit admission of defeat.

"Okay," he said, "I rammed into you, deliberately; I'm ashamed of myself; and I apologize."

That squared everything, and both cars drove off.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Upright piano in need of tuning and minor repairs, for any worthwhile organization that will haul it away." (Glebe 4400, extension 993, noon to 6 p. m.)

"Seven puppies, mostly terrier." (Owens 5874.)

"Very friendly 8-month-old dog; part collie, part fox terrier." (Johnson 2-1795.)

"Use of nice garden plot, 50x100, off Colesville Pike, ready for planting." (Shepherd 9469.)

"Four-month-old male puppy, terrier mixture." (Union 1808 after 7 p. m.)

"Clean, well-mannered all-white male cat, 10 months old." (Dupont 3390.)

IN DEFENSE OF GSI

"Don't pick on GSI clam chowder just because there aren't any clams in it," protests Kathleen Chaimas of 1865 Park rd. nw. "After all, there's no cottage in cottage cheese."

Marty Brand, Dave Herbert, Sam Wright and Henry Foutz, just back from a trip to Philadelphia, report on another good eating place for vacationers. It's the Glasgow Arms Restaurant, at Glasgow, Del. "The food is as fine as any we've ever eaten," they say, "and the prices are reasonable."

Apparently I'm not the only one who finds the food tastier when the prices are low.

News reports tell us that Jimmy LaFontaine's estate contained four times as much cash as John D. Rockefeller's.

There must be a moral there someplace, and if you'll just let me be for a while, I'll try to figure it out.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Willie Hoppe's billiard exhibition at the National Press Club the other night came as no surprise to enthusiasts who have been watching Willie do the impossible for the past four decades.

But I, for one, was surprised to see former Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington give the great Hoppe such a good battle.

At one point, Governor Wallgren had just completed an excellent run of 25 when one of the kibitzers mused:

"Now why would a man like Wallgren want to fool around with politics when he could make a nice clean living in a pool hall?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

2 Dozen More Named by Budenz

By Drew Pearson

Former Communist Louis Budenz swung his red brush in a wide arc the other day and smeared two dozen more Americans as Communists, including a Marine hero and a famous editor.

Budenz

He delivered his new Red list behind closed doors to the Senate subcommittee investigating Senator McCarthy's charges. The only name that leaked out afterward was reported triumphantly by McCarthy on the Senate floor — Haldore Hanson. However, Senator McMahon of Connecticut disagreed with McCarthy.

The inside fact is, McCarthy depended upon Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa for his information, because the subcommittee refused to give McCarthy a copy of the secret minutes. In fact, the session was so secret that Chairman Tydings of Maryland asked Budenz to identify his list by numbers instead of names. However, the Senators got so mixed up with the numbers that Tydings finally agreed to let Budenz use names.

"I understood in light of the vote we took before lunch that this whole record is going to be secret, is it not?" demanded Senator Lodge of Massachusetts.

"I want to make this extra secret," agreed Tydings.

Haldore Hanson was named by Budenz in spite of Senator McMahon's public statement to the contrary. In fact, McMahon questioned Budenz sharply about Hanson, declaring:

"This rather surprises me, Mr. Budenz, because (Hanson) made about as forthright a statement as I have ever heard from a witness. He was never a member of any Communist-front organization of any kind or character. I want to say to you that the impression he made on me was excellent—fooled me completely."

Senatorial Quiz

Then the Senator from Connecticut began digging in: "Hanson is in the State Department at this minute working on the Point Four program, and I would like, therefore, to have you pretty carefully give your testimony on him."

Budenz insisted that his information on Hanson was "not gossip around headquarters but official information."

"I carried the name with me," Budenz added.

"Who gave it to you?" demanded McMahon.

"Well, as I recall at the moment, it was Jack Stachel," replied Budenz. He suggested that the committee give him time to browse through the files of the Daily Worker, however, in order to refresh his memory.

"In other words," summed up Tyding, "your information that this man is a Communist is based on oral evidence that you received from somebody else?"

"That is correct," admitted Budenz.

McMahon also wanted to know who on the list, besides Hanson, works for the State Department.

"I should say that very few are," replied Budenz.

Moscow Hates Tears

Budenz also tried to explain how Anna Louise Strong happened to be bounced out of Russia as a Communist spy.

"I don't think she was a spy, but I think she made some mistakes," he suggested. "You see, she disagreed with the Soviet leadership. They used to put her on the spot in Soviet Russia, and she would weep tears and go right out and repeat Stalin's lies. What can you do with a person like that? She would break down and take recourse in tears."

Though Budenz applied the Red brush freely, he let a few people off the Communist hook. When McMahon asked whether Philip Jessup had been a Communist, Budenz replied: "No, sir, not to my knowledge. I never heard him mentioned as a member of the party."

Wallace Exonerated

Budenz also stated flatly that "Henry Wallace is not a Communist," and that he knew "nothing about John Davies of the State Department."

Under withering cross-examination by Senator Green of Rhode Island, Budenz tried to explain his shifting back and forth between Catholicism and Communism.

"The Catholic Church has a great idea of redemption," he explained. "It's leaders—I am not comparing myself to them—but its leaders are people who reformed. St. Paul killed St. Stephen, the first martyr, and became a great Christian. St. Peter denied Christ. St. Augustine led a life of attacking the church and repented and joined it."

"But in all those cases," snorted Green, "they had not been Christian first and then apostate and then Christian."

Budenz still insisted that he was a "different man than five years ago."

"Admitting all that, I should think it would be difficult to change from one type of mind to another," retorted the Senator from Rhode Island.

CENTER MARKET CITY
... with Pat Parker
HAVEN'T YOU often wished that you could shop at Center Market City on Wednesday afternoons? Well, you can now, as we are open six full days a week. Formerly we closed on Wednesdays, but we found that a lot of you would like to shop on Wednesday afternoons—so now we're open. That means that the services of our great Market are now available every day except Sunday.
AND FOR your convenience, we operate two FREE PARKING LOTS. For those of you who like to bring the car down, buy for the entire week, we have two of these lots — one at K street, next to the Market, the other back of the Market on New York Avenue. They're both easily accessible, and they're both for you to use. There is no charge for parking for customers of the Market.
SINCE WE thought that almost every Washingtonian knew that Center Market City carried foods from all over the world, we're always a bit surprised when we get phone calls asking for certain products. That's why we wanted you to know that if you were one of the many people who called us about Polish hams — of course we have them!
J. Temin, at stands 445-447 has the REAL Polish ham. It's prepared under the supervision of the Polish government, packed in Poland and labeled in English in this country. These are the famous boneless cooked Polish hams, with all of the juices kept in. In case you've never tried Polish ham, you might want to investigate them, as their flavor is delightful.
KIELBASA, the famed sausage of Poland, is also available at the Market. C. Krogmann and Sons, just inside the K-street door, always has this sausage on hand. It's highly seasoned with spices and herbs, and different in flavor from the sausages of other countries.
Poles boil this sausage with cabbage, and often it is boiled with kale or spinach. Sometimes it is boiled, then browned in the oven and sliced in small chunks and eaten with black bread. But however you prepare it, it's a new taste thrill.
